"AND RIGHT THE DAY MUST WIN, TO DOUBT WOULD BE DISLOYALTY, TO FALTER WOULD BE SIN."

VOL 2

MEBANE, N. C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1911

PERSONAL AND LOCAL BRIEFS

PEOPLE WHO COME AND GO

Items of interest gathered by our reporter.

Mrs. Fessie Clark of Durham visits friends and relatives in Mebane Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Boland and daughter of Durham visited the family of Mr. J. N. Warren Sunday.

John A. Trollinger as agent has a number of farms for sale, see his advertisement elsewhere. It is good property.

Mr. Joe King, Editor of the Durham Herald was in Mebane early Tuesday morning, and paid the Leader office a short but pleasant call.

A mail pouch containing $20,000 was routed from Raleigh to New York last July. It was revealed for by the receiving agent at Greensboro, and then it was lost sight of. The Government has taken the matter up but so far nothing has been heard of it. The agent handling it has been suspended for carelessness but nothing more.

Fashionable clothes, is the heading of an attractive advertisement of Pritchard and Bright and Co., clothiers Durham. This firm is composed of a number of clever gentlemen who have been known in connection with the clothing business of Durham for years. They know clothing from A to Z and will be sure to give you a square deal. Call and see them.

The Norfolk and Southern Railroad people have just issued a good size pamphlet titled "Corn, Cotton and Cash" nicely illustrated, that gives much descriptive matter of the Eastern part, or coast counties of the State. This pamphlet will be furnished on application to W. W. Croxton Passenger agent Norfolk and Southern, Norfolk, Va.

No Hope of Saving Even Nominal Throne in China

The legations consider that the end of the Manchurian dynasty is imminent. There seems no hope of saving even a nominal throne. The provinces north of the Yangtze river are now declaring for a republic. The only force of Manchurian troops large enough to cope with the local situation is in Peking, but there are indications that the capital will be surrounded before many days by Chinese soldiers.

Whirled Over Shaft and Arm Torn From Socket

D. D. Belvin, brother of Jailer Belvin, and owner of a cotton gin near Durham, lost his arm and is critically injured as result of being caught in the shafting of his gin Tuesday. The gin was trying to put a belt on when caught by the belt and whirled over the shafting three minutes. The arm was pulled from the socket. He stands a chance for recovery.

A Change in the Hello Girls.

Misses Callie and Sudie Clarke are the hello girls for the Mebane Telephone call, two very clever young ladies. They go on duty at six, a. m. and remain until seven p. m.

Mr. Nick Nicholson sleeps in the phone exchange room going on duty at seven p. m. and coming off at six p. m. They say Nick sleeps with one eye open so he will always see you get the doctor in time.

Boland-Mitchel.

Miss Maggie Mitchel a popular young lady of Northern Alamance County near Watson, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mitchel, was united in marriage to Mr. Floyd Boland who also lives near Watson, on Wednesday evening of this week. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the brides parents. The Leader wishes this popular couple a long and happy life.

Listen to an Important Fact.

There has been good breaks of tobacco at our warehouses all this week. Friends, fellow citizens and tobacco farmers don't forget the fact that horse flesh cost lots of money now days and its killing to your horse to drive long distance over muddy roads to a tobacco market, when Mebane is right at your door with good roads to reach. Store these facts up, they are worth treasuring.

A Handsome Overcoat.

We want to give to the most popular carrier on the Mebane Rd's a handsome overcoat. We are going to let our subscribers on these routes decide who he is. The one on whose coat is received at the Leader office the largest number of one dollar cash subscriptions for old or new subscribers will get the coat. You have a favorite, let us hear from you at once.

Marriage Announcement.

The following announcement has been received at the Leader office, Mrs. Fannie I. Evina Mebane request the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Fannie Kerr to Mr. Henry William Bason on the evening of Thursday the sixteenth of November at half past six o'clock Presbyterian Church, Mebane North Carolina. There will be a reception immediately after the ceremony at "Kalm Krest."

The Leader finds pleasure in chronicling this auspicious event, fraught with such unbounded anticipation of a future replete with happiness.

