Give The People What They Want.

Knowing that trio of splendid gentlemen who constitute our board of county commissioners—as we so well know them—it becomes difficult for us to understand why they cling to the Forsyth county domination of our health system—unless it is on the hypothesis of a Hege hypnosis. We do not question the motives of our board—we know their motives are pure and unselfish and intended well—but is our dapper doctor from Winston-Salem a conjurer that we yield so helplessly to his magic?

There are certainly no finer, more capable public officials anywhere than Mr. Joyce, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Johnson—but do they not see that the people want a freedom from outside interference in our home affairs, this alien overlordship of our internal arrangements for our own people—that we want a health department “made at home” and unfettered by the foibles or the fancies of other people.

We are informed the Stokes county health program costs around $5,000 a year. Of this amount we are taxed to pay $1,750.00. The rest is furnished by the federal government, the State government and Mr. W. N. Reynolds.

These outside contributions do not depend upon a combination of arrangements instituted by quite a young outside doctor, who lets us have the small end and gives his best services to the big and rich county where he lives; and who has a fine contempt for our wishes.

Stokes county has physicians of brain, experience and character who are competent to manage our medical affairs. Let them manage them, and let them draw the pay.

Pine Hall School Girl Wins In Essay Contest

Louise Mabe, 16-year-old Pine Hall High School student, who lives near Madison on Route 1, has been declared Stokes county winner in the tenth annual co-operative essay contest, according to word received today from M. G. Mann, general manager of the N. C. Cotton Association and the Farmers Co-operative Exchange, sponsors of the contest.

Miss Mabe's essay is now being judged along with others written by students in the Central district and if she is declared district winner she will go to Raleigh sometime during August to compete with three other district winners for the State championship and first prize of a one-year college tuition scholarship.

Miss Mabe will receive a three-year subscription to the Carolina Co-operator as prize for being county winner.

“The essay Miss Mabe submitted showed real study and sound thought on the co-operative movement,” commented Mr. Mann in making the announcement. “She is to be congratulated not only upon her understanding of the benefits of farmer-co-operation but also upon her underlying desire to see our farm people get their rightful share of the nation's income. It is upon the young people of today that we must depend to a great extent in our battle for a better day for agriculture.”

The subject of the essay contest this year is “A Well Rounded Co-operative Program for North Carolina.” In her 2,000-word essay, Miss Mabe dealt with the following four questions:

1. Why should cotton farmers market their cotton through the “Re-Purchase Pool” of the Cotton Association?
2. How can more farmers in North Carolina be made to realize the advantages of purchasing farm supplies co-operatively through the FCN?
3. What can we do to make the Carolina Co-operator more readable and of more value to North Carolina agriculture?
4. What services are possible through co-operative financing for farm production purposes?

Danbury Defeats Germantown

(Reported.)

Danbury defeated Germantown in a league game here Saturday afternoon to the tune of 7 to 5. It was a fast and hard fought game from start to finish, it taking Danbury 10 innings before they could push over the winning run. Danbury out hit the Germantown team 14 to 5 but could not hit when hits meant runs and a ball game. With Danbury leading 5 to 4 to start the ninth and with two men out and a runner on second base, Cal Holland hitting for Montgomery, came through with a clean hit to bring in the tying run to force the game into extra innings. Danbury with a runner on second base, J. C. Wall picked out one he liked and drove it over the fence for a home run and a ball game. Ray pitched the last inning for Danbury, facing only three hitters with each going down by the strike out route.

Specialists Offer Mid-Summer Advice

Many mid-summer farm tasks about the farm and home require information and suggestions which State College specialists are offering on the Carolina Farm Features radio program.

Some crops are being harvested; others are just being started, and there are others not yet ready for harvest which are being cultivated.

The agricultural experts are arranging their discussions to conform with timely practices.

Insects and plant diseases take their toll yearly. Yet many dollars could be saved each farmer if he would follow preventatives and control practices.

Already this year the flea beetle has damaged thousands of dollars worth of tobacco in northwestern counties.

With a favorable season and no control practices, the boll weevil may cut cotton production sharply this season. However, by the application of prescribed methods, farmers can check the weevil attacks.

Plans For The Great Winston-Salem Forsyth County Fair

The 38th annual agricultural exhibit and livestock show of the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Fair Association will be held in Winston-Salem on October 5th to 9th. Lavish plans for a gala week are rapidly being completed and it is an assured fact that the 1937 event will be the best ever held in Piedmont North Carolina.

Increased premiums for nearly every department and a continuation of the tobacco competition inaugurated last year will assure more and better agricultural displays. Plans for enlargement of the livestock division are being formulated so that raisers may enter their stock with every assurance of adequate arrangements for care and protection during the fair week.

For entertainment announcement is made that the famous World of Mirth attractions will again occupy the midway space, while the finest outdoor acts in America are being secured for the grandstand. There will be splendid music, fireworks and other features without which no agricultural fair would be a success.

“Lucky” Teter and his Heil Drivers, one of the most sensational automobile attractions in the world, will be at the Winston-Salem fair on Saturday, the closing day. This aggregation of daredevils was recently featured in the news reels at the motion picture houses and has been described in nearly every magazine and newspaper in the country.

As usual Wednesday will be county school day when children and teachers from schools in Forsyth and all surrounding counties will be the guests of the fair management. Tuesday is reserved for Winston-Salem children and will also be Press Day when newspaper men will be entertained at luncheon at the Robert E. Lee Hotel and shown the sights of the fair during the afternoon and evening. Altogether the plans for this 38th annual event indicate a most successful event that will be eagerly anticipated.

Fertilizer supplemented with copper sulphate, boron, magnesium and manganese is being tested by bulb growers in New Hanover county to remedy plant disease conditions and to promote better growth of the bulbs.
