FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Roup in Fowls.

Under the guise of roup are various forms of disease arising from the same cause. The symptoms are generally: they lose ambition, and in the last stages throw their heads forward and make a shrill cough. Treatment: Remove the fowl from connection with other fowls, as it is very contagious. Wet the top of the head with spirits of camphor and put a little under the wing and between the legs; do not put too much in the latter places, as it may blister. Soak two or three small crackers in hot water or milk and add cayenne (red) pepper the size of a very small pea, and about one-half teaspoonful brandy. If the fowl does not eat the preparation force it down; keep all other feed from the fowl and give this mixture two or three times a day until better, and feed very lightly for a few days.—Country Gentleman.

To Make Hens Lay.

Put two or more quarts of water in a kettle, and one large seed pepper or two small ones, then put the kettle over the fire. When the water boils stir in the coarse Indian meal until you have a thick mush. Let it cook an hour or so; feed hot. Horseradish is chopped fine and stirred into mush, as prepared in the above directions, and for results we are getting from five to ten eggs per day; whereas, previous to feeding, we had not had eggs for a long time. We hear a good deal of complaint from other people about not getting eggs. To such we would warmly recommend cooked feed fed hot. Boiled apple skins seasoned with red pepper, or boiled potatoes seasoned with horseradish are good for feed; much better than uncooked food. Corn, when fed to the hen by itself, has a tendency to fatten rather than produce the more profitable egg-laying. A spoonful of sulphur stirred with their feed occasionally will rid them of vermin and tone up their system.—Poultryman.

Washing Dairy Utensils.

Some wash pans, pails and vats carefully with cold water, in which is a little salt or soda; then rinse, and then thoroughly scald with hot water. Others pour on boiling water first; sometimes rinse with cold water, more often with hot. Then there are others who are not very particular about any method. The first plan is far superior. The idea is to get all the milk off, and out of the pails, etc., before scalding. Boiling water seems to cook milk, cream and buttermilk onto and into the utensils, and there, like any other milk substance, there is a change soon that imparts its bad influence to the succeeding messes of milk. As between all hot and all cold water to wash dairy fixtures, take the latter with a little salt, and far better results would follow. The wooden churn had better stand with good brine in it than be washed as many people do by "boiling" all the butter adhering to the inside of churn into the wood, instead of first scouring it off with a little water and salt, and then proceeding to wash. Stone churns, unless having a perfect glazing, soon get the stone walls filled with oil through the pores of the imperfect glazing, and if cream stands in this churn any length of time it absorbs some of this old cream, and the butter, however well made, will soon deteriorate in quality.—The Stockman.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Let cows and calves have access to plenty of pure water and salt.

Use only perfectly seasoned grape baskets; green baskets cause mold.

The peach-borer has been vanquished in the peach belt of Michigan by digging out the borer in late September and early May.

Prominent fruit growers find that thinned peaches are of a superior size and excellence and sell much better than the unthinned ones.

Never wait for rain when you have a crop under cultivation; keep right on cultivating and you will be surprised to find how your crop will withstand the drought.

Cultivate to keep the weeds from using the plant food needed for the crop of grain; cultivate that the air may penetrate the soil, thereby carrying the gases among the roots and developing more plant food.

The New York Experiment Station discovered, a few years ago, that seed-corn nearest the tip produced the strongest and best plants; that from the butt, next best, and that from the middle of the ear the poorest.

Ensilage, and especially good corn ensilage, when compared with dry corn fodder, or with other feeding stuffs, produces results so satisfactory as to surprise the chemist, and which chemistry cannot explain.

The warmer the milk when set, the more complete will be the separation of the cream from the milk at any given lower temperature; and the more rapidly the temperature falls, the more rapid will be the separation of the cream from the milk.

If one has a bearing apple orchard now is the time to turn the old sow and pigs in to pick up the windfalls. They destroy thousands of worms that would otherwise go into the ground to again come forth in a different form to propagate the species.

Household Hints.

Substitute for Washing Soda: Use hyposulphite of soda in place of washing soda. It is said this does not attack the fabric, but bleaches the goods.

Something to Remember: Spots in cloth or calico caused by an acid, may be removed by hartshorn. Spots caused by an alkali may be removed with vinegar or tartaric acid.

To Take Out Mildew: Wet the cloth, and rub on soap and pulverized chalk mixed together; lay in the sun. Or it may be removed by laying the cloth in buttermilk for a short time, after which place in the hot sun.

For Washing Bed Table Linen: Use tepid water, with a little of Smith's powdered borax, which sets the color; wash the linen separately and quickly, using but little soap. Rinse in tepid water, containing a little boiled starch; hang to dry in the shade, and iron when almost dry.

To Take Grease Out of Silks, Woolens, Paper, Floors, Etc.: Put thickly over the grease spot powdered French chalk, or common chalk if you cannot get the French; cover with a brown paper, and set on that a flat-iron. Let it remain until cool. Repeat if necessary. Be sure the iron is not so hot as to burn cloth or paper.

To Clean Silk and Thread Gloves: Place them on the hands, and wash with borax water or white castile suds, same as if washing the hands. Rinse under a stream of clear water, and dry with a towel, keeping the gloves on until half dried. Then remove carefully, fold so they will look as neatly as they were as it is possible, and lay between clean towels under a weight.

Venetian Lacemaking.

Lacemaking by hand as well as by machinery is an industry to which a good deal of attention is being paid abroad, as Nottingham manufacturers know to their cost. Our present reference, however, is to hand-made lace only. The Venetian lace at the Italian Exhibition is greatly admired, and some care is exercised in the production of it. Venice has now a school of lacemaking, and a permanent exhibition of old and new lace is now united with it. The Queen of Italy is one of the patrons, and the Italian Government gives it an annual subsidy. Maltese and Irish point are made at Nazareth, in the Tinnevely district, South India, and can be obtained at a price far below English lace.
 It is suggested that the Indian Government might render special assistance to lacemaking, and so provide domestic employment for Hindoo women. No one who has seen the Irish lace at the exhibition, moreover, can doubt that there is a newer and better future for it, if the necessary steps are but taken to promote art training and to extend lace-making as a cottage industry.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Subterranean Fishes.

In the Algerian Sahara there are numerous subterranean lakes in which a number of small fish and mollusks liv-and multiply. Moreover, the artesian wells of the Sahara often throw out fish two inches in length. The Governor of the oases of Thebes and Grabes, in Egypt, in 1849, asserted that he took from an artesian well, 440 feet deep, fish in sufficient quantity to supply his table.

A new saddle that had been invented was thought worthy of introduction into the German army. As a final trial a squadron of fifty cavalymen are now taking a four weeks' ride through Prussia under the personal command of a General. They ride forty-five miles a day.

The home crop of rice being short last year, large quantities of the East Indian article have been imported. The finest in the world is said to be grown in Java from Carolina seed.
