Highway Patrolmen Are Under Fire

Raleigh.—Major Arthur Fulk is sitting tight and saying nothing as the state highway patrol, of which he is commander, continues to get into hot water in several sections of the state and for several different reasons.

"Hot spots" for the patrolmen and their commander in recent weeks have been Wilmington, Raleigh and Charlotte. In each city the patrol has come in for some vigorous and unwelcome verbal castigation. In the Wilmington incident the city's Mayor Thomas E. Cooper was the castigator.

It came about when veritable swarms of patrolmen, to hear Mayor Cooper tell about it descended upon the New Hanover sector in an effort to trap two bandits, one of them thought to be the ubiquitous Bill Payne. In a regular metropolitan gang chase one of the bandits was shot and captured, the other got away.

Cooper Ours Loose. Then it was that Mr. Cooper cut loose. The patrol had been "discourteous." The patrol had "failed to co-operate." The patrol had "shown scant courtesy for Chief of Police Joe Rouark," and so on and so on.

Then in Raleigh, a patrolman rushing to the scene of a reported wreck ran over and killed a tot on the city street. He was completely exonerated by a coroner's jury, but there has been more than a little talk to the general tenor and effect that patrolmen would do better to proceed with caution enough to avoid hazards which common sense tells exists on every city. And how from Charlotte comes vigorous editorial condemnation of Sergeant S. D. Moore, of the patrol, for recklessly chasing a "suspected brotlegger" over the city's crowded streets, ignoring red lights and threatening death to all and sundry. "The only thing Sergeant Moore neglected was to haul out his gun and shoot," and the Charlotte News in its editorial on the incident.

MRS. J. S. SLATE KILLED IN CRASH

SHE WAS WIFE OF DR. J. S. SLATE OF WINSTON-SALEM — FORMERLY MISS NONNIE CULLER OF PINNACLE.

Mrs. J. S. Slate, Winston-Salem, was almost instantly killed and four other persons were injured, one seriously, in an automobile collision Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock on the Asheboro road just inside the city of High Point. Mrs. Slate died within a few minutes after being carried to the Guilford General hospital.

Dr. J. S. Slate, the most seriously injured of the others, received chest injuries, fractured ribs and a hurt knee. Attending physicians feared that pneumonia might develop. Fred Slate, of King, driver of the Slate car, sustained chest wounds, fractured ribs and scalp wounds, and his mother, Mrs. Mattie Slate, suffered bruises and lacerations.

Leo McSwain, 17, Archdale, driver of one of the cars involved in the accident, was released under $5,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter following an investigation by local officers. McSwain, who received a badly lacerated upper lip in the collision, will be given a hearing in High Point municipal court January 7.

Young McSwain, who was coming toward the city, reported to officers that he saw the Slate car coming despite a dense mist as he was attempting to pass another car and that when he applied the brakes his automobile skidded and ran into the Slate machine. Officers investigating the accident said that tracks on the highway indicated that the car McSwain was driving skidded approximately 175 feet before the impact and that the Slate car was knocked nearly 20 feet backward when struck.

All of the other injured were carried to the Baptist hospital in Winston-Salem following treatment at High Point.

Mrs. Slate was formerly Miss Nonnie Culler of Pinnacle.

William Graves, 45, a member of one of Mt. Airy's pioneer families, although a resident of Winston-Salem for the past 15 years, died at 8:45 o'clock Wednesday morning in Veterans hospital in Augusta Ga.

Mr. Graves, one of the outstanding criminal and civil lawyers in North Carolina, had been in ill health for some time prior to his death and a patient at Emory University hospital in Atlanta, Ga., before entering the Augusta hospital one week ago. His condition arising from an abdominal trouble, had not been critical until the day before his death.

He was born in Mt. Airy January 14, 1892, son of the late Stephen Porter and Mrs. Hollingsworth Graves. His father served the 11th judicial district as solicitor for 28 years, and he followed his father into profession of law. Christmas Cantata Benefits Poor Children.

The Silver Offering taken at the presentation of the Christmas Cantata on Sunday December 19 was all turned over to the Welfare Department to be used in buying special treats for children who would otherwise have had no Christmas.

The Welfare Department wishes to report to the community that the following items were bought and distributed among 14 unfortunate families; fifty toys, three large bags of oranges, ten pounds of candy and ten pounds of nuts.

It is felt that the Community Christmas Cantata has added much to the Yuletide celebrations in several ways, and it is hoped that such a program may be established as a definite tradition for the county.

The silver offering was taken in order to pay for light and heat used in the Methodist and Baptist churches during practices and to pay for the candelabra made by the Stokes Lumber Company. We wish to express our appreciation to the churches and to the Stokes Lumber Company for making it possible to use all the offering for special Christmas treats.

NO WAR NOW WITH JAPAN

Panay Incident Between Japan and U. S. Is Adjusted

Tokio, Dec. 27.—Japanese government officials today praised the peaceful settlement of the Panay crisis between Japan and the United States as demonstrating the ability of "two civilized nations" to solve their serious problems.

"Fifteen or 20 years ago," a foreign office spokesman said, "such a tragedy (as the Japanese sinking of the United States gunboat Panay) would have been followed within a few hours by a declaration of war."

"Japan's prompt apology and the United States' prompt acceptance of the final note, plus a dispassionate searching for facts during the intervening period, should set an example for the whole world."

The foreign office spokesman said "it is imaginable some other people who are responsible may be recalled to Tokio" to be punished for the bombing of the gunboat December 12. Rear Admiral Teizo Mitsunami, chief of aerial operations of the Japanese navy in China, already has been recalled.

Vice Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, vice minister of the navy, expressed the navy's appreciation of the "fair and just attitude assumed by both the United States government and people despite all sorts of erroneous propaganda."

He reiterated the navy's acceptance of responsibility for the attack and said the navy was "glad the affair had been settled satisfactorily."

He pledged the navy to do its utmost to "prevent a recurrence of such incidents" and expressed the belief "Japan and the United States have turned a misfortune into a blessing."
