LETTER FROM CO. AGT. SEARS

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT THE COMMUNITY MEETINGS TO EXPLAIN THE NEW PRO- GRAM — IT IS SIMILAR IN MANY RESPECTS TO LAST YEAR'S PROGRAM

The community meetings that have been held for the purpose of explaining the '37 program have been well attended. During the past week 4 meetings were held with a total attendance of 380. Another meeting is scheduled for Thursday night at Sandy Ridge at which large attendance is expected. Two of the meetings were held in connection with the showing of a moving picture by the Soil Conservation week before last. At these two meetings 625 people who have heard the 1937 program explained since Mr. Floyd spoke at Walnut Cove on February 20, this, I think, is an indication of the interest the farmers of Stokes have in their farm program.

Program Differs Slightly From That of Last Year.

The '37 program is similar in many respects to that of '36, the principal difference concerns the soil conserving crops necessary on each farm was determined on a percent basis. For example, the amount of soil conserving crop for a farm should equal 20 per cent of the tobacco base plus 15 per cent general soil depleting base, but this year the amount of soil conserving crops necessary will depend upon a soil conserving base established for the farm by the committee. This base is being established on the basis of what the farmer has been doing in the past. If a soil conserving base of 10.0 acres is established for a farm and if 25 per cent of the tobacco base is 4.0 acres and the farmer declines to reduce the full amount, then the amount of soil conserving crops necessary to get the maximum payment will be 14.0 acres.

However, if the supervisor on checking the farm finds only 2.0 acres of soil conserving crops the 2.0 acres is all the farmer can get pay for reducing his tobacco. He can not get payment for reducing the other 2.0 acres. In other words, the payment for reducing tobacco will not be made on an acreage greater than the soil conserving acreage on any farm in 1937. The soil conserving crops that are counted soil conserving, are about the same as last year. We can still use soybeans, velvet beans, field peas, and cowpeas, even though they are cut for hay. Last year credit could not be given for cowpeas or any other legume sown broadcast in corn, but this year credit can be given. The entire acreage needed in this manner will be classified as corn and one-half the acreage will be classified as soil conserving. This practice is going to give farmers a better chance to meet their soil conserving requirements and at the same time build up the fertility of the soil.

People Interested in Soil Conserving Picture.

Mr. B. D. Robertson and Mr. A. C. Metz of the Soil Conservation Service at High Point showed a talking picture on soil conservation work at a number of places in this county. The picture, since it has been out, has been in great demand and has been shown over a wide area. While they were in this county, the picture was shown at Sandy Ridge, Walnut Cove, and Pinnacle schools to a total of 1,075 school children. It was shown at Francisco and King at general farm meetings. While in the county, it was shown to approximately 1,760 people. The picture was very educational as well as entertaining and it is hoped that we will be able to show a similar picture in the other parts of the county.

It is realized more and more than ever that visual education is one of the best ways to teach adult people and the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with Extension Service is doing more along this line every year.

Will F. Bowles, merchant of Walnut Cove, was in town Thursday.

BOB REYNOLDS ON SUPREME COURT

ISSUE OVERSHADOWS ALL OTHERS — ABRAHAM LIN- COLN AND JUSTICE HOLM- QUETED.

Washington, March 17.—The President's program with reference to the Supreme court of the United States continues to overshadow all other national issues. His appeal to the country in the form of one of his radio "fireside chats" is being widely discussed. Hearings on his proposal are drawing large crowds to the rooms of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary. Proponents and opponents of the measure are drawing their lines for battle. In other words another important chapter in American history is being written, whatever that chapter may finally record.

In this connection it is interesting to read the oath of members of the Supreme court. It follows:

"I do solemnly swear that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and the rich; and that I will faithfully discharge all the duties incumbent on me as Judge, according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the constitution and laws of the United States."

Whatever may be the viewpoint of any individual with regard to the present Supreme Court issue, considerable stress must be laid on the last sentence of the above oath reading "agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States." From this it would seem that the laws of the United States—and the laws are the acts passed by the Congress and signed by the President—have equal standing with the Constitution. The President contends that they have not been given such standing the current and widely-discussed issue by the eminent Supreme court justices, and here is the basis of issue.

Let me quote what others have said.

The illustrious Abraham Lincoln, declared in his first inaugural:

"The candid citizen must confess that if the policy of the government, upon vital questions affecting the whole people, is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme Court, the instant they are made in ordinary litigations between parties in personal actions the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal."

The great Justice Holmes, who ever held aloft the light of justice for all said:

"It must be remembered that of the people in quite as great a legislators are the ultimate guardians of the liberties and welfare

T. G. New Thinks Reporter Editorial Is Misleading

Editor Danbury Reporter:
I notice your editorial of March 11. Taft, Wilson and others did appoint judges, but they did not ask to stuff the court.

You know at this time the court has only 5 Republicans and 4 Democrats. Your editorial is misleading. There are not six Republicans on the bench.

I believe in straight shooting and good government.