The bride to be is one of Mebanes most popular young ladies, she reigns as a social queen in an atmosphere in which mingle gentle people of patrician birth. Mr. Bason the gentleman who has won this grand prize in the lottery of life is a young man of rare business, and social attainments, an exceeding clever gentleman now located in High Point, holding a prominent clerical position in an important factory. After marriage the couple will make their home in High Point.

The Leader wishes them bon voyage. Their matrimonial bark will be burdened with good wishes of a large circle of sincere friends.

The Turks who have been regarded as the butchers of Europe are now appealing to the United States to stop the Italians from wholesale murdering of Arabs and Turks at Tripoli.

Beattie May be Taken to Murderers' Row.

Unless the state Supreme Court of Appeals grants a new trial for Henry Clay Beattie, jr., the young man, convicted of the murder of his wife, will be moved from the Richmond city jail to murderers' row in the death house at the state penitentiary. According to the law, a man condemned to electrocution must be lodged in the penitentiary 15 days before the date set for his death.

The court which has under advisement Beattie's petition for a writ of error, sits Wednesday, but may not give its decision. If it should not decide the appeal before the date set for the execution, that would act as a stay.

MAN DYING FROM GLANDERS.

Chambers Besore, a prominent and wealthy resident, aged 52, is dying on his farm at Green Village, Ill. from glanders, transmitted from his horses.

Dr. J. H. Devor held a consultation on the case with Veterinary Surgeon Daniel Ryder, special representative of the state live stock board. Besore's horses have been ill, and glanders was suspected, but Besore, knowing the grave risk, worked with the animals until stricken himself.

The stock are not under quarantine and will be killed by the state department orders. Four doctors are trying to save the life of their owner, but his hours are numbered.

MONA LISA IN THE STREETS

Reproductions of Stolen Picture Appear Everywhere in Paris.

Although the stolen "Mona Lisa" no longer smiles in the Louvre, Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece is smiling just now more than ever before in Paris streets.

Excellent reproductions of the picture now appear on hats, pins, and La Gioconda smiles sometimes two or three times from the same hat.

If Parisian follows its usual course the mysterious smile will soon be seen at every turn in London this season.

The heads of the hats are sometimes made of pretty silver bijouterie work and are quite cheap, and others are in enamel.

Plays for Durham

The following plays have been booked for the Academy of music Durham from now on to the end of the season, of course subject to change from time to time, by taking from or adding to the plays:

- Apr. 4th, Buster Brown.

Potash Deposits Discovered.

Potash deposits that will supply the needs of the entire United States have been discovered in the West, according to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. Heretofore this country has bought twelve million dollars worth of potash from Germany annually. The location of the deposits is not revealed.

No Police, No Loafers and Now No Post-office.

Joseph Barney, Postmaster of Ironport, O., a village of 700 inhabitants, has closed his office. He said he had not sold a single stamp in five weeks nor received any incoming or outgoing mail. The people explain that they don't receive any mail.

There has not been an idle man in Ironport since 1909. The mines are running full time and every miner in town owns his own home.

Three weeks ago the entire police department disbanded. The Chief of Police declares that not one arrest has been made within the last six months and that it is a waste of the taxpayers' money to keep up a police department.

A recent census showed that the population is composed of 637 Irishmen, 11 Welshmen and 52 Germans. Ironport has yet to have its first taste of scandal.

Beats Cotton.

(From The Newton Enterprise.) From ten acres of land in this section this year a farmer got 400 bushels of clean threshed oats and about 30 tons of peavine hay. He will realize more than a thousand dollars from the ten acres. He also grows plenty of potatoes and raises plenty of hogs. He says there is more money in hogs than any thing else he can raise. There is more money to be made from oats and hay, potatoes and hogs than from cotton, even at 10 cents, but few farmers believe it.

Efland Items.

Messrs Harry Fitzpatrick and Dewey Riley spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. Sam Riley.

Miss Bert Pratt took dinner with her friend Miss Annie Jordan Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Squires visited at Mr. Turner Smiths Saturday.

