IMPROVEMENTS TO DANBURY SCHOOL

STEAM HEATING FIXTURES AND SEWERAGE BEING INSTALLED—NEW ENTRANCE TO SUPERSEDE PRESENT OUTSIDE STAIRWAY—OTHER INSIDE APPOINTMENTS INCLUDING TWO ADDITIONAL CLASS ROOMS.

Quite extensive improvements are being made to the Danbury school building. Principal among these is the installation of steam heating arrangements and sewerage. Excavations are now being made for the boiler that will supply the steam heat for the entire building. Pipes have already been fixed for sewerage.

Entrance which was formerly effected by means of an outside stairway at the front, will be changed. The old dangerous wooden steps will be torn away. Entrance will be made at the lower center of the building, and the stairway will ascend from the inside. Two more class rooms will also be built on the ground floor at the front.

The new school appointments, which mean improved sanitary arrangements as well as better general facilities, will greatly add to the convenience, safety and comfort of the scholars and faculty, and will be much appreciated by the patrons of the school.

SUPER-SCHOOL PHILLIPS PLAN

STOKES COUNTY MAN'S THEORY RECEIVES FAVORABLE CONSIDERATION AT STATE UNIVERSITY—FOR BETTER EQUIPMENT OF YOUNG WOMEN AND YOUNG MEN.

A. R. Phillips of Dalton, one of the outstanding educationists of the county, was here today and was interviewed by the Reporter regarding the plan which he is advocating for a better system of schools, and which the Reporter is informed has recently received very favorable comment by faculty members of the State University.

The theory for improvement according to Mr. Phillips, would provide a super-school in each county in order to give more varied or elective courses to young men and women who do not intend entering college, and also to more freely equip those who do.

Mr. Phillips believes Stokes county should rate equal to the best in any section of the country when it comes to advantages young people deserve.

What applies to Stokes, Mr. Phillips says, is of course true of other North Carolina counties.

Danbury One of Four County Seats Without Electric Service—But It's On the Way

Raleigh, March 19.—Only four of North Carolina's 100 county seats are without electric service, and within the next few months at least two of these will have power.

Dudley Bagley, chairman of the state rural electrification authority, said Currituck, Camden, Swan Quarter in Hyde county, and Danbury in Stokes do not have current.

The Virginia Electric and Power company shortly will serve Currituck on a line being constructed from Moyock to Coinjock. Bagley said there was a possibility Camden also might be served later.

The Duke Power company notified Bagley a survey has just been completed in Stokes county, and a line will be built from Walnut Cove to Piedmont by Meadows and Danbury.
