HORRIBLE TO CONTEMPT.

Our sister State, S. C. is stirred from center to circumference and what is all this commotion about? The answer is plain. Liquor is the foundation stone upon which all this trouble rests.

A PROCLAMATION.

Columbia, S. C., April 3.—Governor Tillman has issued the following proclamation: Whereas, Sections 519 of the State Statutes of this State declare that the Governor shall have authority whenever in his judgment it shall be necessary to arm the militia...

mand assistance in the execution of processes, suppressing riots and in preserving the peace; and Whereas, It is made the duty of, and the power is given, said police to enforce the statute known as the dispensary law, but that instead of obeying the rehests of said law, the said police, except in a very few towns, have been an obstruction and are aiders and abettors of those who are defying the law; and

Whereas, Under the same statute the Governor is given power to appoint State constables for the purpose of its enforcement; and Whereas, The rebellious and lawless elements of society have hounded and insulted these officers and sedulously educated the public mind to resistance, causing several encounters, resulting in bloodshed, between constables and illicit whiskey-sellers, producing intense excitement and danger to the peace and welfare of the State.

Now, Therefore, I, B. R. Tillman, Governor of the State of South Carolina, do issue this, my proclamation, giving full and official notice to the municipal authorities of every city and incorporated town in the State of South Carolina and to the police and marshals thereof, that under the powers given me by said section 519, the emergency contemplated has arisen and does now exist, and that I do hereby assume sole control of the whole force of municipal police and marshals of the several cities and incorporated towns of this State. They are hereby ordered to enforce all laws on the statute books, together with all municipal ordinances and orders from municipal authorities not inconsistent with the purposes of this proclamation.

Washington Letter.

Washington, April 2, 1894.—Speaker Crisp has always been a popular man with democrats, in and out of Congress, at Washington, but his popularity is to-day one hundred per cent greater than it ever was before. His refusal of a seat in the Senate when all his personal inclinations were for taking it, he has clearly made himself beneficial to the democratic party for him to remain Speaker of the House during the remainder of this Congress, was of itself enough to add to the respectability of the Speaker's Congressional career—that capped the climax and made every democrat in Washington ready to throw his hat in the air and give three cheers every time the name "Crisp" is called. He humbled ex-Speaker Reed, as that legislative bully was never before humbled on the floor of the House. They have had many parliamentary contests, in which the Speaker got the best of ex-Chief, but never until this time has the Speaker succeeded in completely humbling Reed—so completely that he sat, after having been made to do so by the Speaker, like a whipped cur.

Senator Voorhees is opening the tariff debate in the Senate made little use of his extraordinary oratorical power. He just gave a plain, straightforward business talk, largely in the nature of an explanation of the changes made in the bill by the Senate Committee of which he is chairman, and laying special stress upon the urgent necessity for speedy action. According to the present programme, very few set speeches will be made by the other democratic members of the Finance committee, and no attempt to limit the debate will be made until the republicans have been given ample opportunity to state their objections to the bill.

I am glad to be able to state positively that there is absolutely no truth in the published statement that democrats who are dissatisfied with President Cleveland's veto of the Bland bill intend to vote for a free coinage amendment to the tariff bill. Not a single democratic Senator who favors silver will say that he is in favor of such an amendment, and Mr. Bland, who certainly has the right to speak for the silver democrats in the House, if any one man has—he has been their leader, both in this and in a number of previous Congresses—characterized the idea as "an outrage and a crime" that would do no good and would, if carried out, result in the certain defeat of both tariff reform and free coinage.

Mr. Bland will, as soon as the House can get and keep a democratic quorum long enough to dispose of the report of the election committee in the contested case of O'Neil vs. Joy, of Missouri, which has been hanging for more than a week for lack of a voting quorum, move that his coinage bill be passed over the President's veto. It cannot pass, unless the republicans who voted against the bill should refuse to vote, and even then it could hardly pass, as there are a number of democrats who voted for the bill when it was passed over the President's veto.

There is little doubt that a free coinage bill will soon be reported to the House from the Coinage committee, of which Mr. Bland is chairman, but there is much doubt of its being passed.

Well, the long wait is over. A democratic Public Printer is to succeed Mr. Frank W. Palmer, the republican who has held the office since May 1889. The lucky man is Mr. Thomas E. Benedict, of New York, who held the office from September 1886, until Palmer's appointment. While there is, of course, some personal disappointment among democrats who were close friends of other candidates for the appointment, there is general democratic rejoicing that the position which controlled the appointment of nearly three thousand employees, all outside of the classified service, is to be filled by a democrat. Mr. Benedict is not only a good democrat, but, as proven by his record when in control of the office, he is a good Public Printer. There will probably not be one single objection raised in the Senate to the confirmation of his nomination.

