YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO FETE AT KING

WILL CELEBRATE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION — DINNER, MUSIC and SPEAKING TO MARK OCCASION—CALL BY MISS GRACE TAYLOR, PRESIDENT—LARGE CROWD EXPECTED.

Miss Grace Taylor, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of the county, has issued a call for a rally at King next Tuesday night, Nov. 9, in celebration of the fifth anniversary of the election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

All Democrats of the county are invited to be present on this occasion.

Dinner will be served in the King Women's Club quarters about 7:00 o'clock. There will also be music, and speaking by a prominent State orator.

A large crowd is expected.

Priddy-Morefield Fight Saturday Night

Robert Morefield will meet Corbett Priddy, heavyweight champion of Stokes, at the Walnut Cove high school gymnasium Saturday night, November 6.

Priddy weighs 190, Morefield 186. The pugilists are pretty evenly matched, and the bout will doubtless attract a large crowd of sports.

Other fighters billed to contest at the same time are as follows: Aroh Lewis vs. Fred Hash, 4 rounds.

Therman Collins vs. Charlie Morefield, 3 rounds.

Morris Stevens vs. Raymond Knight, 2 rounds.

The main battle between Priddy and Morefield is for a knockout.

LOCALS

Mrs. S. M. Woods and daughter, Geneva and sons Otis, Javan and Guy, of Danbury Route 1, spent a short while here with J. M. Woods Tuesday.

Robert Simmons and young Merritt, of Lawsonville, passed through Tuesday on their way to the tobacco market.

Judge Shaw, one of the most eminent jurists of the State, died at his home in Greensboro Wednesday, following stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. R. O. Palmer of Dobson is here visiting her many Danbury friends. She and her husband spent several years at Danbury.

Paul Venable, who holds a position with Glenn's warehouse at Winston-Salem, was here today. Paul says John Glenn is selling it high, and sending the farmers back home happy.

Farmers Cautioned On Origin of Alfalfa And Red Clover Seed

A caution to farmers to "know the origin of the alfalfa and red clover seed purchased this year" was issued today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The Bureau said "there is need for extreme caution because of the short supply of adapted seed both alfalfa and red clover and the wide differential in price between unadapted and adapted seed."

It was stated that the carry-over of alfalfa seed was very small, that production in the Northern and Central States this year was much below average, but that production in the Southwest was above average.

The Bureau said that much unadapted southern alfalfa seed will probably be shipped to Northern states, some of it correctly represented as to origin, and some misrepresented as to origin. Because of the relatively low price of this unadapted seed, it was stated that "many retailers, shippers, truckers, and others will use every possible ruse to pass off southern alfalfa seed for northern seed." Though some southern produced alfalfa seed may successfully go through mild winters in the Northern States, it was pointed out that the southern seed is not sufficiently hardy to withstand the usual severe winter weather in most northern areas.

Farmers were advised that "alfalfa seed obtained from growers and shippers should be fully identified as to locality of production, and blends containing any portion of unadapted seed should be avoided so far as possible."

It was pointed out that public agencies provide information regarding the origin of seeds in two ways. Many states certify seed, and their certification shows the variety and locality where grown as well as other information. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics maintains a verified origin seed list under which verified seeds are attached to seed containers which indicate in what State the seed was grown. Seed verified as to origin by the Bureau is not verified as to variety or germination, but the verification sets up certain minimum standards of quality covering such factors as germination, purity, and noxious-weed seed content.

As for red-clover seed, the carry-over is "very small", production is much below the less-than-average production of last year prices of domestic seed are high, imported seed is much lower priced, and the supply of adapted domestic seed is insufficient to meet normal requirements, the Bureau reported. As with alfalfa, buyers of domestic red-clover seed may be protected by obtaining known-origin seed. State extension services, coun-

SLOT MACHINES COME BACK

STOKES COMMISSIONERS GRANT PETITION FOR RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF DEVICES TO ENTICE THE WAYWARD NICKLE — WILL MEAN $2,000 A YEAR TAXES — $600.00 ALREADY COLLECTED.

Slot machines have come back to Stokes again. Under an order made by the board of county commissioners here Monday, argued for by Dick Craig of Walnut Cove, these devices are allowed to operate once more. The concession means $2,000 taxes to the county. Tax Auditor B. P. Dailey says $600.00 has already been collected from the machines, which pay $25 each annually to the county. No machines that operate for less than a nickel will be countenanced. The penny machines patronized by small children will not be licensed. Neither will horse racing contraptions or pin tables be legalized.

Beyond this, Register of Deeds R. L. Smith, clerk of the board, says no other business was transacted by the board of commissioners, J. A. Joyce, Harvey Johnson and Howard Gibson, a full board, being in attendance.

Misses Lottie Woods and Edith Fincham visited Miss Nellie Mae Woods Sunday.

Among those who visited Miss Geneva Woods Sunday were as follows: Misses Gracie, Lois and Lillie Mae Dodson, Orene Carter, Messrs. Woodrow Lawson, Ernest Beasley, Paris Windburn and A. C. Turner.

agricultural agents, State and county farm organizations, seed shippers and dealers, and all agencies engaged in seed certification or verification work are urged to cooperate with the Department of Agriculture in discouraging the use of unadapted seed. Much information and careful handling of the whole problem are necessary, the Bureau said.

REYNOLDS ON PACIFIC COAST

JUNIOR N. C. SENATOR GETS A NEW SLANT ON THE PROBLEMS CONFRONTING NORTH CAROLINA.

