THE FUNERAL OF MRS. FANNIE MEBANE

Widow of Late Dr. Mebane and Mother of B. Frank and Dr. George A. Mebane, Died Saturday.

A number of relatives and friends were at Mebane Sunday to attend the funeral services over the body of Mrs. Fannie Lavenia Mebane, widow of the late Dr. B. Frank Mebane and mother of Dr. George A. and B. Frank Mebane of Spray and J. K. Mebane of Graham. The funeral service was conducted from the Presbyterian church at Mebane Sunday afternoon and a large concourse of relatives and friends from every section of the state gathered in this last tribute to the memory of a noble woman. The service was conducted by the Rev. F. M. Hawley, pastor of the Mebane Presbyterian church; Dr. E. C. Murray, a former pastor of the deceased, and Dr. W. L. Poteat, president of Wake Forest college. Interment was in the church cemetery, the mound being banked with the many elaborate and lovely floral designs which came from every section of the state, in mute but sweet testimonial of love and esteem.

Mrs. Mebane was a woman of many noble and lovable qualities, and wherever she was known she was admired and esteemed for her gentle manner and true womanhood. Though she had suffered at intervals for some time, the illness which terminated with death was not a lingering one, and it was not until last Tuesday that her condition was believed to be serious. During the latter days of the week there was a noticeable weakening, death occurring Saturday morning. Mrs. Mebane at her death was in her seventy-third year.

Aside from her many community works, church work, charities and rare personal charm, Mrs. Mebane was known generally, with her late and lamented husband, as the head of one of the state's most excellent and best known families. Surviving members of the immediate family are five children, two daughters and three sons, three grandchildren and a host of relatives, who occupy prominent stations in every phase of the state's life. The children are Mrs. W. B. Scott, of Mebane; Mrs. H. W. Bason, of Thomasville, and Dr. George A. Mebane, of Spray; B. Frank Mebane, of Spray, and J. K. Mebane, of Graham. The grandchildren are Miss Margie Scott, of Mebane; Banks Holt Mebane and George Allen Mebane, of Spray.

A New Drug Store

Mr. W. L. Buhman who has had charge of the Mecca Drug Store as general manager since its opening here last spring, and who has made many friends here will open up a Drug business here in the store now occupied by Mr. C. C. Smith. This building was originally erected for a Drug Store. Mr. Buhman is a licensed druggist, and with all is a very clever man, and seems to have promises of success for which the Leader joins in good wishes.

Married in Mebane.

Miss Dora Dollar daughter of Mr. John Dollar was united in the bonds of holy wedlock to Mr. Earl Bradley on Sunday Dec. 22.

Gained Their Contentment

North Carolina furniture manufacturers won a victory of far-reaching effect Monday when the interstate commerce commission handed down an opinion in favor of North Carolina manufacturers in the case against the Virginia territory in which it was claimed that the rate on furniture to the Pacific coast was a discrimination against the North Carolina manufacturers in favor of Virginia furniture dealers.

The Mebane Drug Co., tells you something of their delicious ice cream. See change of ad in this issue.

He Wont Do

"Senator Kern, paid by the public to perform a public service, who ought to be in Washington now, attending to his duties, instead of being here, has dared to appear in this court and in total disregard for the law has appealed to the prejudice and passions of the jury in behalf of the wives and children of these defendants. Who appealed in behalf of the women and children who were relatives of the twenty-one persons who perished in the Los Angeles Times office. And this fellow Kern was the man that W. J. Bryan thought ranked next to Wilson in point of fitness for the Presidency of the United States, at Baltimore.

Eftland Items

Mr. Lem Wilkerson came down from Mebane to visit his friend Mr. Eugene Stanford during the holidays and with his Phonograph played all of his one hundred records to a certain girl before stopping to give the machine a rest. Get some new records and come again "Lem."

Miss Mattie Pickard of Burlington is visiting Miss Bess Baitly.

We are glad to note Mrs. Joe Murray accompanied by her husband returned from the Rex Hospital in Raleigh last Sunday where she had been undergoing treatment for the past several weeks. Mrs. Murrays many friends will be glad to learn she is much improved in health.

We noticed where this "noble" set of Jurors at Greensboro turned loose the "murderer" Blair. Is it not wonderful what a few thousand dollars will do? Guess "Santa Claus" visited their home well loaded with presents this Xmas, wonder if the spirit of poor murdered George Thompson did not hover near Blair in his dreams and even more nearer those twelve men who deliberately turned loose the man who so cowardly took his life. "New Year."

