"The World Owes Us a Living."

"The world owes us a living. But I have not found it that way. And if you depend on its giving, I fear you will meet with dismay. 'Tis said the world owes us a living. But somehow the saying I doubt. For you will find it is clay in giving. When your money and credit want. 'Tis said the world owes us a living. But I feel you will die in despair. If you wait till it gives you a shilling. That by labor you have not earned square. 'Tis said the world owes us a living. But the saying will lead you astray. For the world, 'tis said in its stinginess. I care not just what they may say. For since Adam in Eden was living. And Eve ate the apple you know. We all have to do our own digging. And live by the sweat of our brow. Then why not be up and a doing. And prove to the world you are man. And cease to be always pursuing. A saying that's meant but a sham. T. R. MAGUIRE.

Honesty the Best Policy.

It is strange how reluctant young men are to accept the most vital truth in life, the most absolute honesty is the only kind of honesty that succeeds in business. It isn't a religion or religious belief. Honesty does not depend upon any religious creed or dogma that was ever conceived. It is a question of a young man's own conscience. He knows what is right and what is wrong. And yet, simple as the matter is, it is astonishing how difficult it is of understanding. An honest course in business seems too slow to the average young man. "I can't afford to plod along. I must strike, and strike quickly," is the sentiment. Ah, yes, my friend, but not dishonestly. No young man can afford to even think of dishonesty. Success on honorable lines may sometimes seem slower in coming, but when it does come it outlives in permanency all the so-called successes gained by other methods. To look at the methods of others is always a mistake. The successes of to-day are not given to the initiator, but to the originator. It makes no difference how other men succeed—their success is theirs and not yours. You cannot partake of it. Every man is law unto himself. The most absolute integrity is the one and the only sure foundation of success. Such a success is lasting. Other kinds of successes may seem so, but it is all in the seeming, and not in the reality. Let a young man swerve from the path of honesty and it will surprise him how quickly every avenue of a lasting success is closing against him. Making money dishonestly is the most difficult thing to accomplish in the world, just as lying is the practice most wearing on the mind. It is the young man of unquestioned integrity who is selected for the important position. No business man ever places his business in the hands of a young man whom he feels he cannot absolutely trust. And to be trusted means to be honest. Honesty, and that alone, commands confidence. An honest life, well directed, is the only life for a young man to lead. It is the life that is compatible with the largest and surest business success.

Hard Times and the Farmer.

To a poor, unsuccessful, hard-labor farmer the times are always hard, no matter what kind of a season, or what financial depression the country may be undergoing; but the intelligent, thrifty farmer, one who diversifies his crops, raises his meat and his bread first, does he know anything comparatively of the hard times that have caused so much distress throughout the country during the past year? Thousands and tens of thousands of honest, skillful mechanics are out of work and are suffering for want of the necessities of life. Is there an intelligent farmer in all North Carolina that is out of work or suffering for bread? Every farmer who is not indolent gets a living during these hard times. It may be a pretty poor one for some, but he gets it all the same; at any rate he is not begging, nor is he enlisted in a mob fighting for bread. Everybody is dependent on the farmer for enough to eat, drink and to wear. They are the producers of bread and meat and serve themselves first, and the surplus goes to feed the residue of humanity. A farmer who complains these hard times, when so much suffering exists among the unemployed throughout the land, should look about himself and compare his condition with that of others. He may not have any money, but he has meat and bread and "regular employment." He should not exhibit ingratitude when such superior advantages and better opportunities have fallen to his lot in these trying times than to the rest of humanity.

The Wisdom of the East.

"From said by ancient sages. That force of life increased with years. So much, that in our better stages. As when pains grew deep and sickness raged. The greatest force of life appeared. But to retain the vigor of youth, the enjoyment of life, the blessings of a healthy appetite, and a good digestion, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and live to a hale and hearty old age. Dyspepsia, indigestion, "liver complaint" and kindred ailments it's guaranteed to cure or money paid if it will be refunded.

We Love those we love for what they are to us, not what they are to others.

ARP IS DOWN ON POLITICIANS.

