Leaf Tobacco Market

The leaf tobacco market of Mebane will open next Tuesday the 17th day of September. The buyers will all be in by that time. The opening day promises to be one of unusual interest.

Main Republican.

The State election held in Main this week was carried by Main, they won back the governorship, secured three of the four congressmen, and a sufficient majority on joint ballot in the legislature to assure the election of a republican United States Senator.

Sign Your Name

We want to impress upon our rural correspondents that they must sign their names to the communications they send us. We will not publish your name unless you wish us to, but we want to know from whom the letters come. We have spoken of this matter before, and hope our correspondents will bear it in mind.

Skies Deluge Coast

Rainstorm now sweeping California from the Oregon line far to the south are the heaviest experienced at this season for 63 years. Only once in the history of the Weather Bureau has it rained so early in September; never has it rained so hard.

The Graded School

The prospect for a successful year in the graded school is very encouraging. The teachers, trustees, pupils and patrons seem to be working in co-operation with each other, with one interest in view, and that; to make our school one of the best in the county. Thus far, a hundred and fifty four students have been enrolled and work is being done thoroughly and accurately through eight grades. It is hoped that this interest will continue to grow and that we may have the very best school that Mebane can afford.

A Good Sprinter.

Roy Thompson, Mayor Shaws Chief of police has got a strong scent for a fellow that is trying to escape the clutches of the law. Last Saturday, he got on the trail of a negro that had been hanging around Mebane for a few days, that was wanted in Durham for robbing a train. It seems that the negro saw Roy was after him, and as soon as he got reasonable close the negro started out on a two forty gate. Roy took after the negro, and for a mile, they had a hard race, then the negro got short on wind, and held up. Roy wanted to run another quarter of a mile as he had just got limbered up, but the negro had enough, and quit. Roy would make a good morathon racer.

Alamance Co. Democratic Convention

The Democratic county convention of Alamance was held at Graham last Saturday. It was said by some of the older citizens that it was the largest attended convention held in Graham for years.

Mr. A. L. Brooks of Greensboro introduced by Mr. E. S. Parker of Graham delivered the principal address.

At the conclusion of Mr. Brooks' speech County Chairman Vernon called the convention to order, naming Hon. Alf W. Haywood as presiding officer, the same being made permanent. The convention was largely attended by enthusiastic and sound Democrats. Without confusion or bickering the following ticket, which will be elected by a large majority, was placed in the field:

- Senate: J. L. Scott, Jr.
- House: J. Elmer Long.
- Sheriff: R. N. Cook.
- Register: Charles D. Johnson.
- Treasurer: Albert Thompson.
- Surveyor: Lewis H. Holt.
- Coroner: Dr. Charles McPherson.
- Commissioners: W. H. Turrentine, George P. Williamson, C. H. Roney, Wm H. Fogleman, C. F. Cates.

SIMMONS TO OPEN CAMPAIGN.

Initial Gun of Campaign to be Fired Thursday night in Charlotte.

Hon. Furnifold M. Simmons, senior United States Senator from North Carolina and now a candidate for re-election to that office, will open his campaign in Charlotte Thursday night of this week, September 12.

A telegram to this effect was received in Charlotte. The news it conveys is of the keenest interest to the voters of Charlotte and the surrounding counties.

Senator Simmons has been on his farm near Newbern where he has been recuperating since the recent term of Congress. It is not known what further campaign plans the Senator has made, except that he purposes to proceed from Charlotte on a State-wide canvass, meeting as many people as time and his physical condition will permit him to meet.

It is believed that he will be in splendid shape after his two weeks' rest and that his address will pack the Academy of Music with auditors from Charlotte and the surrounding country.

Kitchin at Charlotte

In the memorable debate between Locke Craig and Kitchin at Charlotte, Kitchin insisted that he would put the trust officials in the penitentiary. Craig said he wanted to regulate the trusts. That was the only difference between them. Kitchin insisted that he was pursued by the Southern railway and the American Tobacco Company. Craig wanted to know, if it was true that the American Tobacco Company was after Kitchin how it happened that Mr. Manning was his campaign manager and how it happened that in Durham county the North Carolina home of the American Tobacco Company, Kitchin received in the primaries fourteen hundred votes and Craig, accused of being friendly got but one hundred and seven votes?

This was what happened. We attended the meeting; we took notes of the speeches and there is no doubt about Kitchin's proposition to put the trust officers in the penitentiary. We have the original notes and the article written at the time. Everything Greensboro.

