The Scales Dalton Bull, Long Is To Be

The "$65,000" bull owned by Scales Dalton at Dalton, Ga., is to be converted into a bull. The animal has gone blind and it is said the bull is diverted to the north built largely on account of glasses fitted on him that prevented him while he was eating. He scraped the glasses from the trees, so his vision can be obstructed.

Mr. Dalton says he will part with this fine bull now that beefsteak is so scarce. He feels that this is the best way to get his $65,000 back as he is serving life around Dalton.

One Job Well Done Begets Another

THERE'S no satisfaction in all the world like the feeling of having done a job well—of being able to see the results of your work. This is one thing that all producers of useful things have in common.

And those of us whose job is production—whether of goods on farms and in factories, or of services in stores and banks and utilities—can best see the results of our work in the high standard of living which we have helped to create in America. For this standard is built on our ability to produce more per person than any other nation on earth. And the people of every country, who are looking hopefully to us for food and weapons, can count on America because it has this great productive might.

After the war is over? Many people are talking about a richer life for all of us then. And they're right! For that richer life will be brought about, not by promises, but by hard work on the part of America's producers. And they—those who grow and make and do things—can do this post-war job better if they work together and understand each other. General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.
