A Cure for Disease Without Medicine.
RHEUMATISM.
DEAR SIR:—I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism and neuralgia for five years, and have been greatly distressed with indigestion for two years. I could not have an action from my bowels without taking medicine in some form. I tried doctors and remedies till I despaired of obtaining relief; at times I was almost helpless, but since using the Electro-Poison I feel like a new man. I have used no medicine since I bought the Electro-Poison; before that, my drug bill was considerable every month. The Electro-Poison has proved a wonderful benefit to myself and family, and I heartily recommend it to the suffering. Yours truly,
GEORGE W. HOLT.

SICK-HEADACHE

Makes life miserable. All other ailments are as nothing in comparison. Women especially know its suffering, and few escape its torture.

Many people take pills, which gripe and purge, weakening the body. More take Simmons' Liver Regulator, liquid or powder, because more pleasant to take, does not gripe, and is a mild laxative, that also tones up the system. The relief is quick. It is Nature's own remedy, purely vegetable.

"I never found anything to do me any good until I used Simmons' Liver Regulator. It has been three years since I first used it and I have not had Sick Headache since. I sent my sister (who had from one to two attacks of Sick Headache every week) one-half of a package, and she has not had it since."—C. S. MORRIS, Brownsville, W. Va.

Mecklenburg Presbytery.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.
The following paper on the Liquor Traffic was adopted, and the press requested to publish the same:
The Presbytery of Mecklenburg regards it as a solemn duty it protecting and promoting the peace, purity, and prosperity of the Church within its bounds, to utter once more, with no uncertain sound, its voice of warning touching the great curse and incalculable evil of strong drink.

It is simply a calm statement of stern and terrible facts to say that the Liquor Traffic, in all its various ramifications, is doing more, directly and indirectly, than perhaps, all other evils combined to increase and intensify human suffering and misery, to drain the country of its resources, and to impoverish the people; to debauch and brutalize the population; to promote illiteracy and to keep the people in a state of sad and helpless ignorance; to crowd our insane institutions, our asylums, our jails, and our penitentiaries, to multiply crime in its many forms, to debauch our politics, to corrupt our government to demoralize the masses to arrest the progress of true religion, and mar the purity of the Church. Moreover, we are confronted with the appalling fact gathered from reliable and authoritative statistics, that this intolerable curse is on the increase. And it is true that this evil is to-day the most deadly foe of both the Church and the State, the most cruel and dangerous enemy of both God and man, in that it constitutes a general and stubborn barrier to the descent of heavenly blessings upon the helpless man, and in that it consigns annually its hundreds of thousands to drunkard's graves, and to the drunkard's hell.

The Presbytery judges, therefore, that under existing circumstances, the only possible consistent attitude of any member of the Church is one of uncompromising and universal hostility to the manufacture, sale, and use as a beverage of any intoxicating drink.

And the Presbytery hereby enjoins the sessions of all our churches to refuse to admit to the church, or to retain as members those who, after all due admonition and exposition, persist in voluntarily occupying any position, which places them in the attitude of being responsible for, aiding or encouraging the manufacture, sale or use, as a beverage, by themselves or others, of any intoxicating liquors.

In making this deliverance, the Presbytery is taking no new departure, but is simply re-affirming its own judgment, given at Rutherfordton, on the 20th day of April, 1887, and endorsing the deliverance of our higher courts, notably those of our General Assembly in 1865, and again in 1887 and 1891. Further the Presbytery directs that each session be furnished with a copy of the paper, and enjoins each session to see that it be read publicly from the pulpit to the congregation.

THE N. C. TEACHER'S ASSEMBLY.

Eleventh Annual Session—
Morehead City, N. C., June 19 to July 3, 1894.
The North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which is the largest State educational organization in the United States, will meet in its eleventh annual convention in its own handsome building at Morehead City, N. C., on June 19 and continue in session until July 3. Morehead City is one of the most delightful and popular seaside resorts on the Atlantic Coast. It is the only summer resort where the combined pleasures of fishing, sailing, boating, bathing and shooting of the finest of quality may be enjoyed to such an unlimited degree. The immense Atlantic Hotel, which is the home of the Assembly, will furnish the best of entertainment during the session to the teachers and their friends for only $1.00 a day. Accommodations may be secured in advance upon application to Mr. B. L. Perry, Proprietor, Morehead City, N. C.