Rural Routes and the Parcels Post.

Incidental to the inauguration of the parcels post, which will be put into effect January 1, 1913, increased pay has been allowed the rural route carriers, 30,000 men being affected on standard routes, paying from $1,000 to $1,100 a year. This will be an increase of $4,000,000 a year.

There are $42,031 rural route carriers, whose aggregate compensation has been $10,455,740. Under the new order all the carriers will get increased pay.

An order has been made, directing that all rural mail carriers, on completion of twelve months service, shall be given fifteen days leave with pay.

Half Mad.

There seems to be an impression among some Scientist that a number of men in the world who have distinguished themselves as geniuses in their particular calling have been men half mad.

Prof. J. Grasset, of the University of Montpellier, has in his book "Demifous et Demi-responsables," designated as half-insane (Lombroso would have deemed them afflicted with "genius insanity") such men as Pascal, Comte, Balzac, Hugo, Moliere, Wagner, Schiller, Descartes, Cromwell, Goethe, Mozart, Byron, Tolstol, Ampere, Dante Columbus—even Shakespeare—and many another. Obviously, when one considers such men demi-fous, there is something wrong with the definition. Did St. Paul or St. Francis see visions? Did Beethoven "rough-house" in the homes of his princely friends who sought to relieve his needs? What matter to any one who has heard the Ninth Symphony? Was Caesar an epileptic? Was Napoleon a degenerate and a hypochondriac? Was poor Chopin immortal musicing with the toxemia of his consumption? Was Poe an alcoholic? Schopenhauer a misanthrope? Did Newton abstractedly stick his fiancee's finger into his lighted pipe? (He died a bachelor.)

Darwin used to surprise his friends by starting all sorts of apparently crazy experiments. Of what matter all these things; of what use to call such men as these neurotics or hysterics or demi-fous? Where would humankind be to-day had not they, and such as they, lived? Who would not, if he could, be in such company?

It perhaps is true that there is a kind of semi madness in every man whose mind seems illumined with the divine afflatus, who has been able to do, and tell wonderful things.

No thought, no word, no act of man ever dies. They are as immortal as his own soul. Somewhere in this world he will meet their fruits in part; somewhere in the future life he will meet their gathered harvest.—Anonymous

Certain Types.

There are certain people who take the lead in the community and commercial life of every community. They come in contact with the stranger as well as the native and is supposed to be in touch with every movement in or towards that community. We are accustomed to regard such people as a sort of fetish. Recently we learned of a fellow who although he wanted people to come to town and he wanted the town to prosper enough to make him money yet he was one of those fellows who refused to take his home paper because the Editor would not donate it to him. It was a good paper so long as it came for nothing, but soon as he was assured that his money must come for it like other people's money he stopped it and would not pay for the time he had taken it. Now we say we pity any community that is represented to the traveling public by such a type of people. So sordid that he could be interested only when the money crossed the counter to his side. What can such a character add to the community? He who is so narrow that he would not support his own paper, when it was run for the benefit of the community. His selfishness could not spare a dollar from the till to bring hundreds of dollars to the till. Such people will fail, ought to fail, and the sooner they pass out of leadership in any part of the community the better it will be for those who are in touch with them.—Burlington News.

Railroads Each Day Kill 32 And Hurt 500 People

An average of thirty-two persons were killed and 500 injured daily during the months of January, February and March by the railroads of this country. All the rebellions and revolutions south of the Rio Grande combined were not so injurious to life and limb as the common carriers by rail.

The killed numbered 2,481 and the injured 43,475, according to the bulletin issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The killed included only those who died within twenty-four hours of the time of the accident. A conservative estimate is that 10 per cent, of those whose death is caused by railway accidents linger for more than that length of time. Therefore the revised number of killed should be 2,959, or an average greater than the thirty-two.

Assuming the annual earning power of each person killed or injured to be $500, so as to allow for the women and children included, the daily loss in lives snuffed out, capitalizing the earning power on a 5 per cent, basis, was $320,000. Assuming that the injured were incapacitated for fifteen days, the temporary destruction of capital amounted to $8,000,000 a day. The loss in wages of those injured, on the $500 a year basis, amounted to $9,665.

The number killed in train accidents numbered only 2,348 and the injured 20,499. The word only is used because the total when the whole sacrifice is counted is the much larger figures before given.