FINAL FIGHT ON THE BOOK "TRUST"

Injunction is Asked Carrying of Agreements Between Publishers and Booksellers.

The final fight against the so-called "book trust" opened in the Supreme court of the United States last Friday when a printed argument was filed asking for an injunction against the carrying of agreements between publishers and booksellers alleged to control the supply and sale of books.

The injunction is sought by R. H. Macy and company, a New York department store firm. They sought to be enjoined are the American Publishers association, a New York corporation said to be composed of publishers of about 75 per cent of the books of the country many of its members and the American Booksellers associations, an incorporated association said to be composed of a large majority of all the booksellers throughout the United States.

The question has been in the New York courts for years. These courts finally held that the injunction should be issued as to uncopyrighted books but not to copyrighted ones. The question now presented to the Supreme court is whether the alleged agreements as to copyrighted books are in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Hillsboro News

Mr. Wilber McFarland of Mebane attended a wedding at Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roach, Wednesday.

Miss Hester Burton of Durham visited friends here last week.

Mr. Archie Strayhorn of Mebane spent a day and night with his sister Miss Mable Strayhorn here last week.

Mrs. N. W. Brown spent last week in Greensboro with her parents.

Miss Mary O. Thompson and Miss Mamie Brown have returned home for their Christmas vacation from Greensboro, S. C., where they have been taking a teachers training course.

Mr. J. Clyde Ray spent Christmas here with his parents.

Mrs. Jack Turner of Rockboro spent Christmas here with relatives.

Miss Mary Rebecca Lloyd and Mr. Fredrick Young Noel were united in marriage on Dec. 23 at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride. The home was beautifully decorated with holly, trailing cedar and ferns. The ceremony was performed in the West room of the house. First came the groom with his best man Mr. Claud Sharp, then came the bride leaning on the arm of her uncle, Rev. Tommie Williams who gave her away. The bride was comely gowned in a traveling suit of brown with hat to match and white gloves. The ornaments which the bride wore were a diamond ring and the wedding ring and a few more pieces of jewelry that had been given her by her friends. They were met by Rev. Lawrence under a large green bower who in his calm and gracious way spoke the words that united this happy couple in holy bonds of matrimony. After receiving the congratulations of the large crowd present to witness the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Noel left amid showers of rice for a trip to Raleigh and from there to Mr. Noel's home, after which they will reside in Hillsboro where the groom holds a responsible position. The gifts were numerous and beautiful, consisting of jewelry, cut glass and silver. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Miss Linder Roach and Mr. Willie Graham were married at the home of the bride on Dec. 25, at 5 o'clock the home was decorated beautifully with trailing cedar and ferns. First came the groom and his best man Mr. Bert Graham, his brother, then came the bride and Miss Georgie Statts, the maid of honor. The bride and groom met under a large arch with nineteen candles lighted on the arch where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Green. The bride was gowned in a beautiful white dress, she carried white carnations and ferns and the maid of honor was gowned in a pink dress and carried carnations and ferns. The bride and groom received many nice presents.

Mr. J. W. Cone and Mr. J. E. Jathan of Greensboro have been spending a few days at their bungalow two miles West of Mebane. They have been hunting and having a general good time. These gentlemen purchased the farm of Mr. Will Murray and are fixing the place up as a hunting preserve. They are arranging for an immense fish pond on the place. There are several hundred acres of woodland on the place.

PISTOL "TOTERS"

Judge Eure of Greensboro Fills Promise of Road Sentence.

Judge Eure of Greensboro in municipal court has issued what might well be termed a "manifesto" regarding the carrying of concealed weapons. The judge stated that he believed most of the homicides were due to the carrying of concealed weapons and that hereafter unless there were peculiar or strong mitigating circumstances, he would impose road sentences on defendants convicted in his court instead of fines. The matter came to a climax when a negro named Jack Thompson was convicted of "pistol toting," and was sentenced to the roads for six months. The negro prayed that a fine instead be imposed and showed that he was wounded during a "negro festival" by his own gun, but Judge Eure didn't consider this sufficiently strong argument and allowed the road sentence to stand.

