WILL DO THE RIGHT.

The people of North Carolina are a conservative people, almost obstinate in their clinging stability. This trait of character could never be better illustrated than in their reluctance to leave the Union in 1861. They did not want to secede, and held on with pertinacity until after Sumner fell. But when the war was once on and they saw nothing ahead but a fight they went to the front and did the fighting, and it is said no soldiers fought more heroic, or with greater bravery than those from North Carolina. And this is so with everything, her people want to know what is right, and once they learn it, they go in that path and heed not the consequences. It is a peculiar characteristic of these conservative North Carolina.

Six months ago the man who slandered his way in to the Governors chair of this State, began his usual siege of persecution and slander against the man who regarded as stood in his way to a seat in the senate, at that time his opponent was busy with his duties in Washington and could not stop to answer him, and in the blind egotism of this man who you will better know as Governor Kitchin, thought that his artful and malicious attacks were unanswerable. He went over the State through his own efforts, and by the aid of his kinsmen his friends and hirelings he swept the State. The best was done that could be done to inoculate every mind with a suspicion of abasement, political turpitude, and infidelity to trust in the Senior Senator of North Carolina. Things, and facts, were colored to suit the exigencies of the occasion. Sincere articles sent out of this State evidently by Butler and Co., and repeated here with a gusto, and the political reputation that Senator Simmons had labored hard for thirty years to build was being recklessly torn down and trampled beneath the feet of a designing reckless and unscrupulous politicians.

The people did not know, and the attack was made so artfully and with such pleasing and plausible method that it won its way to many unrespecting minds.

When Congress ended its sitting, Senator Simmons returned to his native State, and then sought to correct the false and vicious impression that had been created about him. Since returning Senator Simmons has never undertaken to defend his record only to explain something where he had been falsely and wrongfully represented.

Thousands of people are beginning to realize what a damnable effort at Mr. Simmons destruction was made, and the love of right and justice is leading them to condemn in unmeasured terms the unfair fight made against Mr. Simmons the unscrupulous methods adopted to encompass his ruin. It is the great conservative force that rules the character and conscience of the people of the old North State that has been quickened to the grave injustice done one of her citizens, and now they propose to see justice done though the heavens fall, and they will right the wrong sought to inflict upon and honest faithful and patriotic citizen, and the votes in November will thunder their denunciation at the polls as they answered duties call from Bethel to Appomattox.

TO THE JUNIOR ORDER.

The Junior order has exhibited perhaps greater interest in educational matters than any other secret order known. The Juniors believe in home folks and they believe in educating them. Senator Simmons bill in congress, a bill to regulate alien emigration was aimed especially to prevent the landing on our shores foreign illiterates. This bill has won for Mr. Simmons the highest praise from the Junior order. We state below a few endorsements, a large list of which may be found in the congressional Record 62 congress following the speech of Hon. F. M. Simmons in the Senate March 18th 1912.

The State Council of Maine Junior order, heartily endorses Senator Simmons bill to regulate foreign emigration, H. H. Skolefield state councilor. The State Council of Connecticut endorses the amendment offered by Senator Simmons, and urges the passage of the same Cyrus E. Ryder State Councilor. These are only a few of the many endorsements given Senator Simmons in his efforts to strengthen the hands of home people. The Juniors should acquaint themselves with the merits of this bill, we have it in our office.

If Wilson is elected the farmers might just as well begin to get ready next year for 5 cent cotton and those who are working in factories might just as well get ready to eat potliker and bread.—Union Republican.

My-my would not this be awful if it were true. The Union Republican must bank on having a lot of illiterates as readers if it expects for such stuff as this to be swallowed. There was a day and every one deploras it, when the standard of education was so low in North Carolina that such stuff would have been swallowed, possibly with a relish, but enlightened North Carolinians would consider in an insult to their entelligence now.

AN INFAMOUS SLANDER.

We are going to give Mr. W. W. Kitchin some free advertising. The article below is copied from the Raleigh Observer under date of October the 11th, as paid advertising, it is credited to the "Carolina Union Farmer" where the Farmer is published.

we do not know, have never heard of the publication before. and can not presume it is other than one of those mushroom publications that have sprung up since Mr. Kitchens candidacy, and paid for by who? But who ever is responsible for it has stamped himself by the character of the article as a common low bred mean, man, who seems to have no conception of the dignity and decency of politics. It matters not who wrote it, or who inspired it, whether it was Marion Butler, or Bill Kitchin, it does not alter the low down vile contemptible thrust. It is simply the invention of a brain of a mean man worthy of the contempt and execration of every honorable voter in North Carolina. The sample of the style of attack made by Mr. Kitchin henchman on Mr. Simmons.

WHO IS GUILTY?

(Editorial, The Carolina Union Farmer Oct. 3, 1912.)

"The biggest rascal that ever betrayed the people and served the special interests in Congress can come before the people with a bold and plausible defense of his 'record.' With all the brass and bluster and bravado that it is possible to bring into play, certain machine partisan demagogues are now engaged in standing before audiences telling how they have served the 'dear people,' when they belong body and soul to 'the interests' and now have the solid support of the corporations and 'special interests' of the State. The strange part of it—the deplorable part of the whole business, is that there is such a large element of dense ignorance among the voters and so many local 'machine' politicians who care nothing for principle and who are out for the 'spoils' only. Perhaps the most corrupt thing in North Carolina is modern 'machine' politics—which is simply a scramble for political office."

Will give $5.00 prize for best description of the Candidate whom above cap fits.

F. R. McNinch,
Manager for W. W. Kitchin.

THE NICEST

TOOTH PASTE WE EVER SAW

Nydena Cream is the most delightful and effective tooth cleanser and preservative you can possible use.

Nydena enters the crypts and crevices of the teeth—even where the bristles of the brush fail to go—prevents fermentation and inhibits the growth of disease germs upon the mucous membranes of the mouth.

Nydena Cream is a prophylactic and preservative—it supplies the cleansing elements necessary to tooth preservation, elements that are found in the normal secretions of every mouth but always absent in the presence of decay.

It hardens the gums, protects, whitens, and polishes the enamel of the teeth—sweetens and perfumes the breath.

There is absolutely no waste to Nydena—it is clean and economical.

25 cents the tube.
