

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

There is a great deal of charitable work done in this and other cities. There are organizations to provide for destitute orphans, and societies which lend a helping hand to the deserving poor and the unfortunate. Women who have wealth, and those who have incomes barely sufficient to furnish the necessities of life, respond promptly to the demands of charity. Their hearts are touched with pity by tales of poverty and suffering, and they make sacrifices to afford relief to those who claim their assistance. All of this is creditable and commendable, but are not some of these zealous workers in the charitable field in danger of forgetting that charity begins at home? We do not refer to the fact that there are homes that are comfortable and unattractive for the want of careful house-keeping, but to the neglect which the babies and the older children suffer. How often are they intrusted to nurses who are in every way unfit to have charge of them? The colored nurses of the present day are not to be compared with those of a quarter of a century ago. The gentle faced, kind-hearted and neat appearing old colored nurses, with their heads adorned with a bandanna handkerchief, have disappeared. Their places have been taken by colored girls who have very little liking for children, and who, as a rule, do not know how to take care of them and are indifferent about promoting their comfort and welfare. Their chief object are their wages and their amusements. They neglect the babies when out of sight of their mistresses, and devote their time principally to gossiping with each other, or receiving the attentions of the negro men who hover about them. Cases of cruel treatment of children by their nurses are not infrequently reported, but it is very difficult to get the facts of them because the nurses protect each other. If witnesses of cruel acts attempt to interfere in behalf of the children they are liable to be made the objects of abuse, particularly if they are ladies. A few days ago a negro nurse about twenty-five years of age, who had two children in charge, was taken to task for cruel treatment of one of them, a little boy about two years old. The woman was pushing a baby carriage, in which was a baby, at a rapid rate, and the boy was clinging to it crying, being almost exhausted by his efforts to keep up with the nurse. On being remonstrated with for dragging the child along in that cruel manner she answered sulkily that all she cared for was the money she earned and that all the children's parents cared for was the work they got out of her. It is impossible to say, of course, whether she slandered the children's parents or not, but the chances are she told the truth, not only with regard to herself but also with regard to the parents. If the mother of the children loved them as she ought to she wouldn't have intrusted them to such a nurse.

How many mothers are there whose children are intrusted to these careless and unfit negro nurses, who know how their children spend their time, how they are treated, or where they go? May they not hear words which should never reach their innocent ears? May they not be taken to the badly ventilated homes of these nurses, or of the nurse's friends, where disease lurks, or may they not be so cruelly treated as to make them bad-tempered and bad-mannered?

We have nothing to say against charitable works, but the mother who devotes the better part of her time to hunting up objects for charity and leaves her children to the care of an ignorant, and sometimes vicious nurse, doesn't know what genuine objects of charity are. The claim which her babies have upon her charity is greater than that of any other charitable claim, and it ought to be satisfied first. Their comfort, training, and happiness should be her first consideration.

"Tippecanoe and bicorne too" promises to be the battle cry of the great and good republican party.

Some people think the republican party has held its last national convention. The result of next fall's election will decide that.

Both Cleveland and Harrison are Presbyterians, but it is not stated whether they are both believers in the doctrine of predestination.

Senator Colquitt thinks that the republican ticket is the most favorable one for the democrats that could have been nominated. It will not command, he thinks, more than the partisan republican vote in any state. The senator is doubtless right. The ticket is not a strong one.

DUBLEY REFLECTIONS.

Our "Primitive Baptist" friends hold their regular monthly services here last Saturday and Sunday.—Rev. J. C. McMullen, of Goldsboro has a regular appointment at the Casey school house on the 2d Sunday of each month.—Mr. F. B. Wright, representing the wholesale drug house of William H. Green & Co., Wilmington, N. C., gave our merchants a call on Wednesday of last week.—We regret to have to chronicle the death of Mrs. H. B. Brit, which sad event took place recently at the home of her husband in Brogden township, after a lingering illness of several months.—Our farmers will soon have their crops "laid by" and we truly hope that their patient struggle with "Old Green" will be richly rewarded with a beautiful harvest.

THE GIRL I LOVE.

BY A. ROSCOW.
She has hands both soft and white,
Eyes of blue so very bright
That they sparkle in the night.
When she laughs the music swells,
Like a symphony of bells
On the brooklets in the dells.
But a sweeter charm than this—
You are hushed with holy bliss
When she deigns to give a kiss.
And the pretty little foy
Says she loves me every day
In the most delightful way.
Though my darling's very bold,
I made, I'm sure could never hold;
She's my sister—two years old.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

To Brother Knight Geo. Melvin Carr,
Who Departed This Life June 21, 1888.
CASTLE HALL,
GOLDSBORO, N. C., June 29, 1888.
WHEREAS, The Supreme Ruler of the Universe in His all wise providence has removed from our Castle Hall to that better abode, our beloved Brother Knight GEORGE MELVIN CARR. Therefore RESOLVED, That in the death of Brother Carr our order has lost a brave and valiant Knight, and the community an honest and upright citizen.
RESOLVED, That we tender to the bereaved widow and orphans our heartfelt sympathy in this time of their great sorrow, and will ever strive to them the broad mantle of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence.
RESOLVED, That in token of kindly Friendship this Lodge will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days; and a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of our deceased brother; that they be spread on our Minutes, and that a copy be furnished THE GOLDSBORO HEADLIGHT, the Goldsboro Aegis and the Wilmington Messenger with the request to publish the same.
Respectfully submitted by F. O. and H. C. SMITH,
E. G. FOSTER,
J. M. LATHAM,
COMMITTEE.

An ex-governor of Michigan, whose name is immaterial, says the Cleveland ticket, which he thinks is the best the democrats have nominated, will carry that State. Such a result would not surprise either democrats or republicans very greatly.
