THAW'S ESCAPE FROM MATTEAWAN ADDS TO SENSATIONAL CAREER

New York, Aug. 17.—The escape of Harry K. Thaw from the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan adds another act to the sensational tragedy which has its beginning in a New York city on the night of June 23, 1906. On that occasion, in company with his young wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, and two friends, Thaw went to the Madison square performance to witness the opening performance of a musical comedy.

Near the close of the performance left his seat and began to pace back and forth in the aisle behind the seat occupied by Stanford White, an architect of international fame, and his son. The elder White was 53 years old, and in his distinguished career had stamped on many of New York city's prominent buildings the mark of his artistic genius.

Madison Square Garden itself was one of the architect's triumphs and he had a studio in its tower.

In this setting Thaw drew a revolver and fired three bullets into Stanford White's body. Thaw stood for a moment over his victim's prostrate body, then walked to the elevator of the roof garden, where he met a house detective and handed over the revolver without resistance.

EVELYN AT FIRST LOYAL

Thaw then was arrested by a policeman, and while the officer's hand was on his shoulder Mrs. Thaw rushed up to her husband and pleaded heras around his neck. Thaw assured his wife that it would be "all right" and not to worry.

To this Mrs. Thaw rejoined: "I did not think you would do it that way!" and she added: "Never mind Harry, I'll stick to you through thick and thin."

At the time of the tragedy was 27 years old and was known as the "young spendthrift millionaire from Pittsburg."

William Thaw the father, was a poor mechanic in Pittsburg and then made small ventures in coal lands with increasing fortune.

He was said at one time to be the wealthiest individual owner of the Pennsylvania railroad. When he died his estate was said to be worth $40,000,000.

By the will Harry Thaw was allowed $2,500 a year, but his mother increased this to $80,000 annually.

Even Nesbit married Thaw in Pittsburg, April 4, 1905. She was noted among artists for her beauty, and had been in turn a model and actress.

With Thaw at the tomb, a legal fight to free him began with his family's millions behind a formidable array of counsel. His first trial resulted in a discharge. At the second trial the jury acquitted him on the charge of murder on the ground that he was insane when he shot White and Justice Dowling committed Thaw to Matteawan as an insane criminal.

He entered the asylum February 8, 1906. Since then the Thaw family has spent an estimated at $200,000 in efforts to have Thaw declared sane and set at liberty.

In May, 1908, Supreme Court Justice Morschauser decided against an attempt to release Thaw on habeas corpus proceedings. In June, 1909, a similar writ made the same adverse results, this time before Justice Mills. The case then went to the state court of appeals which sustained the decision of the lower court. A third effort in July, 1912, resulted in Justice Keogh agreeing with the other supreme court justices that Thaw still was insane.

There was a scandal recently over alleged attempts to engineer Thaw's release through the attempted bribery of Dr. John W. Russell, former superintendent of the Matteawan hospital.

An inquiry resulted in the indictment of John N. Anhalt, a young New York attorney employed by Thaw. On May 17 last, Anhalt was found guilty of offering Dr. Russell a $20,000 bribe and was sentenced to from two to four years at Sing Sing. The present superintendent at Matteawan, Dr. Raymond C. Kieb, was appointed after Dr. Russell resigned.

ARREST THAW ON SIGHT

New York's 10,000 policemen have orders to arrest Harry K. Thaw on sight.

A general alarm for his apprehension was sent out by police headquarters today to every precinct in the city. The police acted on request of the Matteawan asylum authorities. Here is the description of Thaw as sent out by the police:

Height 5 feet, 11 1/2 inches; weight 165 pounds; brown hair and eyes; dark complexion.

The clothing worn by Thaw at the time of his escape was not described. Within half an hour after the general alarm had been sent out, uniformed men and detectives were on duty at ferry houses, railroad stations, and the principal thoroughfares entering the city. The police of Hoboken and Jersey City, also were notified and requested to aid by watching the railroad terminals and ferries.