The Mebane Male Quartette, composed of Messrs Jackson, R. E. Thompson, J. Miles and John Smith was down at the M. P. Church Sunday. They added greatly to the singing. Come again please.

Mr. Oley Aulbert and Miss Sudie Miller spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. T. R. Fitzpatrick.

Miss Lilly Bivins visited friends near Cedar Grove last week.

Mrs. Joe Murray spent Sunday with her brother Mr. George Thompson.

Misses Bert Pratt and Julia Trent, Messrs Ernest Forest and Marvin Pratt called at Mr. Murrays Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bessie Baily and Mr. Ed Murray went up to Burlington Saturday evening.

Mr. L. W. K. Faucette came up Tuesday morning from Durham to spend some time with his friend Mr. Rufe Mebane and take a hunt. Look out birds.

The Hallowe'en Party given by the M. P. Ladies Aid Society at the E. H. S. Building October 3 was quite a success. Misses Annie Jordan and Julia Trent were Gipsies and read the future of most all present. They made good imitations, dressed in Gypsy costumes with rings and bracelets. They looked very sweet. Mrs. G. C. Bivins was "pumpkin girl" Miss Bessie Baily was "little boopee" and Miss Annie Murray was "Little Red Riding Hood". Miss Bert Pratt was "Flower girl" and took the prize for being the prettiest girl. The tub of apples was the funniest thing on docket. The boys and girls had quite a lot of fun bobbing for the apples. In fact it was as a whole a most enjoyable occasion. All present voted it a most pleasant party, and left wishing Hallowe'en would come more often. The proceeds realized were something over $20.

Guess I must ring off, and make room for Cowbell and Papa's Girl, for I like company.

List of Letters.

Remaining unclaimed at this office for the week ending Nov. 4th 1911.

- 1 Letter for Mr. Willis Carter
- 1 Letter for Mr. R. O. Reese
- 1 P. C. sor Miss Minnie Sykes
- 1 P. C. for Mrs. L. A. Smith
- 1 Letter for M. C. Smith
- 1 Letter for Mr. S. P. Tesh
- 1 Letter for Mr. B. C. Vinson.

These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter Office Nov. 18 1911, if not called for before.

In calling for the above please say "Advertised" giving date of ad. list.

Respectfully,
S. Arthur White, P. M.

Too Good For This World.

A fund established by Charles D. Rood, a wealthy resident, to encourage good habits among the young men of Ludlow Mass., has just been drawn upon to reward Howard U. Bennett of Ludlow Centre who has never used a profane word, never smoked or chewed tobacco, never touched a drop of liquor and never kissed a girl outside his own family.

Bennett's reward was a gold watch, suitably inscribed, which was presented on his 21st birthday.

Will Raffle a Baby.

Only persons under twenty-one will be barred from chances on a chubby, blue-eyed baby of unannounced sex that is to be raffled at a local theatre Monday night at Henderson Ky. Signs announcing the contest have been tacked up on telephone poles inside a twenty-five-mile radius. The baby has been obtained from an orphanage in Louisville, and the holder of the lucky ticket which will go with the ticket of admission is to be declared foster-parent on the spot.

It is surely a press agent's device, but there is a real baby and the ticket office has been almost swamped.

ROCK MOSES IS TRACED TO ENGLAND

Identified As Stone Resting Under Coronation Chair

An amazing tradition was added to the many surrounding the famous "stone of destiny," which for six centuries has reposed beneath the British coronation chair. One legend is that the stone is the one used by Jacob for his pillow at Bethel.

In a sermon at Westminster Abbey Archdeacon Wilberforce quoted a well-known antiquarian as saying that the "stone of destiny" was also the rock from which Moses struck water for the thirsting children of Israel.

The name of the antiquarian was not mentioned by Archdeacon Wilberforce, but he was quoted as saying that he was convinced that the stone was really Jacob's pillow. After its use as such it was considered sacred and was carried from place to place by the Israelites in their wanderings in the wilderness.

