The President.

A lot of good things which the President has said and done have come under public observation lately. His manner of dealing with the strike has met the approbation and won the unstinted praise of all the law-respecting people of the country. His whole course in this connection was unexceptionable, and saying this we have in mind his brief reply to the long protest of the Anarchist Governor of Illinois against his sending Federal troops into that State to quell the riot then in progress. It was, in brief. We will restore order and controvert afterwards. The language was temperate and diplomatic but in its last analysis that is when it meant. But, the strike aside, we have in mind again, the recent conversation between the President and Congressman Maddox, of Georgia, as told of by the latter.

"Well, Maddox," said the President, "how is everything down in old Georgia? I suppose they are cursing me down there?"

"Well," replied Maddox, "they do not like your financial policy." "I know that, Maddox," said the President, "but they are not a bit more anxious for silver than I am. But it won't do now. I tell you that unless I am badly mistaken we will have the crowned heads of Europe at our feet and asking for our terms before two years are gone."

There is no intelligent American citizen, who is himself honest, who does not believe in his heart that the President is an honest and sincere man. What right has any one to doubt him when he says the people of Georgia "are not a bit more anxious for silver than he is?" And who is wise enough to say that the President is "badly mistaken" in his belief that "we will have the crowned heads of Europe at our feet and asking for our terms before two years are gone?"

But nothing recent is more characteristic of the man than his reply to Col. W. C. Oates, of Alabama, the Democratic candidate for Governor of his State, who begged him to sign the Bland seigniorage bill as a means of reuniting the party. "He told me very positively," said Col. Oates, "that he thought the party could live on its principles instead of being hired to do right."

It is impossible for anybody who is not hopelessly blinded by prejudice to keep from admiring a man who takes such ground as that, whether he agrees with him or not.

It was gratifying to observe that the Democrats of Huntersville township, this county, in their primary last Saturday, adopted a resolution cordially endorsing the administration as to everything except its financial policy, even though they went on to express their cordial disapprobation of that. It is doubtful if, six months ago, a resolution giving the President any sort of endorsement could have passed a Democratic primary at Huntersville. The people of North Carolina and of the South generally are coming around to him. They are not nearly ready to endorse his financial policy and we have never been in favor of crowding them upon this point, though the Observer itself has endorsed it outspokenly except as to the veto of the seigniorage bill. We are quite well aware that it is not wise to crowd them with it yet, but it is perfectly safe to say that before the world is many years older, it will be seen that the President's policy has been altogether a wiser one than many of our good people are yet willing to admit.

But silver or no silver, he is a great old man.—CHARLOTTE OBSERVER.

A Colored Woman's Suicide.

STATESVILLE, July, 19.—Maggi Simonton, a mulatto girl, 21 years of age, was found drowned to-day in the well on the premises of Mrs. Amanda Caldwell, where she had been employed as a cook for quite a while. Early yesterday morning the girl, who stayed at her mother's house at night, arose earlier than usual and started away. Her mother remarked that it was too early to go to work, but the girl replied that she was dressed and ready to go so she might as well go ahead. It is supposed she repaired to Mrs. Caldwell's house and before any one was up quietly lowered herself into the well by means of the rope and was drowned; at least the house girl, who commenced her usual duties about the house about 7 o'clock, found the well bucket in the well, and drawing it up, found the water a slight pinkish color, and reporting this fact in the house it was decided not to use the water until it could be ascertained what colored it.

As the cook did not turn up as usual, she was sent for to her mother's house, when it was learned that she was not there, but that she had remarked to her mother that she would kill herself if she thought she would be saved. She made this statement because of a letter she had received from her sweetheart, a colored man in Philadelphia, who wrote her breaking off their engagement.

No suspicion was aroused as to the fact of her being in the well until the afternoon of to-day. As the girl could not be found, it was decided to examine the well, and Bill Newland, colored, went down and found the girl's remains in six feet of water. Ropes were fastened to her person, and on hauling her to the surface it was found that she was dressed in a red calico dress, which had colored the water. This was fortunate, for it was a warning, and no water from the well had been used after the suicide occurred.

