Whitewater.

A place by the side of the road where God's hand rested a moment to give a sweet touch of sylvan beauty and restfulness at the foot of the mountain.

Landscape artists may imitate but they can never approach the natural beauty of Whitewater.

Here is an old log house built in an age now forgotten, with double porches all around. It is painted all white and is inviting in its homeliness. It sits in a setting of green grasses. The background is enchanting woods. It dreams in the soft shadows of the Swarries.

Right through the front yard—think of it—a brook of clear pure water comes plashing, splashing, laughing down from the great hills, as uncontaminated as the dew which glistens on the ivies at sunrise.

Strange, pungent, delightful scents from the mountain are borne on the streamlet. A wild cucumber tree stands among the rocks and the fern, a beautiful stranger from cool recesses where only pheasants come to dip their bills. All day long its roots are lapped by the tumbling water, the laughing, plashing, gamboling water.

Immediately in front of the old log house—think of it—right in the center of the charming sward that encircles this spot, a cold spring bubbles bold with the nectar of the naides distilled among the chestnuts and the dogwoods of untrod glens way up.

And this is the place called Whitewater, just a mile west of Danbury, ten feet west of No. 89.

Maintain the Record For Law Observance.

There have been no murders in Stokes for some time, and it is hoped that all good citizens will co-operate to maintain this record. But in order to be on the safe side, as the warm days are coming on, this warning should be everywhere displayed in large letters:

Don't ask anybody, "Is it hot enough for you?"

HELP FOR THE ORPHAN CHILDREN

ACT OF LATE LEGISLATURE MAKES FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR THE HELPLESS.

Raleigh, May 19.—One of the most humane articles of legislation ever to be adopted by any Commonwealth will go into effect in North Carolina on July 1 of this year.

It will be the Aid to Dependent Children Act, which became a law through action of the 1937 General Assembly.

No more will the spectre of hardship and suffering face a bereaved widow and fatherless children, left to the mercies of the world without income sufficiently adequate to care for them in even the most modest manner.

The various orphanages scattered throughout the State have done splendid work during the past, but there have been thousands of instances where children were not eligible for entrance into these havens of refuge for the underprivileged.

The Aid to Dependent Children Act not only will take care of children left without a father—also will embrace those who, for any good reason, are not receiving the proper care and training because of a lack of money.

Children under 16 years of age, living with either their father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, or other relatives, will be cared for if it is shown that those charged with their keeping are not situated so as to give them the advantages to which they are entitled.

The Act provides that children eligible for benefits shall either have been born or resided within North Carolina for at least one year prior to the filing of an application for assistance, or that the mother of the applicant also has been a resident of the State for a similar period, and that she has not the means for a decent livelihood for herself and her children. Applications for aid are to be made to agencies which will be established in each of the 100 counties of the State.

The maximum amount any one child may receive under provisions of the Act is $18 per month, with each additional child of the same family being allowed $12, provided the total does not exceed $65 per month. One-third of the cost of administering the Aid to Dependent Children Act will be borne by the counties, with the State and federal governments also absorbing one-third each.

Act provides, however, that in order that no injustice may be caused, more than $65 may be paid "in extraordinary circumstances in which it appears to the satisfaction of the State Board that a total of $65 per month would be insufficient to secure the purpose above set forth."

"The Social Security Act, in providing aid to dependent children, gives evidence of long range planning for the future," recently said Mrs. W. T. Bost, Commissioner of Charities and Public Welfare. "It stands out as the greatest opportunity for constructive work with children that has ever been available to the nation. This aid is based on the fundamental conception that family life is the best environment for the growth and development of children into future citizens.

YES your Christmas gift can be luxury gifts at a tiny price! Kurlash gifts to beautify the eyes are something every woman and girl of your acquaintance would delight in owning! Imagine the excitement of receiving gold and silver eye shadows!

And if you want to go more swank include a Kurlash eye beauty brush.

"We have long since come to realize that, for any cause, the Social Security No. 2... breaking up of a home in which there are children is a delicate social-surgical operation at best, but to break up a home for poverty alone is nothing short of a crime.

"The Act recognizes the simple fact that where the wage earner has been removed from a family because of death, desertion or sickness, the remaining parent is frequently unable to give proper care to minor children and at the same time earn a living for them."

"In North Carolina, after July 1," Mrs. Bost continued, "passage of the Act means that instead of aiding only 300 mothers aid families a year—as we have been doing the past few years—we will be able to aid more than 7,750 families involving approximately 21,700 children.

"Where the family is self-respecting and child-loving, keeping children in their own homes has decided advantages—Enactment of this legislation means a home for every child and that love and security which a home provides."