The value of the engines and cars, ties and rails smashed was $3,368,125. Unless the property damage amounted to more than $150 no report was made. Unless the railroad employee was incapacitated for more than three days he was not listed among the injured. Persons other than railroad employees who were incarcerated for a whole day were listed among the injured.

It was the worst quarter since that ending Sept. 30, 1907. During that period there were 4,650 accidents, of which 1,674 were collisions, 2,229 derailments, 504 miscellaneous, including boiler explosions, and 243 accidents not causing derailments.

The accident insurance offer to pay double indemnity to the person killed while a passenger on the train of a common carrier is still good business. That is, there are more chances for a man to be killed while walking along the street than if he is a passenger in a railway coach. Only thirty-three passengers were killed in train accidents and the total of all passengers killed was only seventy-one.

The big passenger train wrecks that occurred early in the summer, obviously, cannot be included in a bulletin covering the first quarter of the year. The number of passengers injured was 3,774; employees killed, 1049; injured, 37,539; other persons, trespassers and non-passengers, killed, 1,361; injured, 2,162.

And They'll Do It

Mr. Simmons was of the opinion that instead of Mr. Bryan, four years ago, the Democratic party needed a new candidate. He said so, being a party directly interested. It is not now so very surprising that Mr. Bryan thought his Commander should say the Democrats of North Carolina need a new man as senator, although the Democrats of North Carolina might be very properly left to attend to this matter as they see fit.—Asheville Gazette News

When life ceases to be a promise it does not cease to be a task; its true name even is trial.—Amiel.

WORK AGAINST WORDS.

The Progressivism of Senator Simmons.

Mr. McNich writes to The Observer and says:

Governor Kitchin's manager, pays The News and Observer to advertise that The Commoner says that Senator Simmons is not a Progressive The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina says that Governor Kitchin during his twelve years in Congress made no record at all. The Commoner, if it is looking for a Progressive, is certainly not for Governor Kitchin.

Mr. Bryan wrote the Democratic platform at Baltimore, and it is a Progressive platform. It is the chart of progressive Democracy. There is no plank in the platform that Mr. Simmons does not stand on. As to some measures the platform follows him who led the way. It fits his record exactly. It reasserts many long established Democratic principles for which Mr. Simmons stands, and then it advocates progressive measures, all of which Mr. Simmons has advocated. Senator Simmons has supported and is now supporting the following measures:

- 1.—The income tax.
- 2.—Election of United States Senators by the people
- 3.—Tariff revision downward to a revenue basis.
- 4.—Parcel's post.
- 5.—Extension of rural free delivery.
- 6.—The farmers free list bill (as passed by the Democratic House.)
- 7.—Tariff reform bills (as passed by the Democratic House.)
- 8.—The bill (now a law) to prevent corrupt practices in elections
- 9.—Every measure to prevent trusts and monopolies.
- 10.—To restrict foreign immigration.
- 11.—He opposed the dollar-a-day pension bill.
- 12.—To improve and develop the rivers and harbors of North Carolina.
- 13.—To build the inland waterway.
- 14.—To protect and preserve the forests and the water powers of North Carolina.
- 15.—Government aid to post roads.

With such a record as this, measuring up to the most exacting standard of real progressivism, Senator Simmons can well afford to dispense with the ipse dixit of any one man and entrust his standing as one of the foremost leaders of the Democratic party to the Democrats of North Carolina who know him of old, and who can be relied upon to conduct their affairs without the aid of outsiders.

He is subject to the dictation of no man. His leadership has been invariably successful. He will not cater to the whims or bow to the threats of the ambitious. And while these facts may set some against him, they are his strongest advocates with the whole people.

The real test is works, not words; deeds, not professions; performances, not promises. And he is willing that his works, deeds and performances shall answer for him against his detractors.

Sam L. Rogers.

The Bull Moose People

The Bull Moose people or those led by Mr. Roosevelt held their convention in Charlotte last Thursday evening and nominated the following ticket:

- Governor—Zeb Vance Walsler of Davidson.
- Lieut. Governor—Charles E. Green of Mitchell.
- Attorney General—E. S. W. Dameron of Alamance.
- Supreme Court Judges—T. T. Hicks of Henderson; W. S. O. B. Robinson of Wayne.
- Secretary of State—D. H. Senter of Harnett.
- Corporation Commissioners—George E. Butler of Sampson, J. N. Williamson, Jr., of Alamance.
- Superintendent of Public Instruction—Charles L. Coon of Wilson.
- Auditor—J. F. Click of Catawba.
- Treasurer—D. L. Gore of New Hanover.
- Commissioner of Labor and Printing—J. Y. Hamrick of Cleveland.
- Insurance Commissioner—Clyde Eby of Craven.
- Commissioner of Agriculture—J. M. Mewborne of Lenoir.
- Presidential Electors—Iregeil Meares of New Hanover, Jake F. Newell of Mecklenburg.

