Lumberton, Sept. 7. — Today's capacity sale on the Lumberton tobacco market will weigh out approximately 700,000 pounds and the advance in price will send the day's average beyond $27 per 100. Medium grades, smokers, cutters and other fancy grades were from $3 to $5 higher than they have been this season and were very little short of the prices paid in 1934. With the market's seasonal poundage nearly nine and a quarter million tomorrow's sale will probably place this market's seasonal sales near 10 million pound figure.

(By S. J. Kirby & T. H. Sear-) Tobacco Diseases Spreading to New Fields

James F. Bullock, Agent of the U. S. D. A. here this week to inspect tobacco fields found that from a few fields discovered to be infested with Granville Wilt a few years since, this trouble has spread to new lands. The same thing can be said regarding Black Shank, Southern Root Rot and Root Knot. Bullock stated that Leaf Spot and Black Fire, known generally as deficiency diseases, probably are worse than usual because of the unfavorable season.

Fortunately, though serious, these diseases are still limited to a small number of local farmers and the annual loss resulting from these is much smaller than in many sections of the state.

Bullock suggests that farmers who find their tobacco infested with Black Rot, Sore Shin, Granville Wilt and Root Knot, should by all means adopt crop rotations as a means of controlling these troubles. He says: "To continue to plant tobacco on fields known to be infested with these diseases simply means that the trouble will become worse and the losses sustained year after year will become greater." He recommends that tobacco be followed by rye, seeded with Redtop (Hard Grass) and suggests that the rye may be either harvested or allowed to fall down on the land for soil improvement the second year, after which the land should remain in Redtop the third and fourth years. Then it may safely go back to tobacco. He says: "This four year rotation will greatly reduce disease troubles and if carried out over a period of years will check the disease and produce higher quality at a lower cost."

Bullock also suggests planting tobacco early and using fertilizers with a higher percentage of potash in proportion to the nitrate. He says that this practice will prove favorable in reducing leaf spot troubles. Late plantings show more leaf spot.

Bullock took occasion while here to compliment local farmers on the large amount of fine tobacco found in every section of the county. He says that on every farm visited, even those in which disease troubles were most pronounced, he found fields of high quality tobacco and took occasion to compliment several of the growers on the excellent cures they are making.

ELECTION NIGHT FISTIC BOUT HERE

CORBETT PRIDDY STOKES CHAMPION, WILL BE CALLED UPON TO DEFEND HIS TITLE — BOB MOREFIELD AND WOODROW LAWSON POSSIBLE CONTESTANTS.

Corbett Priddy, who won the boxing championship from Roy Wilson last fall, will be called upon to defend his title in a bout to be arranged at Danbury on the night of the election at Danbury, Nov. 3, 1936.

At least this is the talk of Stokes county sportsmen this week, who, with the opening of the fall, are anticipating some thrills in the boxing world.

Quite a number of sports met here this week, and tentative arrangements were made for a bout on the night of November 3, 1936, at which time it is certain a large crowd will be here awaiting the election returns.

Bob Morefield, a cafe proprietor of Walnut Cove, is in the limelight as a heavyweight of interesting possibilities. There are those who contend he can knock out any man in the county. Then there is Woodrow Lawson, a fast and hard hitter of Lawsonville, who has a record.

Either of these may be pitted against the Northview Cyclone, known as Corbett Priddy, who wears the Stokes belt in fistic accomplishments.

It is almost certain that Morefield or Lawson will contend with Priddy for the championship of Stokes, and interest in the approaching bout will be intensified with the advance of November 3.