Of Small Value

If the opinion of the press, taken as a whole, may be regarded as reflecting the truth of the situation, that recent conference of governors at Richmond has not left any mark of value behind it. If any very material constructive measures were considered by the conference they were almost or entirely obscured by the sensational outbursts of the blatherkite governor of North Carolina. It has been said, in defense if the conference itself, that the Bleese performance was unexpected and beyond the control of the sane participants in the meeting. But the fact remains that, beyond a perfunctory disavowal of the sentiments of the South Carolina demagog, nothing was accomplished which is worthy of historical record. That being so the conference was of very small value—no more at all.—Greensboro News.

THE DEATH TOLL

Of Railroads 10,538, Injured 169,538.

Every time the big railroads of the country took in $3,556 from the operation of their freight and passenger trains, during the fiscal year ending June 30 last, a human being was killed or injured. The casualties amounted to 180,123. Of that number, 10,588 were killed and 169,538 were injured, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission report sent to Congress.

During the year the railroads having incomes of $1,000,000 or more earned on an average a few cents more than $3,362 per mile of road operated. During the preceding year they earned a few cents more than $3,465.

There was a decrease in earnings per mile of road operated and an increase in the number of persons killed and injured, the decrease in earnings being $103.16 per mile. The increase in casualties was 189 in killed and 19,379 persons injured.

Taking the big carriers, those whose operating incomes were $10,000,000 or more, with a mileage of 176,287, a human being was killed or injured on each nine-tenths of a mile of road. Taking all the roads with operating incomes of $1,000,000 and upward, with a mileage of substantially 220,000, the casualties amount to one for every one and a sixth miles of road.

The commission renews its recommendations that Congress give it definite power to regulate telegraph and telephone companies, to make a valuation of the physical property of railroads, to require a uniform classification applicable to the whole country and control over the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds.

SPEED ALSO RESPONSIBLE.

Remarkable increase in the speed and weight of trains and the crowding of tracks and terminals caused by the movement of an enormously enlarged volume of traffic have greatly increased the duties and responsibilities of train service employees and multiplied the chances of error on their part.

Please Pass the Prunes

The parcels post already is justified. It surely will put more prunes on board house tables, were that luxury has these many years been conspicuous by its absence. It is revealed at Washington that the postoffice department recently received from a San Diego grower the announcement that the latter proposed to send by parcels post two car loads of prunes to New York. It was a 'freak' shipment and was to be sent in eight pound boxes. The rate would have been 96 cents. The express companies promptly cut their rate to 35 cents. Good. Now for soup and hash.—Asheville Gazette-News.

The darnless hose is what H. Wilkinson and Co., is offering in this weeks Leader. See it, its a daisy.

Four Car Loads of Turkeys Given Away.

One of the biggest Christmas gifts the past year in the state was the one presented by Caesar Cone to the three mill villages north of Greensboro a gift costing nearly $2,500. This was in the nature of a turkey dinner, the privileges of which is not denied a single member of these prosperous villages of White Oak, Revolution and Proximity.

On last Thursday before Christmas each family in the villages, the total being approximately 1,500 a handsome turkey was presented to be prepared in such style as the individual families might desire for Christmas. Not a turkey, by special instruction, was allowed to weigh under 10 pounds, and many of them went as high as 25 pounds. The price paid was 15 cents per pound.

The entire bunch of turkeys would fill four box cars, and most of them came from Guilford and surrounding counties. One car load came from Wilkes county.

The Reason Why

The reason Lexington has no better police force than it has is that the aldermen do not want any better force. They have had opportunity to secure good men and they have turned them down.—Lexington Dispatch.

And we suppose that to be the reason some towns have no lights.

Simplicity to Mark Inauguration.

Jeffersonian simplicity is to mark the coming inauguration of President-elect Wilson. There will probably be a greater outpouring of people than has ever marked the inauguration of a President, but, according to Chairman William C. Eustis of the committee, there will be no ostentation. He contends that true Democracy demands that there be no display and he is upheld by Thomas Nelson Page, who is quoted as saying:

"President Jefferson's act of riding up Pennsylvania avenue on horseback has been derided but the people who have studied history have realized that he did it in a dignified manner and that his inauguration had at least as much real dignity and true simplicity as that of any President."

Billions For Pensions

Since June 30, 1912, when there were 999,446 pensioners, the largest number ever on the Government rolls, there has been a steady decline. At the end of the last fiscal year, according to Secretary Fisher's annual report, there were 860,294, the smallest number in twenty-one years.

But while the pension figures have reached the lowest mark in two decades, the amount expended for pensions this year, owing to the General Service bill passed last spring, will be the largest in the history of this country. Last year the Government paid out about $155,000,000; for this year the appropriation is $164,000,000, and Secretary Fisher asks $20,500,000 more for 1914.