Secretary Carlisle has become so accustomed to being lied about and misrepresented in republican newspapers that he would not know what to make of any opportunity for the manufacture of a fresh batch of stories being lost by the writers for these papers. He knew before he went over to New York for a day or two of change and recreation that his visit would be made the basis for a lot of more or less ridiculous stories, and he was not disappointed by the result.

Mr. Lan-in-b. "Tired! Oh, so tired! The Lord! Mrs. Smart. "Well, so I used to be until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine, and how I don't know what it is to have that tired feeling. Try it, my dear, only be sure you get Ayer's."

Pennsylvanians Visit Our Town and Vicinity and This is What They Have to Say About Committees and Friends They Met and Made.

We left home, Milton, Northumberland county Pennsylvania on a Monday morning during the latter days of the month of February during a terrible snow storm and when we reached Lincolnton, that Southern town we read and heard so much about, three days later, we found snow, and almost impassible public highways over which it was difficult to travel at the time with any kind of a conveyance. But finally reaching the hospitable home of Prof. A. C. Hottenstein several miles from the quaint old town, we were warmed and fed and had a most pleasant sojourn for four days.

Our visit to the office of THE LINCOLN COURIER was a pleasant one; we were most cordially received by F. S. Starrette, Esq., the Editor and publisher, who extended to us every kindness, adding additional testimony that the Southern people are always courteous and extend a cordial greeting to all who come to visit them.

service at the Daniel's Reformed Church on Sunday morning, March 4th, Rev. Dr. J. C. Clapp pastor, who delivered a most instructive sermon to an interested congregation, after which David Warlick, Esq., opened the hospitable doors of his family mansion and here we, with Henry and David Warlick, brothers of the host and their families, A. C. Hottenstein and his family and William Rhodes, sat down to a most bountiful repast, that all enjoyed as the afternoon hours passed swiftly by.

The Public Schools had then about all closed their sessions, and the farmers had commenced plowing to sow oats and plant potatoes. The early sowed wheat and oats looked well and we here looked upon as fine farms as any we have seen in the Keystone State of Pennsylvania.

What beautiful sunshine we enjoyed among these hospitable people.

The Painter inside and out of the Reformed Church "Daniel's" was then being done in tasty colors by a fine painter.

The good impression made by William Rhodes who showed its special kindness will never be forgotten. The greatest problem for the writer to solve is this, why a man with so large a heart and amiable a disposition should be treading life's pathway alone so many long years, how his presence would grace, and his smiles baptize a home, and two hearts would beat as one, we remember "Weaver" & "Burt".

The hospitality and kindness of your R. R. employees we would not pass by, we traveled over the Sea Board Air Line, Carolina Central Division, and from Portsmouth to Lincolnton there was not ever so much as a ripple to mar the pleasure of our Journey. We would therefore commend the Sea Board Air Line to any and all your readers who may wish to take a trip South to the Carolinas or Atlanta Georgia or North coming via Baltimore the road bed is fine, the train service first class and quick time to all points. We only regret that we did not have more time to make a more extended visit among people who were the most hospitable and kind that we have ever met in our fifty-four years of life.

"PENNSYLVANIA." Tennyson on Spring.

We have the word of Alfred Tennyson for it that in the spring the young man's fancies lightly turn to thoughts of love. It is singular that the great laureate omitted to mention the fact that it is in the spring that a considerable portion of the human race turn to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Probably nothing but the difficulty of finding a good rhyme for this invaluable remedy deterred him. Certain it is that at the old time domestic remedies are generally discarded in favor of the standard blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has attained the greatest popularity all over the country as the favorite Spring Medicine. It purifies the blood and gives new vitality, bodily and digestive strength.

Built Him Up.

Mr. J. B. Lewis, of Anson, G., had creaky joints. Physicians and all other remedies failed to cure him. He tried Tenny's Dyspepsia Remedy, and afterwards writes: "The first dose gave relief. I recommend it as the best dyspepsia remedy ever discovered. I have gained flesh since using it. I voluntarily recommend it to all sufferers with stomach troubles." For sale by all druggists at 50c per bottle. March 23, 1894.

"When I was a Boy,"

Writes Postmaster J. C. Woodson, Forest Hill, W. Va., "I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary medicines, and advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."

"I have been using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for 30 years, with the most satisfactory results, and can cheerfully recommend it as being especially adapted to all pulmonary complaints. I have, for many years, made pulmonary and other medicines a special study, and I have come to the conclusion that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral occupies a position pre-eminent over other medicines of the class."—Chas.