It seems that Mr. Marion Butler who was a party to the Bull Moose convention, was rather a discarded back number. Mr. Butler's day is past.

Notice

To whom it may concern: This is to notify all persons not to extend any credit to my wife, Addie Rogers, to be paid by me. I will not pay any debts made by her.

This 6th day of Sept. 1912. ED ROGERS, Colored.

Times Absent from Congress.

We herewith produce the record of Governor Kitchin in the Sixtieth Congress, for which he drew full salary. This, it will be remembered, is the year he deserted Congress to canvass the State for Governor. His record as Governor is worse than that of Congressmen, if possible. Here is his record month by month by month for the session of 1907-8.

- December, voting 1.
- January, voting 0.
- February, voting 1; not voting 3.
- March, voting 1, answered present 1, not voting 4.
- April, voting 15, not voting 43.
- May, not voting.

Summary for session—Voted 18 times; answered present, 1 time; not voting 172.

How is that for representation? Yet Governor Kitchin in the face of this ask the voters to return him to Congress.—Oxford Ledger.

When Col. Bryan wrote "The First Battle" after the campaign of 1896 he gave much praise to one Marion Butler of North Carolina as one of the great leaders of the cause. Two years later he urged the Democrats of this state to fuse with Butler. The advice was not followed. Now Col. Bryan advises the Democrats of this state to defeat Senator Simmons. The advice will not be followed this time. The Butler dose was sufficient. The people in North Carolina know, and they will not forget.—Greensboro News.

Kitchin's Why

(Political Dope, in The Laurinburg Exchange.)

While you Kitchin men are searching for your candidate's record, please be so kind as to also tell us of a single Democrat with whom the Governor has ever contested for a nomination, whose Democracy was not assailed by Candidate Kitchin.

Burbank a Socialist

(From The Lexington Dispatch.)

Burbank, owner of The Winston Sentinel, the paper that started the slanderous story about Senator Simmons and Penrose, is a socialist. Whether that has anything to do with his ardent admiration of Governor Kitchin or not we do not know, but certainly it is rather hard on the comparatively honest socialists of this State to have such a person calling himself by their name.

Governor Kitchin's affinity.

Mr. S. L. Rogers manager of Senator Simmons campaign, in his expose of Kitchin's methods, has this to say: "But what shall be said of Mr. Kitchin's manager's course as shown by this letter of August 27th?"

That Mr. McNich's course is but the reflex of his candidate's, is, I regret to say, only too evident. I have before me reports of Governor Kitchin's speeches on the present canvass. I notice he is quoting Collier's Weekly and the Denver "Colo." Express by way of bolstering up his attacks upon Senator Simmons. It is rather interesting that the Governor is going so far from home to find men or papers that will serve him in this matter. It is an unintentional compliment to the Senator. But it is a graver matter that one of these papers is Republican and the other a Bull Moose, muck-raking organ, for which decent people in North Carolina can have only contempt. I refer to Collier's Weekly.

It is known to infamy as the only paper of apparent standing that took up, printed and circulated the unspeakable slander of the negro Manly, of Wilmington, upon the white women of North Carolina. I deem it necessary only to remind the decent people of North Carolina of this fact. It sufficiently explains the antipathy of Collier's Weekly to Senator Simmons, but how shall Governor Kitchin's affinity for Collier's Weekly be explained?"

And Why is It?

Why is it that when people begin to tell slanderous things they do not begin at home? simply because they wish to divert the public mind from the sins of their own household. The bible injunction is to keep your self unspotted from the world, the worlds injunction is to so spot the other fellow that people will look away from your spots. There is many a family with skeletons enstowed in their closet to stock an up-to-date museum of anatomy yet they go around like common school vandals harping about what the other fellow and what the other fellow has done may be the largely exaggerated lies that you are uttering, that you have put in motion. It is said there is a motive for every thing done this is the first thing a good detective looks for, is the motive. If there is a persistent lying slanderer in a community what is his motive? Is he simply carrying out his contract part of an infamous conspiracy, or is he yielding to his vicious nature? let us find out.