Sheriff Wycoff and Deputy Sheriff Leinster arrested Press Salmons yesterday for beating his wife. Press was picking blackberries and requested to be permitted to take the berries home. He was allowed to go home with H. L. Ayers, who said he would bring him back all right. On reaching Salmons' house Salmons' wife and the other women of the house set upon Ayers, beat him unmercifully, tore his warrant up and Mr. Salmons skipped before the smoke of battle rolled away and is doubtless still skipping, much to Mr. Ayers' chagrin, to say nothing of that of Messrs. Wycoff and Leinster.

Mr. James Page has been arrested on the complaint of his neighbors and will be tried on Saturday. The complaint alleges that the young men of the vicinity visit his daughters at unseemly hours, thereby causing disorder. It is said that Mr. Page proposes to prove by the young men aforesaid that there was nothing disorderly on the young men has left the city and will not return until after the trial.

A Little Child Dies Unexpectedly.

A little child of Mr. Eli Fultz was called away quite unexpectedly last Sunday. We learn that in the morning, while enjoying apparently good health, the child accompanied the parents upon a visit to a neighbor, near where the Davidson and Forsyth lines joins below the W. B. Stafford place. While looking at some cattle in the barn a cow, in sportive mood or spirit of maliciousness, jumped toward the little one which occasioned fright, but no special anxiety until some time after when the child became ill and soon expired and the opinion is expressed that the sudden snapping of the silken cord of life was occasioned by heart trouble originating from the fright.—REPUBLICAN.

Young Man, Have Courage.

Moral cowardice is the cause of a great amount of sin in this world. The young man starts out well, determined to be somebody. He falls in with a worthless set of young fellows and becomes a hoodlum before he is aware that he is aware that he is not respectable. They dare him to do as they do; to take more drinks; indulge in more foolishness, and he comes to think he is a brave young man, when he is nothing of the sort. He is not brave enough to do what he ought to do in the face of the enemy to his soul. Young man, you should have the courage to be a man. Have the moral courage to tell a man why you refuse to credit him.

Have the courage to tell a man why you will not lend him your money. Have the courage to prefer comfort and propriety to fashion in all things. Have the courage to discharge a debt when you have the money in your pocket. Have the courage to own that you are poor, and thus disarm poverty of its sting. Have the courage to acknowledge your ignorance, rather than to seek knowledge under false pretenses. Have the courage to do without that which you do not need, however much your eyes may covet it. Have the courage to speak to a friend in a seedy coat, though you are in company with a rich friend, and richly attired.

Have the courage to speak your mind when it is necessary that you should do so and to hold your tongue when it is prudent for you to do so. Have the courage to show your respect for honesty, in whatever guise it appears, and contempt for dishonesty and duplicity, by whomsoever exhibited. Have the courage to cut the more agreeable acquaintance you have when you are convinced that he lacks principle; a friend should bear with a friend's infirmities, but not with vices.—CHICAGO WORLD.

A Female Outlaw.

The magistrates, the constables and several "private" citizens of Bethel township, Cabarrus county have about much as they can do to keep out of the way of a woman who has blood in her eye for the whole crowd. Her name is Betsy Barbee. Betsy lives in a house belonging to Mr. John Tally, and her time was out some time ago, but she refused to leave or give any good excuse for staying. Mr. Tally applied to the law for relief, taking out a warrant of ejectment before Squire J. C. McEachern. When the trial came on Mrs. Barbee swore she could not get justice before Squire McEachern and took her case before one of the associate justices of the township court. It is thought she will yet manage to remove her case from the magistrate she went to.

Shortly after the trial was to have been before Squire McEachern, Mr. Tally and Mr. Dan Messamer were in field near her home, and Mrs. Barbee went out and, taking Tally by the nape of the neck, led him to a neighboring wood and tried to kick him into the middle of next week. Then she went back and ordered Mr. Messamer to leave. He told her he did not know that she had any thing to do with it and he would go when he got ready. She replied: "Well, you had better get ready by the time I get back from the house." When she returned to the field she had a long, old-fashioned gun when she meant to use them and there. Of course Mr. Messamer got away as quickly as possible. It is said that Constable Cheney is a little jumpy about going up to her ranch unless he knew she was friendly with him, for she might lay him out with a load of buckshot. She is a terror of her own for that country.—CHARLOTTE NEWS.

What it is.

The merchant can take an article worth 75 cents and sell it for $1—that's business.