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Senator Reynolds' column for this week comes from Portland, Oreg., where the Senator visited the Northwest on a trip combining a survey of national conditions with a brief vacation, prior to returning to Washington.

From the Pacific coast, after traversing a dozen states and talking with countless hundreds of people, an individual gets a better appreciation of national problems and conditions confronting our people. There is much advantage in looking at America from an area devoted to development of natural resources, rather than viewing it from the industrial East. This is all the more true when the individual is concerned with the welfare of a particular state in an industrial area.

A Tar Heel buying a package of cigarettes in Oregon sees it in new terms. There comes the realization that if the cigarettes are made in North Carolina, the state is definitely linked with the package. It creates a desire for great numbers of people to see where cigarettes are made.

Equally as important, it is realized that the conditions under which the cigarettes are sold and the taxes paid by purchasers virtually affect the wages of factory workers in North Carolina and the price the farmer secures for his tobacco. Few get this perspective when they casually purchase a package of cigarettes at home.

The same holds true of other things manufactured in North Carolina, towels, furniture, blankets, cotton and rayon products and it also holds true of agricultural commodities grown in the state.

It is necessary in this day of great industrialization that those concerned with legislative programs have a better understanding of marketing conditions and tax systems. It is gained through first-hand information. No longer are states and communities self-sufficient. "Buy at home" campaigns are fine things, but if the sale of North Carolina products did not extend throughout the world and those vitally concerned did not know the conditions under which they are sold and how they can be met, our workers and farmers would suffer greatly curtailed income.

The broad program to advertise and develop North Carolina, now attracting attention even out here on the West coast, is evidence that we live in an area of interstate commerce and prospering on new business and new industry.

In this connection, a Tar Heel far away from home gets still another perspective. It is that

King News

King, Nov. 1.—The Musical Fools of King, who broadcast on Tuesday and Friday of each week from station WAIR Winston-Salem, played to a crowded house at Francisco Friday night.

Mrs. Opal Pulliam, of Kernersville, visited relatives and friends here over the week-end.

The Halloween carnival conducted by the high school at the school building Friday night was a big success.

Thos. A. Dalton, who resides at Dalton, three miles west of King, who has been suffering from a broken shoulder, the result of a fall, is convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Shore, of East Bend, spent the week-end here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Sills.

R. B. Reynolds, of Mountain View, was here Saturday looking after business matters.

W. Evan Butner, of Winston-Salem, formerly of King, was a business visitor here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lewis are the glad parents of a new baby boy. The youngster arrived Friday.

Mrs. Sam Westmoreland and Mrs. Fannie Culler, of Pinnacle, visited friends here Saturday.

Luther Smith, of the Crooked Run section, was here Saturday looking after business matters.

Oscar Kirby, who has been quite sick at his home one mile south of town for the past several days, is able to be out again, his friends will be glad to know.

The following patients underwent tonsil removal operations in the Stone-Helsabeck Clinic Friday: Miss Erlene Edwards of Rural Hall and Miss Annie Falkenberg of Capella.

North Carolina, perhaps more than any other Southern state, has become all-American. Its people have the vision and energy of the West, the traditions of the South, the progressiveness of the East and the industrial interest of the North. It explains why North Carolina has forged rapidly ahead due to its diversified fields of industry, agriculture and commerce.

Those concerned with legislation recall that a proposal to use cotton for manufacturing sacks largely used for potatoes, through a higher tariff on cheap imports now used for that purpose, was defeated because it would raise the cost of bags to potato growers in the West. The advantage that would accrue to the South was ignored by those primarily concerned with the welfare of the West. It offers an example of the complexity of national problems and the need for better correlation of our national fields of endeavor.

Understanding of these conditions is the sure road to correction, through national and state cooperation, of many evils in our economic system.

PALMER SAYS WAIT AWHILE

TENANTS WHO DESIRE LOANS FOR PURCHASING FARMS ARE ADVISED APPLICATIONS CANNOT BE HANDLED YET.

County Farm Security Administration offices are receiving numerous applications from tenant farmers for loans to purchase family sized farms under title I of the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act, but county offices are not yet ready to accept formal applications for this type of loan, says R. O. Palmer, County Supervisor, in charge of the Rural Rehabilitation program of the FSA in Surry and Stokes counties.

As applicants for tenant land purchase loans in North Carolina, based on farm population and percentage of tenancy, are set at $527,000, not more than 150 or 200 families in the state can be brought under the land purchase program this year, said Palmer. The act authorized doubling of the allotment next year and further increasing it the third year if Congress appropriates funds, but for the present fiscal year land purchase funds are sufficient only to establish patterns.

Applications for tenant purchase loans should not be made to the county office until machinery has been set up for administering the program and the counties selected where the program will be initiated this year. Not less than five or more than 10 loans will be made in any county selected.

The county supervisors have been advised that no county committees will be set up until the FSA Advisory Committee has recommended counties where the tenant purchase loans will be made this year.

Meanwhile there are sufficient funds to meet all immediate needs in the county in the way of rehabilitation loans to qualified farm families without adequate commercial credit for necessary livestock, feed, seed and farm equipment. Simple service loans to small groups are also available where group purchase of such items as pure bred sires or heavy equipment will economically serve as an aid to improved farm practices. The services of voluntary farm debt adjustment committees are available to all farmers in the county, Mr. Palmer said.

Another Lawyer For Danbury

L. H. Van Noppen of Madison, Rockingham county, has located at Danbury for the practice of law. Mr. Van Noppen will occupy the quarters formerly used by S. G. Sparger in the court house annex south of the court house.

R. M. Campbell of Lawsonville was in town today.