They Have Fooled the People by Saying that Congress Could Give Relief. Old Dr. Abernathy, or some other physician, said that he was the best physician who amused the patient until nature restored him. Our lawmakers at Washington have been practicing on the people that way for about a year, and I verily believe the patient is getting well. They have fooled the people with broad pills and sweetened water and fed us on hope and promises until the reaction has come, and now we don't care a darn whether they do anything or not. As Cobe says, "It's all optional with me." Business is resuming its natural channels. The wheels of industry are turning. Retrenchment and reform at home have effected more than silver bills or tariff legislation. Adversity has taught us all a lesson, and now another good crop will set the country all right. The people have been fooled with the idea that Congress could relieve. The average American citizen is a simple minded, credulous creature. He knows no more about this silver question than I do, and I don't know whether I know anything or not. How should I know, when my teachers all differ so widely, and one man tells me one thing and another says it's not so? It is amusing to read the interviews with representative men in Atlanta. Some of them went to school with my boys—some of them don't know what seigniorage means, but all of them are like Jack Bunsby—they "have an opinion as is an opinion." Some say Cleveland is a great statesman and some say he is a fool and some say he is a knave, and has sold out to the goldbugs and will make enough by this veto to retire as a millionaire. I was up at Sanford the other day and a man told me confidentially that another man told him that he had just come from Washington and it was reported there that Grover went a-fishing at Egg harbor and got on a bender and threw some of the eggs at his friends. I don't believe it—do you? But about politics—my opinion is that the people attach too much importance to them. There are men around Clear Water talking politics while their wives are at home sewing for a living and supporting the family. That is the way everywhere. The lazy, disinterested men are lying around waiting for relief, while the pale-faced wife is doing all the work. The lot of office seems to be a passion with a large class of people. They brood over it and scheme for it and banker after it. It does look like a great man who is worthy of a high office would naturally be retiring and modest, and not be everlastingly setting up his claims—his claims—his services to the party. The will rush for the succession before Senator Colquitt was buried was disgraceful. It was like some of them Atlanta lawyers who hear of a railroad wreck and rush wildly there and importune the injured man for his case while the surgeon is setting his broken limb, or they offer their services to the bereaved widow before her husband is buried. These are not fancies—they are facts, and it is a sign of falling from grace when the people allow such things to be done without rebuke—without scorn and contempt. There are men in every State who, like old Bob Lee in the army, are above the spirit of detraction. Such a man I thought was General Evans, and that is why I wanted him for Governor, and I am sorry that he ever agreed to take the stump and be hawked at by the politicians. There was no necessity for it. Every little jack-anape who is sidwiping around to get the orthography of a little office will jump up and down and say I'm for this or I'm for that, when if he would go to work he could earn more honest money than he will ever get waiting for office. But the issues are upon the country. The old parties will be torn asunder and new alignments made, and maybe that will break up the solid South and the almost solid North, and bring about a new era like there was in the parties when Whigs and Democrats divided the people. There are thousands of good Democrats down South who favor a protective tariff, and they will turn to a party that will give it. There is bound to be a new deal of the cards—a new move on the checkboard. The old issues have been brushed up and worked over until they are threadbare. Mr. Cleveland may be right, but he is not with the party—certainly not with the party in Georgia, in fact all over the South, for our people say they want more silver and an income tax and the removal of the 10 per cent. tax on State banks. But, after all, the man who will work diligently and attend to his own business will get all the free silver he needs, tax or no tax, tariff or no tariff, and he won't have to borrow money from State banks or any other banks. The Almighty Father may afflict him, but nobody else. It makes me sad to think how He has afflicted thousands by the late ## wintry blasts that have destroyed the fruit and the crops, but we can't help that by legislation.

BILL ARP.

Prejudice.