The manufacturer can take material worth $5 and make it into a watch worth $100—that's skill.

Vanderbilt can write a few words on a sheet of paper and make it worth five millions—that's capital.

The ditch digger works ten hours a day and shovels three or four tons of earth for $2—that's labor.

A lady can purchase a very comfortable bonnet for $3.75, but she prefers one that costs $27—that's foolishness.

The poet Tennyson could take a worthless sheet of paper and by writing a poem on it make it worth $65,000—that's genius.

The United States can take an ounce and a quarter of gold and stamp upon it an "eagle bird" and make it worth $20—that's money.—TIMES.

Judge Hoke Makes Many Friends.

BURLINGTON, July 19.—The civil docket of Alamance Superior Court has piled up for several terms on account of jail cases and judges with sick families, and at the special term beginning on the 9th, Judge W. A. Hoke sat down for a general cleaning up, and so far the cases have been taken as they come; but two weeks is not long enough, and several will have to go over, as court will probably adjourn Saturday night. A slander case took three days of this week and amounted to nothing, as the limit expired before suit was entered. Judge Hoke has certainly won hundreds of friends in this county by his high business qualifications and the readiness and firmness with he rendered decisions. Our people are glad that he will hold court here again next fall, which will make three courts this year.

The Magazine, Southern States, published by the Manufacturers' Record Publishing Company, Baltimore, Md., will contain in an early issue an illustrated article on the resources, attractions and capabilities of the section traversed by the roads that make up the Seaboard Air Line. This article will deal with such topics as soil, products, raw material for manufacturing, climate, health &c. It will seek to show the inducements this territory has to offer to the farmer, the manufacturer, the capitalist, the invalid and the tourist. It will tell of its capabilities in farming, stock raising, trucking, fruit growing &c.; of its timbers, its minerals, its water powers. Besides the regular circulation several thousand copies of this addition will be mailed to farmers, merchants, manufacturers, capitalists and others in the North and West, who have made inquiry about the South.

The Southern States is engaged in the work of directing investment and immigration to the South—the investment of capital in manufacturing, and in the purchase and development of agricultural and timber lands, and the immigration of reputable, well-to-do farmers, gardeners, fruit growers, stock-raisers, dairymen etc. It is widely read throughout all the Northern, Western and Northwestern States.

Leonard's Fork Items.

We are still very dry in this section. Crops are needing rain. People cannot do much in the way of turning wheat land until we have rain.

A protected meeting is to be held at Leonard's Fork Baptist Church by Revs. Linnick and Gillespie. Services will begin on Saturday before the second Sunday in Aug.

Mr. Frank Baxter and family who have kept the poor of this Co. for eight years will move to Bellwood, Cleveland Co., where they will keep boarders and patronize the school at that place. Mr. Baxter has rendered the county good services in the way of keeping the poor. His many friends of this section, are sorry to give them up, but, at the same time, tender him best wishes for success in the new home to which he goes.

Rumor says that Capt. P. W. Carpenter contemplates making Newton his future home. We are sorry to see him go, but recommend him to the good people of Newton as a good substantial citizen. Mr. L. W. Hoyle has bought from him, the property, known as the "Houser Mill."

Mr. R. L. Hoke and charming young wife of Haywood Co., N. C., are visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Houser, their brother-in-law and sister. Mr. Hoke has been teaching in Haywood county for the past two years, and has managed to capture a charming mountain lassie. Mrs. Hoke's maiden name was Miss Amelia J. Kirkpatrick. They were married in the town of Waynesville, Haywood county on the 31st day of last May. They will go to Asheville next week at which place Mr. Hoke will be engaged in a music school for two weeks, after which he and his wife will take charge of the Canton school twenty miles beyond Asheville. Mr. Hoke is well pleased with the mountains and it is likely that he will settle permanently in Haywood county.

It has been reported, by opposing parties, that the democrats of Leonard's Fork township are about all dead. The fellow who thinks that the democratic party of this section is dead must be sojourning in the land of Morpheus, and is only enjoying a pleasant dream. He will soon awaken to the fact that if the democratic party of this section is dead that it is the most unmanageable corpse that he ever tackled. It will take more republican and people party voters than this township can muster to fasten down the coffin lid.

Hurray for democracy and the COURIER. SATIS.