Mothers! Have Your Children Worms? Are they feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy or constipated? Do they continually pick their nose or grind their teeth? Have they cramping pains, irregular and ravenous appetite? These are all signs of worms. Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt his mind and growth. Give "Kickapoo Worm Killer" at once. It kills and removes the worms, improves your child's appetite, regulates stomach, liver and bowels. The symptoms disappear and your child is made happy and healthy, as nature intended. REFLECTION ON CORPORATION COMMISSION

From the news columns of the Concord Times we take the following extract regarding the Raleigh Freight Rate Conference:

"Chief Justice Clark took occasion to say that the proposition is a gratuitous insult and disgrace to the intelligence of the people of the State. John Mitchell, of Hickory, even wanted to reflect on the corporation commission, but got small comfort, the commission being thanked along with other authorities. The Just Freight Rate Association recognized the proposition as an evidence of progress, but went no further.

Mr. Mitchell did not propose to do anything that would reflect on the North Carolina Corporation Commission, but in the passing of resolutions of thanks he proposed to let the resolutions extend only to the Gov. and the Special Freight Rate Commission. From what we have been able to learn regarding this conference sentiment was overwhelmingly in harmony with the position taken by Mr. Mitchell and the statement made by the Times that "he got small comfort," seems to be far from a correct interpretation of the sentiment of the conference. The Raleigh News and Observer quoted the incident correctly in saying that Mr. Mitchell abandoned his position as a personal tribute to the Raleigh manufacturer, Col. A. A. Thompson.

THE FUTURE OF FREIGHT RATES

Governor Craig and the other officials of the state who have in hand the matter of securing freight rate adjustments for North Carolina are standing by their former position of not accepting anything until the demands of the state are substantially complied with. The carrying out of this policy has again resulted in a rejection of the latest proposition of compromising the matter as suggested by the last proposal of the carriers. If the railroads are to pursue their former policy it seems reasonable to expect that before the convening of the extra session of the General Assembly they will submit another proposition for the consideration of the state. However, this may be and regardless of the proposition they may submit, it seems a safe prediction at this time to say that in the end North Carolina is going to secure justice in the matter of freight rates. Public sentiment is aroused to an extent which has not been equalled since the state engaged in the fight to drive liquor out and the same determination that gave success to that campaign is going to give success to the campaign to secure just freight rates. Public sentiment is the fighting arm of the law, and now that this public sentiment is aroused we may expect to see a literal enforcement of such laws as the state may pass to the end of eliminating freight rate abuses.

The thinking people of the entire state are agreed on the proposition that a war with the railroads should be averted if possible, and it is only in the event of such a condition being forced upon them that they propose to engage in any fight with the carriers. Should war come the state will uphold its sovereign position, and in the end the carriers must lose. Such an end can only be accomplished however, by means which will be harmful to both the state and the carriers. The part of wisdom seems to dictate a policy to the carriers different from that which they have been pursuing. For their own good it will be well for them to meet the just demands which the people of the state are making and thus avoid a fight between themselves and the state of North Carolina.

Deserted the Army—Fry Given Four Months

Deputy Sheriff Burns returned Sunday from Wilmington where he went to deliver Henry Killian, a native of this county, to the army post at Ft. Caswell. Killian deserted the army at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, on the 9th day of last April.

The deputy sheriff on his return stopped in Salisbury where he took charge of Rube Fry, wanted by the city authorities here for assaulting Cicero Travis at Brookford more than a year ago. Fry was given a hearing before Recorder Blackwelder this morning and was sentenced to the county roads for four months.

THOUSANDS HEAR WEBB AT NEWTON

Newton, Aug. 15.—What will go down in history as the greatest Confederate reunion held in Catawba county up until the year 1913, has just been placed at between eight and ten thousand. The drawing card of the occasion was the address of Congressman Edwin Y. Webb.

The court house was packed at least an hour before the time for the address. The speaker's subject was "Patriotism." He dwelt on the reason why the South "seceded," as some called it, but the speaker said it wasn't secession and that nothing but dire necessity ever caused this great Southland to leave the Union. He also said that nothing had more to do with exciting prejudice and hatred against the South than the book "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was widely circulated and read in the North. He also referred to the beginning of the slave trade in the North and how it was carried on until the act of Congress forced the North to quit selling human beings to the Southern States. Then the sentiment against slavery was started.

