DID NOT HANG 'EM!

Colonels Yearby and Harris Make a Lucky Escape.

The Sunday Ordinance Soon to Depopulate the City.

A HIGHER COURT WILL DECIDE IT

People Who Come and Go—Brief Brevities of Interest to All Readers of The Globe.

In police court this morning Colonel Adolphus Yearby and Col. H. G. Harris were there, charged with selling goods on Sunday.

They pleaded guilty to everything in the count, and told the mayor they cared not what happened, except that they knew they were tuff criminals, and while possibly deserving a terrible fate, they would like it if he would electrocute them instead of hanging. Mayor Angier said that the law was plain and he would be called upon to enforce it.

He then sentenced Colonels Harris and Yearby to death, insisting that they be hanged with barb wire. "For," he said "we have laws and they must be enforced. This thing of men living here and selling a cigar or a drink of soda water on Sunday is the worst case I have ever seen. Who is safe? Here are weak and defenceless women in this town. Men have invested money in homes, and who, I ask, is safe if we propose to allow such lawlessness as selling soda water? For myself I would not hang these men. I would torture them—but the law in its grand, mute and mellow majesty pants for blood, and I will satisfy its insatiate appetite.

"So I order that Chief Woodall hang these two outlaws at once, denying them the benefit of the clergy."

Just as Woodall got a rope around their necks, Mayor Angier appeared on the scene and dismissed them, claiming that he did not believe the city had any right to pass such fool ordinances, or words to that effect.

City Attorney Parker gave notice of appeal.

voice when younger, she could have made a fortune as a sign for a soap house.

—Messrs. Dowdy and Howard have opened up a store on Church street. At present they carry nothing but peanuts and lemonade, but as they are not yet 10 years of age, they have ample time to increase their stock.

—We do not know how many degrees a man must go through in order to become a full fledged allianceman, but we heard of two of the degrees this morning. One of the members, in conversation with a GLOBE reporter, said he had reached the "ra tu-als" and had gotten to the second degree in the "bulekins."

—The Norfolk Landmark says: The battleship Texas is to be launched on Tuesday next, and on that day there will be the largest number of visitors here we have ever had on a similar occasion, owing to the fact that this is the regular excursion season. Mr. F. D. Gill, of the ferry line, will make arrangements to handle the multitude who will come by way of Norfolk by having separate docks for the Norfolk-Portsmouth and the Berkley Portsmouth traffic. There will be three boxes on the Norfolk side and an extra gate at the vehicle entrance. Extra facilities will also be provided for this side of the Elizabeth.

POLICE COURT.

What the Grist Was at the Mayor's Office This Morning.

News in police circles to-day is rather brisk.

Mance Jenkins, colored, loud and boisterous cursing; judgment suspended on payment of cost, $2.00.

James Graham, colored, boisterous cursing; fined $5.

J. W. Reid, white, drung and staggering; fined $5.

VERY GOOD.

Our State Was Largely Instrumental in Nominating Stevenson.

A special to the Charlotte Observer says: "The North Carolina delegation was largely influential in the nomination of Stevenson. Kope Elias seconded his nomination for our state. His parents were natives of Ireland county and moved to Christian county, Kentucky, about three years before he was born. His nomination was received with great applause."

SAD AND SUDDEN!

The Death of Miss Ula Rowland of This City.

The Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Bied Last Night.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO-MORROW A. M.

A Change Is Announced in Our Weather Bureau Which Will Be of General Interest to All Readers.

The death shadow has again spread its pall over a happy Durham home, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowland are called upon to mourn the death of a lovely young daughter, in whom was centered the hopes, ambitions and expectations of loving parents and devoted friends.

Died, last night about 12 o'clock, Miss Ula Rowland, aged 14 years.

Her disease was heart failure, her death sudden and unexpected.

Just blooming into womanhood, with the world and life all before her, it seems hard indeed that she should be taken.

But who dare judge?

Less than a month ago she gave her heart to God—her heart in the purity and freshness of virgin innocence and stainless youth—a youth which will be stainless forevermore.

The heart of the community goes out to the bereaved parents and stricken household in a sympathy that is sincere and heartfelt.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. R. C. Beaman, assisted by Rev. H. T. Darnall, will take place to-morrow morning from the Presbyterian church.

WHITAKER OUT!

COL. WHITAKER RESIGNS HIS POSITION OF PROPHET WEATHER.

Colonel Starrette Takes Charge of the Weather Bureau and Washstand Combined.

Colonel Whitaker has been giving us such rocky and wabby weather of late that we have caused him to resign his position as prophet.

Colonel Starrette takes his place. We do this because Whitaker has no Chin Whiskers, and a first-class prophet should have a Beard.

Colonel Starrette has the Beard, and predicts rain by it this evening.

We congratulate our readers, and promise them better weather.
