

HOT POLITICS OUT OF RALEIGH

S. Noble, Jr., started out by prosecuting a number of Raleigh lawyers who had not paid their license fees. If suits against merchants and cafe owners haven't been filed in your town by this time you either live in a prosperous community or the suit-filers just haven't been able to get around to your town as yet.

BOYS, GET THE MONEY

If you want a little money you might organize your neighbors and start a drive on the State highway fund. At least you could join the crowd. At present the schools want some of the money collected from gasoline taxes; county commissioners want some; cities and towns want a bit for paving streets and the automobile tax reduction league wants some so as to cut gasoline and license tax. If there's any left you may get the toll taken off your bridge and the bumps and mud-holes in your own road repaired.

IT MAY BE A RACE—Clyde R. Hoey, Shelby's gift to the Democratic Party, and Congressman R. L. Doughton, have both signed-up for a long list of speaking engagements during the present campaign. Both are considered almost certain candidates for the gubernatorial nomination in 1936 and some of the political gum-shoes are wondering if these two prominent Democrats are conducting a get-acquainted campaign while driving a few tasks for the party's candidate this fall.

BADLY NEEDED

Western North Carolina Democrats wish that Senator Robert Rice Reynolds hadn't decided to go tripping off to Old Mexico right on the eve of an election that holds Republican hopes in some mountain counties. They believe that the Junior Senator could have given the voters the works and made everything hotsy-totsy for the followers of President Roosevelt in some of the doubtful localities. They figure he can't get any votes down in Mexico, and long for familiar pat on the back of voting overalls. Senator Reynolds chased off to Europe at a critical period of the repeal election last year. Those easterners take their politics seriously and count their friends among the men and women with their shoulders to the wheel when the old party wagon is in a hole.

BURRUS THREAT—Dr. John T. Burrus, High Point surgeon and anti-sales taxer who defeated Capus M. Waynick, State Director of Federal Reemployment for the Democratic nomination to the Guilford county Senate seat, now pops up as a threat to Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby, Congressman R. L. Doughton and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham in the race for the gubernatorial nomination less than two years hence. A lot of High Pointers who have been giving barbecues and chicken stews frequently believe that the Doctor has a good chance of succeeding Governor Ehringhaus. "We shall wait and see; it is some time off yet before another Governor is elected. If ever the call comes I am in the hands of the people," is the Doctor's answer to inquiries.

BANKHEAD BILL

More than one politician drifting into Raleigh is wondering what effect support of opposition to the Bankhead cotton control law may have upon the political future of North Carolina's Senators and Congressmen. Regardless of what your opinion of this measure may be Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College, estimates that about 90 percent of the cotton producers favor the bill. Growers have been told that statutory control is responsible for prevailing prices. That makes it easily understood why many farmers favor the Bankhead law and the Kerr-Smith tobacco control bill. It is entirely possible that some of the North Carolina delegation have placed themselves on the spot. Only time can render the final verdict.

DEATH

Speaking of automobile accidents—there were 856 deaths attributable to this source last year. No glaring headlines in the newspapers proclaimed this, no feature writers were called into action as was the case where the liner Morro Castle went down in a fire at sea with about 140 souls lost. Trolley rides the highway every day and there's lots of room for safety provisions.

IS SILENT

Democrats in the Tenth Congressional District are wondering what has become of Hamilton C. Jones since he was defeated in his primary race against Congressman A. L. Butwinkle last June. Many counties in the district are considered in danger of capture by the Republicans but word comes down to Raleigh that Mr. Ham Jones has not taken the stump for the nominees of his party. "Winner or loser, always a Democrat" is the slogan of the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats up that way.

While this writer doesn't care to be glorified by engaging in a newspaper controversy nor do I wish to jostle beneath radiant glare of the calcium light, yet I can't refrain from a reply to an article published in the HI Po, a journal published by the student body of the High Point college of recent date, written under the caption of "Thoughts On Immortality And The Hereafter."

My object in writing this article is to make some observations and according to my information and understanding to make some corrections in order that I might counteract the misleading and harmful impression made on the hearts of the student body of the college and the public in general.

In the first place this erudite writer asks "What Is The Soul?" This is a relevant question. He says that the soul cannot be the brain or the mind because we see many defectives who are totally lacking in reasoning ability. This is true when one is trying to reason from the finite mind only, but untrue of the soul which is handicapped by an impaired carfold mind through whom it has to express itself— if the physical mind is dead—the soul is still alive, active and brilliant.

After the judgement the soul is either admitted into Heaven or cast into H.H.H.

The soul is in perfect human form—it is a spiritual man proper. It has left nothing behind except the carfold body. It carries with it every sense that it has in the terrestrial world only they for more exalted.

Is the Angels of Heaven ??? ? ? ? in their knowledge and love of God—they grow more beautiful as eternity rolls.

There is a Hell—the devils there, because of sin and disbelief while they were living in the world ar seen as monsters, disformed, cadverous, ghostly, hideous and horrible to look upon.

Lastly the writer of the article under discussion, says that there is a Heaven but no Hell. How can a sensible intelligent, truthful, and an ??? ? ? man say that there is a Heaven but no Hell, but the one we make living on earth, when the Bible, the nspired word of God is the authority for saying that there is a Heaven and not a Hell that awaits the coming of the disembodied soul?

The erroneous statements of the wrtiner are misleading and calculated to lead the simple, the credulous, the susceptible and the unthinking people astray.

"Be sure your sins will find you out."

"The unbeliever shall be cast into Hell with all nations that forget God."
