ahead of many of them.

The buyers of war bonds will never regret their investment, which is the most attractive buy in the world today. Those who have disparaged the country's efforts, and who have told the ignorant that these bonds are doubtful and unsafe, should hang their heads in shame. Such a statement cannot in any way be excused. If it was dictated by disloyalty to the nation, or inspired by ignorance, the result is the same.

But the fact that there are plenty of intelligent and patriotic citizens who cannot be fooled either by the ignorant or the vicious, must make the saboteurs feel like going way back and sitting down.

F. R. LEADING. SURVEY SHOWS

New York.—Americans favor reelection of President Roosevelt over Republican Nominee Thomas E. Dewey by 52.5 to 43.9 per cent. Fortune Magazine's latest public opinion survey showed that Roosevelt's lead, now 8.6 per cent, had risen from 6.5 per cent when the last survey was announced July 10.

Reddy's Willing And Able

Through the channel of 11,750 miles of rural transmission lines Duke Power Company electric service is helping in a hundred ways on Piedmont Carolina farms.

Farming today relies more and more upon power to do a production job. This aid plus the industry and determination of our farmers is helping write an important part of our war record.

The Draft Dodger

Editor Reporter:
Enclosed is a poem written by a boy overseas, sent to the Kernersville News to be printed. And I want the same printed in the Danbury Reporter. I have two brothers fighting in the armed forces. I am formerly of Danbury.

Respectfully,

MRS. DOUGLAS REYNOLDS,
Cofax, N. C.

I am writing this short story. And every word is true. Don't look away, Draft Dodger. For it's all addressed to you.

You feel at ease and no danger. Back there in the old home town.

You cooked up a pitiful story. So the draft board turned you down.

You never think of the real men.

Who leave there day by day. You just think of our wives and girl friends.

Whom you steal while we are away.

You sit at home and read your paper.

You jump up and say "we'll win."

Where do you get that We stuff?
This war will be won by men.

Just what do you think, Draft Dodger.

What this free nation would do. If all the men were slackers. And afraid to fight like you?

Well, I guess that's all, Draft Dodger.

I hope your face is red. America is not your kind.

And we mean just what we said. So in closing this, Draft Dodger.

Just remember what we say. Stay away from our wives and girl friends.

Because we will be back some day.

Personal wishes. 72.4 per cent of the public now expects Roosevelt to win in November, as against 66.4 per cent who believed he would win when its earlier poll was taken. It added that 19.4 per cent expect Dewey to win, and 8.2 per cent don't know.

Silas Clay Gets Mad at Women's Hats

Silas Clay is complaining that his wife's new hat cost more than a bull calf. "And I wouldn't mind it, if it was a hat," he says, "but all it is, is a small bow and a piece of feather."

"It isn't the size of the hat that counts," says Bivon Earp, reproachfully.

"Well, what is it that counts?" asks Si, exasperated.

"I'll tell you what it is that counts," says Doc. "It's the lift that a new hat gives to any woman. It sort of picks up their spirits ... boosts morale. Little things can do that. Like the flower in your buttonhole," he says to Silas, "or that glass of beer that you're enjoying."

From where I sit, Doc has given us a mighty good definition of morale. Important little things. A flower in your buttonhole ... a kind word from a stranger ... a mellow glass of beer with friends. Little things especially important in these days of strain.