Before the address the soldiers formed in line, 200 or more of them, and led by the Hickory Military Company and Lincoln band, marched to the court house and were seated in a body during the address. Mr. Webb was introduced by Mrs. F. M. Williams in few appropriate words, thanked him for the tribute he paid to "The Catawba Soldier." After this the veterans were invited to the northeast corner of the square where a sumptuous dinner was spread. Mr. Webb was introduced by Attorney George McCorkle, of the local bar, who expressed to Mr. Webb the appreciation of Catawba county people on his coming to Newton.

DR. HENNESSE IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Morganton, Aug. 18.—The jury in the case of Dr. E. A. Hennesse, charged with the murder of Gorman Plus at Glen Alpine, near here, last winter, after being out since Saturday night returned a verdict of not guilty upon the opening of court here this morning.

Pitts was killed in a fight at Glen Alpine on the afternoon of January 18. In the fight six men were seriously injured, Dr. Hennesse himself bearing 10 wounds in his body from a knife and sustaining a fractured jaw bone. Hennesse was taken to a hospital and his life despaired of several days after the engagement. The fight started early in the afternoon, when Hennesse and Pitts engaged in a fist fight. Hennesse went to his home and armed himself and returned to the scene. Bad blood had existed between the Pitts and Hennesse families for some time and the fight was a signal for a general melee. Pitts died several days after the affair.

Thomasville Rejected It

By the way of keeping history straight, as Judge Clark would say, it should be called to mind that, even before Hickory adopted the "City Manager" idea, which Dayton, O., has since seized upon so avidly, another North Carolina town took a shot at it, but later lost her nerve and backed down. This was Thomasville. During the time when Captain Bill Burzin, a progressive of the progressives, was mayor, the board of aldermen passed a resolution creating the office of city manager, with a salary of $1,200 attached. But when their action became known, especially the salary part of it, such an agonized yell went up from the taxpayers that the board hastily rescinded the resolution.

It was argued, perhaps justly, that the town was at that time too small for such an expenditure to be really economical; and as economy is, theoretically, the chief merit of the plan, it was abandoned in this case. So Hickory retains her position as the first town to have a city manager.—Greensboro Daily News.

THREE MEN WOUNDED IN ATTACK ON JAIL

Spartanburg, S. C., Aug. 18.—Three men, Frank Eppley, J. C. Owensby and John Turner, were seriously wounded tonight when a mob stormed the county jail in an effort to lynch Will Fair, a negro prisoner, charged with assaulting a young white woman near here today. Sheriff White and a deputy, facing the mob alone, repeatedly drove them back with pistol shots when they advanced with battering rams.

Members of the mob finally returned the fire and in the darkness the three men were struck. They were not fatally wounded but were taken to a hospital for attention.

The young woman was assaulted in a lonely farm house this morning in the absence of her husband. The negro knocked her down with a club, it is alleged, and outraged her.

Good Reason for Enthusiasm

When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other form of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially is this the case of a severe attack when life is threatened. WOMAN MURDERED AT HAMLET HOTEL

Hamlet, Aug. 15.—One of the most mysterious murders of the history of this section occurred at the Seaboard hotel at this place about 6:30 o'clock tonight when a man registered at the hotel under the name of George S. Nance, of Macon, Ga., killed the woman who was registered as his wife.

The couple arrived on Seaboard No. 12 from Atlanta this morning and after breakfast asked for a room saying they would spend the day here and go to Norfolk tonight. They spent some time this morning on the streets and went to their room, No. 75, about 6:30 tonight. J. G. Scott, a guest of the hotel, passed the room and met Nance who was going from the closet. Upon the opening of the door to room No. 75 Scott saw smoke and getting a fire extinguisher attempted to enter the room.

Nance tried to prevent him from entering, but Scott forced the door open sufficiently to use the extinguisher.

N. Monsarat, another guest, came up at this time and upon forcing the door discovered the body of a woman lying near the door and the entire body on fire.

The body was pulled in the hall and the fire extinguished. They discovered that the woman's skull was crushed and that she was dead.