The State Must Decide

(The Rocky Mount Herald)

Now which is the best man for the State to send to the Senate? Shall we throw away our chance of getting what we have been wanting for years? Would it be right to take down a certainty and put, at best, a chance in the office? There is no denying the fact that the opponents of Mr. Simmons are able men, but there is also no denying the fact that they will be unfamiliar with the details of the legislative procedure and will not be able to accomplish much at their first session. Then in sending them there the State will lose the benefits of a whole session's work. Can the State, at this critical time, afford the loss? This is the matter the voters of the State will have to decide when the day for electing a man to the Senate rolls around. "Can we afford to put aside a surety and place our dependence on a possibility?"

Forgetting.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

As times goes on, and we go on with it—more rapidly than we like—it becomes necessary to cling tenaciously to the remembrance of a few things and forget a great many others. This mind—the average mind—has not room enough to hold all that has been learned, observed, experienced in the course of a lifetime. It must let many things go, to make space for the rest. And the first things to forget are the failures, the disappointments, the crumbling of our idols upon their feet of clay, the hard knocks dealt us in the jostling concourse of the broad highway. The things to remember are the multifold blessings that have been our portion from the beginning—the kind face, the hospitable welcome, the thought that was taken for us even when we did not take thought for ourselves, the sympathetic understanding that outran our own and found an excuse for our shortcomings.

It is a good time to pay up your subscription to the Leader. We need it.

DEMOCRAT ELECTED GOVERNOR KENTUCKY.

Socialists Made Big Gains.

The elections held Tuesday in many states and cities throughout the country resulted in the election of Democratic governors in Massachusetts, Kentucky and Mississippi, a Republican governor in Rhode Island, a Republican assembly in New York, which will challenge the continuance of Governor Dix's policies; a New Jersey legislature with majorities probably not in accord with Gov. Woodrow Wilson of that state, with results of the state elections in Maryland and New Mexico still in doubt.

Socialist gains marked elections today and gave that party power in districts where heretofore it had been unable to muster a counting vote.

In Schenectady, N. Y., the socialists elected a mayor, all city officials except one, and a majority of the county board. In addition, the assembly district in which Schenectady is located, returned a socialist assemblyman.

Ohio was another winning ground for the socialists.

Cut It Out; Get Together.

What is needed in Charlotte more than any thing else is team work. No man or set of men ought to be bigger than the community, and no feelings of personal disappointment should be cherished by any who are sincerely interested in the welfare of the community. We have all had at times our bad days, our misunderstandings, our failures to achieve the particular ends we have had in view; but it would be wicked to ask or to expect the community to pay any of our personal debts, to make it take sides for or against any of us in the settlement of ancient scores.

This is a great big town with splendid prospects and the workers among us should work for the town because by making it powerful in all the civic races we shall be making it the best place in which to live, move and have our being.—Charlotte Observer.

In the above utterance the Charlotte Observer preaches a gospel of truth, a gospel that will appeal to all men of intelligence, broad minded, honest and fair minds.

Thrice Guilty.

There are but three cases reported in the Bible in which the culprits were adjudged cut off from further probation and finally repudiated. The first was Ephraim, so helplessly joined to his idols that the edict was "Let him alone." The second offender was left to his fate because "He had blown neither, hot nor cold." The sin of the third was symbolized by the chronic worthlessness of the barren fig tree, and the sentence was, "Go cut it down, why cumbereth it the ground?" Next year the American people are going to pronounce sentence of perpetual banishment on the Republican party for all three of these unpardonable offenses.

It has clung to the idols of Protection until in the midst of plenty the masses suffer for food and raiment; it has blown neither hot nor cold on measures to restrain monopoly and agreed and to reinstate the common right in place or special privilege; and it has stood for the best part of half a century in the public vineyard, drawing sustenance from the soil and demanding generous care, without once bearing wholesome fruit.—Va. Pilot.

Radium Versus Coal.

By Garrett P. Lerrivas.

Sir William Ramsay has stirred up a hornet's nest in England by renewing the warning, which already has often been uttered, that the coal supply, at the present increasing rate of consumption, will be exhausted in a relatively short time, and then, unless there is some source of power to take its place, goodbye to the prosperity of Great Britain!

