To The Critics Of Modern Boy And Girlhood

Every generation since the beginning of time has raved over the degeneration of the younger set. Looking back over a lapse of years we remember only the best in the past. The good old days take on a rose-colored hue. We are strongly impressed with the evils in present day society because they are a part of our present consciousness. The good old days were not so good as we remember them to be, nor is the present as black as it seems.

The newspaper headlines, the moving picture, and the modern novel do not give us an accurate view of contemporary American family life. There have always been extremists in every walk of life. Because of one dissipated youth a whole set is condemned. The noisy and spectacular minority is frequently mistaken for the majority. After all, in the great majority of American families the life is just as wholesome as it ever was. In these homes the good old virtues still prevail and are passed along to the younger generation.

A boy of today "is just as good, just as high-minded, potentially as decent and as splendid as boys ever were," was the statement made by Dr. Alfred E. Stephens.

On the other hand, Dr. G. Stanley Hall described very minutely the peculiarities of the flapper as follows: "She has already set fashions in attire and even in manners, some of which her elders have copied and have passed found not only sensible, but rejuvenating. Underneath the manish ways which she sometimes affects, she really vaunts her femininity, and her exuberance gives it a new charm. The new liberties she takes in life are contagious, and make us wonder anew whether we have not all been servish to precedent, and slaves to institutions that need to be refitted to human nature, and whether the flapper may not, after all, be a bud of a new and better womanhood.

Never in the history of our nation has there been such a unanimous protest in the literature of the day against the habits and amusements of young people.

Those who know the intimate relationship that exists between the purity of family life and national welfare are rightly alarmed. They can read the handwriting on the wall.

It is time that parents set a good example for their children. It is time to assert parental authority and save these young people from the results of their own folly. It is time that we gave up taking the easiest way to luxury, vice and the dissolution of family life. Unless the church is more actively supported and religion given a larger place in our daily life than at present, then our nation is surely going to destruction; therefore, it is time the parents were setting such an example. No nation can hope to survive whose family life is not based upon religion and upon those virtues for which the early Americans were admired.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Joyce, of Winston-Salem, visited relatives here Sunday.

Profit From Use Of High Grade Fertilizers

The widespread use of cheap fertilizer in the southeastern states is costing the farmers real money, says L. G. Willis, soil chemist at the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

There is less plant food in the low grade fertilizers, he explains, and the crops treated with inferior material will not produce a full yield. The small yields will lose for the grower more money than he saved on the purchase of cheap fertilizer.

If the grower attempts to produce a full yield by applying an extra amount of low grade fertilizer, the additional cost will more than offset the difference in price between the high and low grades.

Furthermore, Willis points out the application of cheap fertilizer, which contains huge quantities of sand or other similar filler material, increases the amount of sand in the soil and lowers the fertility.

A ton of cheap 4-8-4 fertilizer contains only 320 pounds of plant food and 1,680 pounds of sand or other filler material, Willis says, and it costs just as much to bag, ship, and handle sand as it does plant food.

By using the better grade fertilizers, he adds, the farmers can save from 20 to 30 per cent. on the cost of the actual plant food they get and at the same time they are protecting their soil from heavy applications of sand or other harmful material.

Willis explains that he is not opposed to lower prices for fertilizer, but is merely warning against the use of low grade material at a time when the better grades are not selling at a cheap price.

Succulent silage, grown at home and preserved in trench silos, is being used by North Carolina dairymen this winter as a substitute for bought roughage.

NOTICE SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of authority contained in a certain deed of trust executed by J. S. Moran and wife, R. Ella Moran, on April 22, 1930, to me as Trustee, and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Stokes Co., N. C., in Book No. 78, page 514 etc., and the stipulations in said deed of trust not having been complied with; at the request of the holder of said note and deed of trust, I will offer for sale at public auction, for cash, at the Wilson Filling Station near Brim Grove Baptist Church, in Stokes County, N. C., on Monday, February 18, 1935, at two o'clock P. M., the following real estate:

A boundry of land in Quaker Gap township, Stokes Co., N. C., composed of two tracts, both of which were conveyed to J. S. Moran by Z. T. Smith and wife by deeds which are recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Stokes Co., N. C., and to which deeds and records reference is hereby made for full description and metes and bounds. This boundry of land contains 98 acres, more or less, and is bounded on the North by Reid Jones; on the East by Dan Mabe; on the South by Johnnie King; and on the West by J. B. Woodruff lands, formerly Eleanore Moran lands.

This boundry is known as the home and farm of J. S. Moran and wife, and includes all the lands they own in Stokes County (at time of executing the deed of trust referred to.)

Sale made to satisfy said debt, taxes and costs of sale. This January 17, 1935. O. E. SNOW, Trustee.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Treated dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

Get a LIFT with a Camel!

FAMOUS AVIATOR. (Right) Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith says: "Once you've had a chance to appreciate the mild, mellow flavor of Camels, no other cigarette seems to suit you. Camels are my 'supercharger'—they give me new energy and 'go.' And they never throw my nerves off key."

PHYSICAL INSTRUCTOR. (Below) "A Camel gives me a sense of renewed vim," says Charles Adams. "I enjoy this delightful 'lift' often. Camels never interfere with my nerves."

BANK TELLER. (Left) "I've noticed that after any strain or when I need cheering up, I get a 'lift' in energy from a Camel," reports Baxter Davidson. "They taste so good. Camels don't disturb my nervous system."
