BREVITIES.

While Mr. Cleveland is whining around and telling how the people ought to treat the President it may occur to somebody to tell him how the President ought to treat the people.—Philadelphia Press.

Mugwump Harvey, the Wilkes-Barre ferry, goes to prison for twelve years. This will interfere with the effectiveness but not with the earnestness of his opposition to the dreadfully wicked republican party.—Philadelphia Press.

A Good Definition.—"What is forever?" asked the Sunday-school superintendent of a little girl.

"The army and navy," was the guileless answer. You see, she had heard the chorus of the "Red, White and Blue."—Hartford Journal.

POPULAR AMONG THE PEOPLE.—He (after church)—"What a very eloquent man the Rev. Dr. Whitechoker is, Miss Breezy. I was delighted with him."

She (of Chicago)—"Yes, there are no flies on Dr. Whitechoker."—New York Journal of Commerce.

GAVE HIMSELF AWAY.—Magistrate (to party who had been arrested on suspicion)—"You claim to be a Delaware peach grower."

Suspicious Party—Yes, sir.

Magistrate—How is the peach crop this year?

Suspicious party—Big, enormous.

Magistrate—Lock him up. He's no Delaware peach grower.

—Mrs. A. (who is taking French lessons)—"Now, Bridget, when Professor Blancque comes you must say 'Entrez' to him, and he will know what you mean and come in to the parlor." The bell rings, and Bridget goes to the door. It is the professor.

"Ontario," says Bridget; "wud ye walk into the parlor, sur?" The professor walked in, and Bridget reported her triumph to the cook.—Harper's Bazar.

—The count of the cash in the Treasury shows that whilst in twenty years of republican rule there occurred a shortage of two cents, in the two years of democratic rule there has been a shortage of $20.

The republican shortage of two cents was afterwards found in a dark corner of a Treasury vault, and it is probable that the democratic shortage of $20 may be found in a dark corner of some spoilsman's pocket.—Philadelphia Press.

TRAINING JOURNALISTS.—Editor—"What's this I see? 'The light fantastic toe?'" You mean that they danced, don't you?

Reporter—Yes, but.

Editor—No buts about it. When people dance they dance. And by the pipe! "The wee sma' hours." Now, what are the wee sma' hours?

Reporter—Why, why, I thought everybody.

Editor—Well, you were mistaken. If people dance until after midnight just say so.

Composition costs out here, young man.—Omaha World.

THE POWER OF PEDANTRY.—"Yes," said Mr. Mally sadly. "I lost my case—lost it by the injudicious language of my lawyer." Mr. Mally—"Why, how was that, Mr. Mally?" "Why, when my lawyer was closing his argument he thought to make a point by saying: 'Let justice be done; though the heavens fall.'" "I shouldn't think that would have injured your case." "It did, for the lawyer on the other side in closing said: 'That justice had fallen.'" That settled the business with the jury, and I had to pay the damages.—Boston Courier.

THE SLANDERER.

Slander, the foulest whelp of sin. The man in whom this spirit entered was undone. His tongue was set on fire of hell; his heart was black as death; his legs were faint with haste.

To propagate the lie his soul had framed; His pillow was the peace of families. Destroyed—the sigh of innocence reproached—

Broken friendships, and the strife of brotherhoods.

Yet did he spare his sleep and hear the clock Number the midnight watches, on his bed Devising mischief more; and early rose And made most hellish meals of good men's names.

From door to door you might have seen him speed, Or placed amidst a group of gaping fools, And whispering in their ears with his foul lips.

Peace fled the neighborhood in which he made His haunts, and, like a moral pestilence, Before his breath the healthy blooms and shoots

Of social joy and happiness decayed. Fools only in his company were seen, And those forsaken of God, and to them selves given up.

The prudent shunned him and his house As one who had a deadly moral plague.

DAMAGE BY THE STORM.

HEAVY RAINS AND CLOUD BURSTS IN NEW ENGLAND.

Eighteen Lives Reported Lost in Massachusetts—Trains Suspended Between Washouts—Dams Carried Away and Low Lands Submerged.

NEWARK, N. J., July 25.—The violent thunder storms that have prevailed during the past two days have done almost inestimable damage throughout this county. This is especially the case on the lands of farmers along the upper Passaic. Here the hay crop is entirely cut off. Added to this the large quantities of water that have fallen have flooded the cultivated lands and destroyed many valuable crops. Houses and trees in all the surrounding towns were struck by lightning, but no special damage is reported.

In Bloomfield, Montclair, and other places small brooks overflowed their banks, and goods stored away in cellars, amounting to several thousand dollars, were destroyed. On the Greenwood Lake railroad several small washouts are reported, but none is said to be of a serious nature. In this city the damage was confined to the overflow of sewers, which made living in basements in certain parts of the city impossible.