Sir William Ramsey fixes upon 175 years as the longest period that the known supplies of coal can last. One of his critics undertakes to show that this should be extended to 600 years.

But what matters the precise time if there is a sure limit? Whether it comes sooner or later, the exhaustion of the coal supply will spell ruin—unless in the meantime a substitute can be found. Sir William Ramsey himself suggests the bare possibility that the needed substitute may be found in radium.

If, he says, the 1,760 years which a ton of radium requires in order to evolve half the enormous energy stored within it would be artificially cut down to thirty years, the power thus developed would be equal to that derived from the consumption of a million and a half tons of coal, and thus the energy of a single ton of radium would suffice to propel a ship of 15,000 tons burden, with engines of 15,000 h.p., at a speed of fifteen knots an hour for a period of thirty years.

Robbers Paroled.

The New York Times and the Post-on Transcript must concede that when His Excellency, the Governor of South Carolina, assails them and through them other "Yankees," his bark is worse than his bite. For why? Ask Joseph Beckwith, otherwise known as "Red Mike," and Joe Schultz, both of Yorkland and both notorious pickpockets, who, caught while abstracting wads of currency from the pockets of visitors to the State Fair in Columbia, were convicted and—as warning to the gangs of armed, and often murderous, crooks who make the gathering of people at fairs their harvest time—given long term sentences in the penitentiary.

These crooks had powerful financial backing. A man claiming to be a lawyer came to Columbia from Chicago in their behalf. He handed $200 to Chief of Police Cathcart to "keep mum" on the witness stand as to the pickpockets. Cathcart immediately arrested said lawyer for attempting to bribe an officer. The man gave bond for $1,500 He skipped before trial, forfeiting the money.

A third member of the gang named Parker was permitted to give a cash bond for $1,500. He also skipped never to return, glad to escape trial by giving up the $1,500.

It was understood the men convicted were willing and prepared to pay any fine that might have been imposed, and the penitentiary sentence staggered them.

Governor Blease has turned them loose when they had full five years of their sentences to serve—Columbia State

Unmasking Haidee's Eyes

Inasmuch as Italy laid hold of a rather hot poker when she undertook to grab Tripoli, Turks are letting her fight it out with the Arabs without worrying themselves at all. At least we should infer this state of mind from an interview which Sidkey Bey, formerly connected with the Turkish embassy at Washington and now on a visit to the United States, has just let go. Sidkey discusses the Turkish woman's new liberty in most careful style.

"In the old days," he recalls, "a woman in Turkey couldn't flirt because her glances were wasted on the wrong side of her veil. Now she can use her eyes to advantage, and she knows it. The Turk knows it, too, and is glad she does not wear the veil." Sidkey then dwells upon the joys, heightened by contrast, of the new regime. "In these days," he tells us, "the American courtship is carried on in Turkey. The young man calls at the girl's house, and even goes so far as to take her out for a walk just like the American or Englishman. Then he pops the question, and if she accepts they are eventually married, if some other fellow does not come along whom the girl might like better." Sidkey shudders to think of the days when a Turk had to rely solely upon his mother's judgment in choosing his wife, whose veil he would lift for the first time, with more or less misgivings, after the wedding feast was done.—Charlotte Observer

Bought World in 1883.

Mr. Pulitzer's entry into New York journalism occurred in 1883 when he bought The World, then a paper of small circulation. Its circulation and prestige grew rapidly under his general direction. A building to house it, which he erected in 1890 in Park Row, was, until overtopped by the sky-scrapers of late years, one of the most striking of New York's office buildings.

Mr. Pulitzer's health began to fail in the late eighties, and after a time he became blind. Ever since he has been a partial invalid, but up to the last he kept general supervision over his newspaper properties here and St. Louis, and has taken a prominent part in civic affairs.

Followed Many Avocations.

He obtained his first employment as a deck hand on a ferry boat. Afterward he did manual work on the levee, then became a hostler in the Denton barracks and later became a waiter in a then popular cafe. He then got a place as coachman and through part of the cholera epidemic in the latter sixties he was a grave digger. After becoming a reporter in 1870 he developed a keen interest in politics, and in a few months entered the lists as candidate and was elected to the Missouri State legislature.

