Paying Production Credit Loans

Tuesday morning Mr. Clemons Southern of Germanton Route 1 came into the office of the Winston-Salem Production Credit Association. A conversation was begun immediately between him and the Secretary.

"Hello, Mr. Francis."

"Well, well, if it is not Mr. Southern. How are you making it?"

"Just fine and dandy. Just marketed a bunch of tobacco in Durham—me and Early Wagoner."

"How did it sell?"

"I'm well satisfied. Here's the bill. Like to see it?"

"Sure," replied the Secretary as he reached for it.

The warehouse statement indicated his sales as follows:

Pounds	Price	Amount
70	34c	$33.80
144	41c	$59.04
122	40c	$48.80
178	40c	$71.20
86	20c	$17.20
Total 600 pounds; average		$36.67; total $220.04.

"Not bad! Not bad," said the Secretary. "Is the remainder of your tobacco as good as that you have just sold?"

"Not quite, I reckon. But I think I'll have 3,500 pounds altogether and I ought to average 25c or 30c for my crop."

"Fine," said the Secretary.

"By the way," said Mr. Southern. "I make a habit of paying my loan out of the first tobacco I sell. How much do I owe the Association?"

"Mr. Southern, March 26th you received $100.00 and June 15th you received an additional $50, making a total of $150.00 principal. You pay 5 per cent. interest for the actual number of days you have used of the loan. Interest from March 26 to June 15 is interest on $100.00 for 81 days, or .84c; from June 15th until today is interest on $150.00 for 105 days, or $2.16. Your interest is $3.00."

"Cheap money," he boasted. "I pay my loan out of the first tobacco I sell so that I can save interest and also preserve my credit."

In the meantime Mr. Wagoner entered the office and smiled. "Well I'll pay my loan to."

"Were you satisfied with the price received from the sale of your tobacco, Mr. Wagoner?" queried the Secretary.

"Sure was. I had 218 pounds that brought 39c. and 60 pounds I expected 4c. that I got 22c. for. I got $185.00 for the 564 pounds I marketed."

"That's fine," said the Secretary. Upon leaving the office, the two gentlemen said, "Goodbye until next spring."