Nance had not attempted to leave and was placed under arrest. From the condition of the room Nance had killed his wife, had changed his clothes and then poured oil from a lamp in the room over the body and about the room, and set fire to the body. After being arrested Nance made a statement saying that they had some words and his wife attempted to cut him with a razor and he killed her, that he did not intend to kill her when he struck her.

Can a Chewer Go to Heaven

A news article says that a church at Forest City, Rutherford County, has been broken up because of its stringent ruling that no member should dip snuff, chew tobacco, or wear jewelry. The church had made this ruling and it seems that the members were quietly submitting until an evangelist came along and said that the lid was on-tight, whereupon the whole membership, with the exception of seven deacons, walked out and formed a new church. This illustrates the folly of trying to regulate the conduct of people on points that are not sinful per se, but are mere matters of opinion.

THE NORTH CAROLINA CORN CROP VALUABLE

Greensboro News.

That the 1913 corn crop will be of much value to North Carolina farmers is the opinion of E. C. Elzemeyer, representative of the Quaker Oats company. He said this would be true, both for the fact as given out by Commissioner Graham a few days ago that the North Carolina crop is a good one, and for the additional fact that the corn crop in the west this year is a failure.

He has just received a bulletin from his house, which gives the information that this year will have the shortest corn crop the country has seen in a great many years. In part the letter states:

"This is the year of the great corn crop failure. Not since 1901 have conditions in the corn belt been as bad as they now are. For twelve years corn experts have referred to the failure of the crop of 1901. For a good many years to come it is probable that the year 1913 will be looked back upon as the year when the corn crop failed. Anyone who has not seen the actual conditions prevailing Colorado to Ohio has no conception of the condition of the growing corn crop, Oklahoma will raise practically no corn Kansas and Missouri very little and Nebraska not 50 per cent of last year's crop. Illinois and Indiana, and a large part of Ohio are in the throes of a drouth which is daily cutting down their yields of corn which has already been damaged from 25 per cent to 50 per cent beyond repair if abundant rains come today."

It is also stated that the oats crop is fully one-third less than a year ago, while there is a shortage of a billion bushels of coarse grain indicated by the crop of corn going back rapidly daily.

Continuing the report says:

"The writer traveled through northern Indiana by train. From the newspaper reports he was prepared to see evidences of drouth, and he knew that irreparable damage had been done in the west, but was not prepared for the condition that presented itself in Indiana. The country, except for the trees, is as brown as in mid-summer. There was a mouthful of green pasture between Toledo, O., and Chicago. Corn, which should have been six to eight feet high, is tasselled out as high as the fence tops or shorter, spindling stalks and to a large extent dried. I think it is not an exaggeration to say that there is not a bit of pasture from Colorado to Pennsylvania, with the exception of a northern strip running through the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the extreme northern part of Illinois and Michigan.

"The same cause which is cutting down the corn crop is eating up existing surpluses. Since early in June, extreme drouths have prevailed over the entire central, western and southern parts of our country. In many sections since June regular winter feeding of live stock has been necessary. Over that enormous territory which supplies our country with beef and where the cattle are usually taken care of during spring and summer months by pasture, regular feeding of grain has had to be resorted to. Many reports from Missouri and Kansas tell of farmers feeding wheat to their live stock because there is no old corn left in the country, and many reports are that farmers are chopping the limbs off trees that the cattle may browse on the leaves. Train loads of water are being shipped to Kansas points from Kansas City and last year's surpluses of grain are rapidly being consumed. The thing is working both ways from the middle as it were, and conditions are framing for the highest priced feeding stuffs that we have ever experienced."

Not Afraid

A North Carolina manufacturer whose influence is dominant in at least seven cotton mills, and perhaps more, told The State Journal recently that he had no fear of tariff reform. All that he wished was to have the tariff legislation settled as soon as possible. "The fact of the business is," said he, "that we are selling most of our goods to foreign countries anyway. If we can meet foreign competition on foreign soil there is no reason why we cannot meet it at home. But, moreover, if we cannot meet it there would be no reason to tax all the people in order that we might."—State Journal.