The work of the coming session of the Assembly will be more interesting and valuable to teachers than ever before. The subjects to be discussed are new and timely and the very largest experience and ability of the most prominent of North Carolina teachers will be given to the consideration of every question. There have also been made arrangements with some of the most noted educators of other States, who will be present on the occasion, and it will be truly a pleasure to meet Dr. J. M. Rice, the famous apostle of reform in public education, whose article in the Forum have attracted world-wide attention; Mr. W. C. BARDEEN, the brilliant speaker and writer, and editor of the School Bulletin, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. Ellen K. Hooker, principal of the famous co-educational institution Sage College, at Ithaca, N. Y.; Prof. W. R. McDaniel, of Western Maryland College, and other leaders in educational thought.

Railroad rates to the Assembly are very low, and tickets will be on sale June 15 to 30, with limit of return until July 15. Assembly membership coupons will be attached to each ticket, which will entitle the holder to all privileges of the season. Baggage may be checked through to Morehead City from any point in the State, thus saving all trouble of transferring at Goldsboro.

The approaching session of the Assembly will be, in many respects the largest and best in its history. The many new and attractive features of the work and entertainment will bring together such a company of our leading teachers and friends of education as has rarely been seen in the South. There will be unlimited facilities for "rest, recreation and mutual improvement," such as every teacher so greatly needs at the close of the school term.

Programme and other information concerning the Assembly may be obtained of the Secretary upon application.

Merry Picnic of Newton.

This morning (Saturday) rising from mighty slumber, we gaze upon the lustrous prospects of a beautiful day, the radiant sun is slowly rising from behind the eastern hills and sending forth his glorious pomp and splendor amid the home wherein the prospects of a happier generation lay on the smiling faces of jovial youth. His presence in no wise was welcomed any more than to-day among the celebratory of this town. A great anxiety like a pall was hanging over them in so much that it wiped away their hunger, and stole away their morning thirst. Time so slowly sped away that some of the young ladies looked up at the old family clock and with a countenance, accused it of tardiness. It ticks on with its usual speed as much as to say: "I have never been accused of laziness before, have always been called faithful. I tick away the golden moment just as they are given me, therefore in my last days I will not hasten on just to gratify the wishes of wasting youth and anxious lovers."

The hour (10 o'clock) slowly draws on, the charming damsels are seen moving to and fro in solicitous manner, putting on their Sunday attire. On the other hand, the young beaux could be seen tipping up and down the streets arrayed in their Sunday apparel, rigged off with a "stiff collar," not unlike those that Grover Cleveland occasionally wears, around their necks, in addition a derby hat set on their heads, thus covering a face that was smiling to suit the lovely occasion.

Latter on, we see some of the young beaux standing at the door of his allotted partner with the modest dignity of John Alden delivering the message which Miles Standish sent: while some we see are admitted with a capricious shower of welcome others receive a thundering "No," decling to go with him. With hopes of anticipated joy melting into remorseful dissipation. The question may be asked, "What is all this 'to do' for?" Be patient, my readers, you shall see by-and-by.

Now we see them all gathered at Mr. Cochran's, the picnic procession starts on "foot-back," preceded by Mr. Hoyle and his partner from the fair sex, to the old Helderbrand Mill site where a halt is made and each pair of youthful gabblers selects for themselves a spreading tree to sit beneath and talk away the golden moments till the hour of twelve came speedily rushing by. Under a large shady apple-tree, one of the fair ladies spread upon the nice green grass a large cloth brought along for the occasion. Upon this cloth, was exhibited a grand display of bodily comforts too tedious to go into the minute details. Mr. Hendrick, like the Good Shepard on the plains of Betisaida, commanded the hungry men and women to sit down and be fed from the bountiful supply. All the time of this exercise, Mr. Hendrick was dealing out cakes and pickles to those who were loaded with cumbersome embarrassments now and then throwing out one of his heavy jokes which shook the whole assembly with long liter. Dinner was over, all filled, and seven baskets of fragments were taken up; not saying anything about the lemonade that was drunk.

In the afternoon, till the adjacent hills and hollows were explored for flowers, occasionally the thundering sound of laughter would roar through the silent woods re-vibrating down the valleys and over the forest clad hills from the "picnicers" as Hendrick was pouring forth some of his jovial and comical expressions. In fact he was the life of the picnic to say the least of it. Night came obtrusively and drove us home.

A Chinese Description of the Piano.

Das Neus Blatt:—A Chinaman, lately returned from a trip to Europe, treated his countrymen to the following description of the piano: "The Europeans keep a large four-legged beast, which they can make to sing at will. A man, or more frequently a woman, or even a feeble girl, sits down in front of the animal and steps on its tail, while at the same time striking its white teeth with his or her fingers, when the creature begins to sing. The singing, though much louder than a bird's, is pleasant to listen to. The beast does not bite, nor does not move, though it is not tied up."