It is more than forty-seven years since the close of the civil war. Probably no soldier or sailor who served ninety days is now less than sixty-two or is barred by reason of age from receiving the minimum pension of $13 a month. In those forty-seven years the Government has disbursed for pensions $4,286,922,719.65, and of the 860,294 pensioners on the rolls last June, nearly 40 per cent. were widows and dependents, the best possible answer to politicians who for campaign purposes pretend that the Government has treated the veterans in a niggardly manner.—New York World.

Taft has now gone to abolishing offices around which he cannot build a civil service sense. Tunning his attention to the customs service, he has found a number of custom houses that can be dispensed with, now that they might come into Democratic possession. Among them, of course, is the Albatross station on the coast of North Carolina. At this custom house, tradition has it, the cost to the Government to collect $1 is $534.92. It is only fair to President Taft to say that he announced early in his Administration that these useless custom houses must go. Whether he intended to wipe them out at the close of his first or second Administration is a question.—Charlotte Observer.

Would Say Twan't So.

(From The Raleigh Times.)
What in the world is the matter with the North Carolina hen? She ought to blush when she sees that eggs are 45 cents a dozen. Up in the high mountain region last Summer it was a joy to observe the familiar signs: "Eggs 5 cents, Butter 10 cents, Chickens 10 cents." It looked like the millennium had come. Any man would be considered a liar if he told the people there that eggs sold anywhere in North Carolina for 45 cents a dozen.

PARDONS OVER 500 CONVICTS

Governor Blease Sets A Record For Nullifying The Law.

With the compliments of the Christmas season, Governor Cole L. Blease Tuesday before Christmas day pardoned 79 convicts, of whom 45 had been found guilty of various degrees of homicide, and 25 were serving life terms in the state penitentiary. Some were freed on condition that they leave the state in 24 hours and never return. Three of the pardons were given to convicts who had been previously released for the purpose of restoring citizenship. Many of those set free have been working on chain gangs.

The governor made no general statement of his reasons for his action. He extended clemency to 33 convicts on Thanksgiving Day and to 9 last Christmas. In two years he has freed 509. He will account for his pardons in a message to the legislature.

One of the most interesting cases in the last lot is the full pardon of J. Chester Kennedy, a white man, convicted of murder in 1909 and sentenced to life imprisonment. Kennedy, the jury found, hired two negroes to kill Marvin N. Holland, pointing Holland out for assassination, but one of the negroes mistook for him a man named Ussery, who was standing nearby and killed him instead.

Both of the negroes are serving life terms and Governor Blease says they have made conflicting statements which have led him to doubt Kennedy's guilt.

The "Why" of Advertising in The Newspapers.

The following on newspaper advertising is from an interview given by Samuel Cohen, head of a big department store in Richmond:

"In my judgment the city merchant would do well to discard all other forms of advertising and spend his money with the newspapers. The newspaper visits the home of the people and is a welcome visitor. The circular which is left on the doorstep or thrown in the porch is an intruder. The maid throws the circular into the trash can or the stove; the newspaper she takes into the house and lays on the library table for the family to read. For myself I have cut out circulars, programs and spasmoid publications and put all my advertising in the newspapers. I have done it not on account of the newspapers, but because it is the newspaper advertising that pays."

But the public-spirited individual will give the newspaper the preference because of the newspaper as well as because it is newspaper advertising that pays. There is no worthy cause in a community which does not go to the newspaper for help. For any undertaking to be a success publicity is the first essential and the quickest, easiest and best way to get publicity is to go to the newspapers for it. They never refuse to give it if they can be shown that thereby the public interest will be advanced.

The fact then that the newspapers do so much for the public for which they never get any pay is certainly a very strong reason why business men who properly appreciate the value of a public service should advertise in the newspapers. There is also the reason mentioned by Mr. Cohen and between the two considerations it would seem that the newspapers would have such a hold on the community that business would come in plenty without any solicitation whatever.

The fact that it does not is because business men do not inquire sufficiently into the relative merits of the different forms of advertising and do not know to what a large extent the newspapers are called on for service for which they get no pay whatever.

Whenever an American citizen is killed in Honduras, Mexico or elsewhere abroad, the people of the United States become filled with righteous indignation; while deaths by violence in this country are numbered by the score daily. Is human life without sacredness only at home?