DOVER, N. H., July 25.—Since 8 p. m. Thursday until the same hour last night, nine inches of rain had fallen. The Cochecho river, which were overflowed for miles around, the volume of water rushing over the Cochecho dam was thirty-seven inches and increasing hourly. All low lands throughout this region are covered with water. A great part of the hay crop has been spoiled, and several highway bridges are in danger of being carried away.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 25.—A special from Great Barrington reports that eighteen lives were lost by the flood.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., July 25.—The cloud burst of Friday morning caused damage to property along the banks of Green river, which were overflowed for miles around. Williams' bridge, at Alford, a structure sixty-five feet long and ten feet above the ordinary level of the river, was swept away. Kellogg's grist mill, below the village, was saved only by opening the water gates after the dam had been seriously damaged. On the dam of the Berkshire Heights reservoir the water stood four feet deep.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 25.—At Miller's Falls much damage was done Saturday night and yesterday by the heavy rains. Two passenger trains and one freight, with five carloads of hogs, are stalled on the Fitchburg road, within two miles of that village, by washouts and landslides. A dozen washouts have occurred within twenty-four hours. Teams returning from Ewing, to which place passengers were transferred, narrowly escaped swamping on the banks of Miller's river. The freight house at Miller's Falls has been undermined, one side of it already having settled three feet.

HOOKSETT, N. H., July 25.—As a result of the rainstorm of Saturday night, the highways and lowlands were flooded yesterday. It was the heaviest storm in several years, five inches of rain having fallen.

LAKE PLEASANT, Mass., July 25.—The most severe rain ever known in this vicinity prevailed Saturday night. All the mountain streams are swollen, and their roaring can be heard for miles. No trains passed here yesterday. There is a washout, twenty feet deep, on the Fitchburg road, near Ewing. The Connecticut river is very high. Highways are badly damaged and many bridges were swept away.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 25.—Torrents of rain have fallen during the past few days. There has been considerable damage done in the country hereabout. The heat is excessive and the death rate unprecedented.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 25.—The severest storm in this locality in many years has been in progress since Thursday and rain is still falling. Many streets have been rendered impassable by torrents of water pouring through them. In four hours Saturday night 3.04 inches of water fell. On Hall street a culvert gave way, the rushing waters tearing up the street for hundreds of feet and demolishing the car tracks. No cars were run on the horse railroad yesterday. All the streets near Wilson hill are submerged. The Merrimack river is a seething torrent, and unless there is a speedy cessation of the downpour some of the mills will be unable to run. Serious damage in this direction is feared. The rainfall since Thursday up to 7 o'clock last evening was 7.49 inches.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 25.—There have been twenty-four hours' constant rain here. The Raritan river has overflowed its banks from Bound Brook to the bay.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., July 25.—The heavy rains of the past two days have caused a freshet in the Delaware river at this place. The wharves are covered with water.

CHATHAM, July 25.—Saturday morning at 6:30 o'clock one of the severest rain storms ever known passed over some portions of Columbia county. The section between Martindale and Hillsdale, on the Harlem railroad, was visited by several cloud bursts. About one mile south of Martindale a sheet of water several miles long and about half a mile wide washed the fields, taking away the farmers' crops, all the highway bridges for miles, and at two different places took away the Harlem railroad embankment for sixty feet. In two other places about 200 feet of track was washed out. The Harlem train leaving Chatham at 6 a. m. Saturday is still lying between two of these washouts, the track being taken away on either side of them. The company will probably not be able to repair the track so as to run trains for four or five days. One farmer, named Niver, had part of his barns carried several hundred feet.

PATRIOTIC BOULANGER

Making Friends by Refusing to Adopt Unconstitutional Methods.

LONDON, July 25.—Paris advices report that Gen. Boulanger has gained many friends by the statement in La France newspaper, that he refused to head a coup d'etat. The paper undoubtedly speaks as the ex-minister of War's organ. It offers to publish the names of nearly 100 French statesmen who were in the conspiracy. The publication of the article has caused much excitement among the Parisians, as it is recognized as the continuation of hostilities between Boulanger and his enemies. It will no longer be possible for the anti-Boulangists to accuse the general of playing a bombastic part, unless they accept his challenge to have the government order him to give the names of those concerned in the alleged attempt to violate the constitution. It is the conviction that he has the proofs of his assertion at hand which is winning him fresh adherents. Here, in London, it must be admitted that Boulanger is almost universally regarded as a true patriot. To unprejudiced observers here his loyalty in refusing to take advantage of popular clamor to demand retention in control of the army, and his subsequent quiet acceptance of a command in exile from Paris, have been appreciated as the acts of a true soldier. Many are inclined to accept as true the persistent assertions of his eulogists that he would eventually prove his disinterestedness, and show that he had saved France from revolution, and if the La France article proves to be well founded, it would seem as if these predictions were soon to be verified. The question of vital interest now is whether the government will notice the challenge or ignore it. The matter is pretty sure to be brought up in the chambers, and an exciting session is looked for. There is little room for doubt that in case the matter comes up in the deputies in the form suggested by La France, and the government fails to show good grounds for disregarding the challenge, a cabinet crisis will result. If Gen. Boulanger comes out of this affair with credit, and is recalled to the war ministry, his seat there will have a security which it lacked before, and which will enable him to carry through the policy of revenge with which he is credited by Germany, if he really desires to do so. The importance of the La France episode may thus prove to be great.

