A University Student is Killed From The Result of Hazing.

NO 34

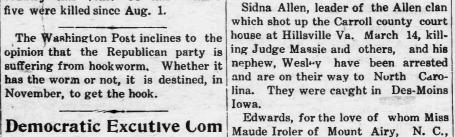

Another fatality was added to the record list of college hazing early Thursday morning last, when young Isaac William Rand waskilled at the University of North Carolina, death being due to a horrible gash in his neck that was inflicted by falling from a barrel on which he was being made to dance by four sophomores. At about 1:31 in the morning A. C. Hatch, Ralph W. Oldham, W. L. Merrimon and A. H. Styron went to the room occupied by young Rand and his room mate, a young man by the name of Wellons, both freshmen, and told the boys to get up and come along had innocently led detectives to Des with them The freshmen were then Moina, was captured Sept. 14th as trotted to the athletic field by the four he was returning to his boarding house sophomores. A barrel was procured after having worked all day with a and placed on its end to make a platform on which the victims of the hazing were to perform their stunts. rounded it. Edwards was trying to Wellons was the first to be placed on the barrel, and after he had complied with the requests to sing, dance and cut up other capers suggested by the hazers, young Rand was called upon to do some stunts. He was put on the barrel and began his performance for the edification of the four sophs, and while he was dancing, the barrel was overturned, throwing Rand to the of Tom Sayre, worked as a carpenter ground. He fell on a broken milk and Edwards, under the name of Joe the left side of his neck, cutting a bottle, the jagged glass penetrating gash several inches in length and completely serving the jugular vein. Seeing that Rand was hurt, the four boys and Wellons started with him to the dormitory building. When they been rooming, by Detectives Baldwin, had reached the gymnasium they realized that wound was serious, and the sophomores fled, leaving the freshman with his dying room mate. Wellons began to call for help, and soon aroused a student by the name of Parsley, whom he sent after a doctor. When medical aid arrived young Rand was dead, death having come within possibly six or seven minutes after receiving the wound.

THE CORONER'S JURY VERDICT. The official verdict of the coroner's jury is, "The jury finds that Isaac William Rand, of Smithfield, came to his death from a cut on the throat caused by a fall from a barrel while forced to dance on the barrel by a party of hazers and the jury recommends that Ralph W.