Prejudice is one of the worst obstacles to the souls progress—a handicap upon the runner in the race of life. Probably no person is free from prejudice. On the mind or heart it rests like a dead weight yet too undefined to be perceived as a thing to be resolutely cast off. With some people prejudices are treated as though there were a merit in them. One person takes a dislike to another of whom he knows little—perhaps has never seen. No reason can be given for this attitude; but rather than give up the prejudice he submits to it and so destroys any good influence that that person might have over him. Nor does it stop here. The prejudice is aimed and advertised until the good influence that that same person might have over others is destroyed. It is difficult to rid ourselves of a prejudice, even when we wish to; but to cling to and to value it, to fold it in our arms and pet it and show it off as one of our prized possessions, is this a fit proceeding for an honest man? Two of a Kind. The Wilmington Star notes the fact that there are two kinds of business that prosper in this country, notwithstanding the frequent exposures by the press; one is the "green goods" fraud, the other supplying unexpected heirs with large inheritances. So much has been said about the first of these frauds that is surprising the fellows who ply them can find any dupes, but they do find lots of them every day and among them people of presumed intelligence. The other, which has been quite often exposed by the newspapers of this and other countries, and by our representatives abroad, finds its dupes too, who are credulous enough to have faith in the announcements of their good fortune and pay out their money liberally to foreign sharpers and their accomplices in this country who pocket the money, and that's the end of the big inheritance business and of the hopes of the duped. The Lesson It Teaches. Charlotte Observer. The enthronement of Populism, wherever it has been enthroned, has meant the opening of a Pandora's box of evils. Kansas, Oregon, Nebraska and Colorado have been the scenes of disgraceful occurrences, resulting from the violence and hot-headedness of Populist rulers, and we see now in South Carolina the consequences of Populist government the cornerstone of which is hate. It is to be hoped that the people of North Carolina will take well to heart the lesson which this trouble in our sister State teaches, and learn from it that the peace and prosperity of the Commonwealth are conditioned upon the unity and fraternity of the governing class—the white people of the State. Our conservative and sensible people must see from the state of affairs just across the border that a government founded upon prejudice must bring trouble in its train. A Blood-thirsty Colored Youth. Wilmington Star. Among the freaks produced by the State of Alabama is a ten-year-old darkey, who started out two months ago by clubbing a six-year-old brother to death for refusing to give him some marbles. A month later he amputated with a hatchet his little sister's fingers because she refused to give him a plaything, and a few days ago finished up his performance by pumping a load of shot into a younger brother and killing him for refusing to divide a biscuit. The authorities then concluded it was time to take him out of the reach of temptation and put him in jail. Choked with a Marble. Durham Star. Mary, the little four-year-old daughter of Mr. Henry Edwards, who resides in North Durham, came near being choked to death yesterday afternoon with a large marble. She was playing with it in her mouth and it slipped down her throat. She was choked for an hour and a half, and there was great excitement among the neighbors. All the ladies in the neighborhood and many men went to Mr. Edwards' home to do what they could for the child, and finally some one took her by her heels and gave her a violent shake and out rolled the marble. The Spring Medicine. "All run-down" from the weakening effects of warm weather, you need a good tonic and blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not put off taking it. Numerous little ailments, if neglected, will soon break up the system. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now, to expel disease and give you strength and appetite. Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Harmless, reliable, sure.

For committing a criminal assault upon Mrs. Dan Chambers, near Greensboro, Ga., Friday, Dan Abern, a negro tramp, was taken from jail that night by a mob and lynched. During the progress of a dance near Lebanon, Ind., Monday night, Harry G. Axtell, a jealous lover, killed his sweetheart, her flirting partner and then blew out his own brains. Ten men were killed and eight wounded by an explosion which occurred near Petersburg, Va., Saturday evening, in the powder-house of the fireworks factory of C. N. Romano & Bro., causing a loss of $75,000. The South Carolina troops which have been on duty at Darlington and Florence since Sunday a week ago went home Friday with the thanks of Governor Tillman. It is estimated that this late "unpleasantness" will cost the State about $20,000.

Last Week in Trade Circles.

