Wild Onions in Butter.

The Post recently said that much of the best butter on the Salisbury market was so infected with the flavor of wild onions that it was being "turned down." The same is true of this and many other markets. The farmers have a problem before them to get rid of the wild onions, which means to be increasing in area so fast. If any farmer knows a reliable way to destroy the wild onions and obstruct its growth, he should let it be known.

Rhode Island Red chickens, most prolific layers, 15 eggs for $100, apply to J. H. LASHLEY

Its Dear Old Dad.

"Who is it that has to meet the grocer and the butcher and the baker and the rent collector and wear out his voice trying to stand them off? Dad!

"Who buys the Chicken for the Sunday dinners, carves it himself and then draws the neck from the discard after every one else is served? Dad!

"Who meets an old friend he hasn't seen for years, hoists in a few dippers of suds, moseys home with a good-natured house only to find that Ma makes him sleep on the ironing-board in the dining-room? Dad!

"Ladies and gentlemen, we believe 'What is home without a Mother' as a campaign issue is untenable, and we insist that 'What is home without a Father?' is the one burning question of the hour—a question which has remained unanswered, unhonored and unsung too long in this campaign!"

(Loud and continued cheering, many of the ladies being in tears.)

"So, ladies and gentlemen, here's to Dad?—the silent hero of the household! To Dad, the willing worker! To Dad the humblest bit of bric-a-brac in the parlor! To Dad, who goes through life with the soft pedal on.

"Who is it, I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, who is it that rises at early dawn, lights the fire, cooks a hard-boiled egg and is out kicking the dew off the grass while Mother is still chasing a new dress through the valley of Dreamland? Dad!

You may have many faults, dear old Dad, and you may play second fiddle with the mite on, but we'll miss you when you're gone. To Dad, ladies and gentlemen, the ace in life's pack of cards!"

Saved Child From Death.

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, lagrippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs it's the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Mebane, Drug Co.

A Hairbreadth Escape.

(From the Spokane Spokesman-Review.)

"I was pickin' huckleberries in the mountains below Boise one summer. One mornin' I was on a steep hillside an' just 'bout had my pail full an' was thinkin' 'bout mekin' f'r camp when I looked up an' see two grizzlies comin' tearin' down th' mountain. They was after me, that was plain, so I dropped my pail and fit out. Droppin' that pail was what saved my life f'n th' bears bein' fond of berries, stopped t' eat 'em, an' that give me a few yards th' start. Soon as they had finished th' berries they started after me ag'in.

"I was some runner in them days an' th' way I covered groun' was a caution. Th' bears kept gainin' on me, though, 'till I come t' a big river an' run out on t' ice. Th' ice was thin an' hel' me up all right, but the bears broke through an' both of 'em drowned. That's how I escaped."

There was a silence for a few minutes, then one asked, "Thought you said you were pickin' huckleberries. How is it possible for there to be ice in huckleberry time?"

"Huh! Who said anythin' 'bout there bein' ice in huckleberry time? Them durn bears run me 'till way after Christmay."