Now There May be a Duel.

PARIS, July 25.—M. Cassagnac published a flat denial of the story that eighty-four generals proposed a coup d'etat to Gen. Boulanger, and challenged La France to publish their names. La France asked Gen. Ferron's permission to publish the names. After denying the story, M. Cassagnac printed an article headed "Coward! Liar!" The result is that M. Laur, admitting himself to be author of the original letters referring to the matter, has challenged M. Cassagnac to fight a duel.

JAY GOULD'S RAILROAD TIES.

Employees Said to be Interested in Overcharges for Them.

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—The Globe-Democrat prints an article which says that in a recent trip over his southwestern roads Mr. Gould made discoveries which are said to have greatly surprised him and caused considerable uneasiness among some of his trusted officers.

Notwithstanding the shrewdness of Mr. Gould, the article says, there were in his confidence some persons who were making lively work with his profits. In his Southern trip Mr. Gould discovered that the price paid for railroad ties at Bald Knob, Gulliver and Forest City, Ark., was from 21 to 23 cents apiece, and when compared with the price paid to Contractor Cowan, he found that the company had got the worst of it to the extent of nearly 10 cents per tie. In Texas Mr. Gould is said to have learned that ties for which his road had paid 38 cents apiece had been supplied to contractors within ten miles of Texarkana for 23 cents, while in other sections of Texas the cost to the contractor had been from 28 to 30 cents. Mr. Gould further learned, it is claimed, that this corner in the market scooped in not only the Iron Mountain, but the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Rock Island, and even others, and that the corner had been nurtured for three years. The number of ties for which exorbitant prices had been paid exceeded 10,000,000, and the Missouri Pacific is said to have lost about $1,000,000. It is alleged that there were some changes in the subordinate departments of the road as the result of this discovery, and the idea is conveyed that some of Mr. Gould's trusted officials were concerned in the large profits made on these ties.

Effect of the Land Bill.

LONDON, July 25.—In an interview yesterday Mr. William O'Brien, M. P., editor of United Ireland, expressed his belief that the first effect of the government's land bill would be to bankrupt and destroy a majority of the landlords, and its next effect would be to destroy the government, who had purchased office by concessions which were destructive of party independence. The plan of campaign had forced the ministry, after six months' bitter opposition, to adopt some of the principles contended for in the bill originally proposed by Mr. Parnell.

A Condemned Man Lynched.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., July 25.—Lee Shillenberg, who was in jail here under sentence of death for fatally beating his 9-year-old girl last fall was lynched yesterday. The party which did the work was composed of determined farmers from the vicinity of Shillenberg's former home. They organized near the cemetery south of the city and about 1:30 a. m. marched to the jail. The guards were taken entirely by surprise and were easily overcome.

Drowned in the Passaic River.

PATERSON, N. J., July 25.—George Roberts, of No. 7 Cross street, together with George Garaside, George Dolan, James Hendricks and Michael Mendel went rowing on the Passaic river last night. They were all intoxicated, and during a scuffle the boat was upset and Roberts was drowned. His companions reported the accident at police headquarters.

Aime Harp, the lad who shot himself on the grave of his pet dog, was buried at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

THE OHIO REPUBLICANS

Preparations for a Warm Welcome at Toledo—The Sherman Room.

TOLEDO, July 25.—Since the Greenback craze swept over Toledo like a storm, no interest has been taken in any political gathering held here like that manifested in the coming Republican convention. The reasons for this are two—the Sherman-Blaine fight, and the royal reception planned by the city.

Delegates, candidates, and distinguished visitors will receive the freedom of the city. Excursions to Lake Erie and the natural gas fields are being arranged. Three thousand dollars have been raised for the purpose of entertaining the city's guests. Sherman and Foraker will come in on special trains and will be met by the Grant and Logan clubs, and will be tendered a reception. Memorial hall, in which the convention will be held, is a scene of beauty. Red, white and blue bunting, old battle flags and banners hang suspended from the walls and ceilings. The headquarters of the Toledo Press club, where newspaper representatives will be entertained, are being fitted up expensively.

Unless some accident happens, natural gas will first be turned on and burned in this city during the convention. Gangs of men are at work night and day on the pipe lines. Special free trains from Mansfield will run every day with delegations bearing banners inscribed, "Sherman for President" and "Foraker for Governor." These delegations will come in the interest of Sherman and work for his indorsement.

MANSFIELD, O., July 25