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, April 9, 1894. Trade reports during the past week have continued to indicate a gradual and healthful growth of business. Consumptive requirements drawing upon spring stocks in the hands of distributors have disclosed deficiencies which have protracted the demand upon primary markets to a later date than had been the case in any recent year. Industrial output is steadily expanding; but as yet the improvement in demand has not been sufficient to strengthen prices. Merchandise exports have continued to exceed those of last season at the corresponding period; but there has been no increase in imports, which continue to fall heavily below those of last year. A very encouraging feature of the situation is the continued decrease in the number and importance of business failures. For the last week the total in the United States and Canada was 275, as against 223 for the corresponding week last year. But according to R. G. Dun & Co., the number of failures was only 1065 in March, as against 1202 in February and 2090 in January; and while the aggregate of 4297 failures for the three months was never equaled in any quarter until the third of last year, "the average of liabilities was only $14,800, which was lower than any that has appeared in the records of 38 years at any time closely succeeding any serious reverse." Cotton prices have further advanced 1-16 of a cent per pound, owing to a steady tendency toward the exhaustion of interior stocks, continued liberal exports and a slight increase in purchases by domestic spinners. The cotton goods trade has developed no decided improvements; but there is a fair business in reflection of current distributing wants, and prices show little change. Values still show some irregularity according to the condition of stocks, but the general position, if anything, is a little steadier. The wool trade has been fairly active. More machinery is at work, and consumption is increasing. Stocks of wool in secondary markets are much reduced, and there is in consequence a firmer feeling as to values of all desirable supplies which yet remain. Wheat prices have advanced 3-4 cents per bushel, owing to the continued prevalence of uncertainty as to the condition of the growing crop. The crop was unquestionably frozen to some extent by recent freezing weather; but the reports of injury have been much exaggerated for speculative effect. The situation, in view of previous low prices for wheat, has naturally alarmed the wind sellers in all markets; and the effect of eager covering of contracts by this class of operators and of larger buying for investment is apparent in the higher level of values. It remains to be seen whether the rise in prices is the beginning of a permanent recovery from the extreme depression of the wheat markets or merely the temporary result of a frothy speculation. The Cincinnati Price Current, after further investigation, insists that 85 or 90 per cent. of the winter grain area has escaped serious injury, and that the higher average condition of the crop will admit of a larger production than that of last year, if conditions should hereafter be equally as favorable. The excitement in the speculative markets has prevented much new business for export; and it is noted that, while American prices have been going further and further above European buying limits, several cargoes of Argentine wheat have been sold for future shipment by exporting firms in New York. Clearances of wheat and flour, however, in completion of old engagements, have continued of fair volume; and so far during this crop year the exports have been approximately only 16,000,000 bushels less than they were during the corresponding period last year. Corn prices have advanced 1/2 cents per bushel, partly as a result of a comparatively moderate interior movement and a fair export demand, but largely from sympathy with the strength in the wheat markets. There has been a very large movement of hogs to Western packing centres, but its effect upon prices of provisions has been more than offset by the speculative strength in cereals, and Chicago prices are fractionally higher than they were a week ago. Exports of hog products continue large, and for last week the shipments of meats and lard aggregated 25,017,000 pounds, as against 10,649,000 pounds for the corresponding week last year. Young or middle-aged men, suffering from nervous debility or kindred affections, should address with 10 cents in stamps for large treatise, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 668 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. Rich on human, mangle on horses, dogs and all stock, cured in 30 minutes, by Woodford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by M. E. Robinson & Bro., druggists, Goldsboro, N. C.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

A Summary of Current Events for the Past Seven Days.