Shot Man in St. Louis.

In the same year, 1870, he, in his newspaper capacity, bitterly assailed a group of authorities in St. Louis county. This led to an encounter in a downtown hotel with Capt. Edward Augustine, a contractor, who had been mentioned in the news. Augustine struck Pulitzer, and the latter left the room and returned in a few minutes armed. The quarrel was renewed and Augustine was shot in the right leg. The case dragged through the courts for a year and finally Pulitzer pleaded guilty to common assault and paid a fine of $100.

Stand up for your mail carrier, and see that he gets that handsome overcoat the Leader is offering.

N. C. UNGRACIOUS CLAIMS TRUST.

Floated Bonds For State and Peevish Because They Are Fighting Reorganization.

It is said in Washington that the officers of the American Tobacco Company, the trust which the Supreme Court has ordered to dissolve itself into its integral parts, are understood to be not a little peevish over the action of the State of North Carolina in intervening, along with Virginia and South Carolina, to protest against the plan of reorganization which the Trust submitted for the consideration of the highest court.

It is recalled by these offended officials of the Tobacco Company, among whom are the Dukes of North Carolina, that when the Old North State was having difficulty several years ago in placing a loan which was needed to pay the running expenses of her government, the much-denounced Trust stepped forward and took the bonds at a liberal price. The course of the company was noted with praise by the State government and newspapers of North Carolina; and the representatives of the more or less embarrassed monopoly are letting it be known that they regard North Carolina's conduct in the present crisis as decidedly ungracious. The favorite Shakespearean quotation at this time would be from the play of King Lear, to wit:

"How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is
To have a thankless child!"

Of course, the State government of North Carolina would answer that the act of the Trust in purchasing good bonds did not commit the State to upholding the principle of monopoly against the interest of her own tobacco-growers. But the Trust is deeply grieved and will never offer Carolina a loan again.

Mule Retired From Work and Well Cared For

Henderson Gold Leaf.

Mr. John Harris a well-known farmer living only a few miles from this place, owns a mule that is 43 years old. Mr. Harris, when a young man, began farming with the mule, which always proved to be a very useful and faithful animal. A few years ago Mr. Harris decided that on account of the mule's long and faithful service he should be set entirely free from work and be placed on the "pension list" for the rest of his days. So Mr. Harris built him a nice stall off to himself, which opens into a good pasture, and the mule has since had perfect freedom to come and go at will. He is required to do no work whatever, and is as well cared for as any other animal on the place, receiving the same attention that he did in his best work days. He is perfectly fat and sleek. Mr. Harris refuses to consider the idea of selling him.

Troops on Border May Cost Nation Over Two Million.

It cost the United States Government just $1,630,526,72 for the mobilization of troops on the Mexican border from March 6, when the movement was ordered to the end of the fiscal year June 30.

The single item of transportation to the border by water and rail caused an expenditure of $1,257,903.88. These surprising totals were revealed to the public today in the annual report of Brig. Gen. J. B. Aleshire, the quartermaster general.

The grand total of expenditures for the movement probably will pass the 2,000,000 mark, as there still are some few troops on the border, and quite a number have been moved since June 30. The original movement of troops, supplies, and baggage cost $894,486.72.

Other items of expense were: Regular supplies, $294,527; incidental expenses, $47,966; barracks and quarters $29,846; water and sewers, $49,802; roads, walks, wharves and drainage; $2,500; clothing and equipment, $17,461; shooting galleries and ranges, $500.

General Aleshire states in his report that the movements of troops to Galveston, San Diego, and San Antonio, all were executed promptly with the exception of the soldiers coming from Fort Snelling, and Fort D. A. Russell Wyoming. He ascribed the delay at these points to congested traffic in the vicinity of the first, and the isolated position of the latter.

Most observers hold to the opinion that the Democratic party will not risk the extra hazard, however slight, of giving either first or second place on its national ticket to a Southern candidate but the time is past or is passing when the ambitions of a man from South are but ghosts of ambitions merely because he is from South.