Incendiaries are at work in Warren county. Asheville wants the State Guard encampment. A destructive cyclone passed near Whiteville, Tuesday. Oil has been discovered near Scott's Hill, Pender county. A two-year-old child in Lincoln county knows the entire alphabet. A fire at Burgaw, Friday, burned R. M. Croom's ginhouse and contents. A Winston thief, being pursued Friday night, ran into a barbed wire fence with fatal result. The grocery store of George W. Pickett at Wilmington was raided by thieves Thursday night. Three children—one white and two colored, were burned to death in Union county last week. Three country stores in Catawba county were broken into last week. In every instance the burglars were after nothing else but money. Dr. Bryson Walker, of Polk county, was accidentally killed by his grandson, Monday, who was fooling with a supposed unloaded rifle. Bad health induced Miss Marietta Petty, of Gaston county, to drown herself Monday night. She was to have been married the next day. In Ashe county, Saturday, Marcus Gentry committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. Financial difficulties was the cause. A four-year-old child of John Jones, colored, was burned to death in Mecklenburg county, Tuesday evening, during the absence of its parents. Oliver (Holland) English, the wife murderer, was taken from Bakersville jail Saturday night by a masked mob and hanged to a "sour apple tree." An ugly row occurred at a respectable house in Salisbury, Tuesday evening, in which T. A. Wiley beat Mat Alley, the proprietress, almost to death. Hamilton Jones, of Forestville, Wake county, while on his way home Thursday night, was shot from ambush by a negro and dangerously wounded. According to a late decision of the State Supreme Court, I. H. Foust, the defaulting Salisbury bank cashier must go to the penitentiary for two years. A band of white caps, composed of men and women, visited the home of John Gardiner, in Mecklenburg county, Friday night, and left him nearly dead. In Polk county, Thursday, Will Johnson was stabbed to death by Miss Lou Parris, aged 17, for accusing her of immoral conduct with a married man. While playing with a number of children, Saturday, Miss Minnie Bidwell, aged 18, of Anson county, was crushed to death by an overturning stack of lumber. Two children of Will Hargrove, colored, were burned to death in Warren county, Friday, while locked in the house during the absence of their parents. John Horace, colored, was jailed at Winston, Friday, for attempting a criminal assault upon the six-year-old daughter of W. L. Bruce. Lynching is yet feared. The Durham aldermen have passed an ordinance making it unlawful for a boy under 21 years of age to enter a saloon, save on business not connected with the bar. According to the Newton Enterprise, Lowesville, Lincoln county, has a young lady mail carrier, Miss Ella Hager, who makes a six mile trip daily on horseback. An exploding lamp caused quite a stampede at the closing exercises of a colored school in the Lenoir Opera House, Thursday night, resulting in many bruised heads. A Stokes county man has five children and five dogs, says the Danbury Reporter, but has not had a dust of meal in the house for several days except what he borrowed. During a drunken row in Yadkin county, Wednesday night, John M. Cartwright shot Joel Caudle with a pistol, resulting in death soon after. The murderer made his escape. Three operatives at W. H. Reeves & Son's tobacco factory, in Roaring River, Wilkes county, were poisoned Monday by drinking a lot of peach flavoring through mistake for peach brandy. Governor Carr, on Saturday, appointed Alfred M. Waddell, of Wilmington, as solicitor of the Criminal Court of New Hanover, to fill the unexpired term of the late Col. Benj. R. Moore. A shifting train of the Carolina Central railroad crushed the life out of Sarah Flannigan, a white operative in the Ada cotton mills, near Charlotte, Saturday evening, while emerging from the mill on her way home.

A Gentleman Pickpocket.

Charlotte News. Mrs. Jonas Schiff, of Charlotte, is visiting in Washington. Last Tuesday she started out to do some shopping, and on reaching for her purse, found that it was missing. The pocketbook contained $10.50 in cash, a check, and a number of cards and papers. Mrs. Schiff at once telegraphed to have the payment of the check stopped, for it was for a good sum of money. On Friday, Mr. Schiff received a package which, as shown by the postmark, was mailed in Baltimore. The package contained the check, cards and all the papers that were in Mrs. Schiff's pocketbook. There was no word of writing or explanation, but none was needed. The pickpocket had kept the purse and the cash, and had mailed the check and papers to Mrs. Schiff's address. Mrs. Schiff was evidently the victim of a professional.

Col. L. A. Alfred Writes:

I am in my seventy-third year, and for fifty years I have been a great sufferer from indigestion, constipation and biliousness. I have tried all the remedies advertised for these diseases and got no permanent relief. I gained twelve pounds in three months. My strength and health, my appetite and my digestion were perfectly restored and I felt as young and vigorous as I ever did in my life. L. J.
