Repass Webb Bill Over Taft's Veto

The Webb liquor bill, prohibiting the shipment of liquor into "dry" States, was repassed in the Senate over President Taft's veto within two hours from the time the President's message of disapproval had been laid before that body.

The Minstrel Performance.

The entertainment given by the lady minstrel at the graded school auditorium last Friday night, was one of unusual merit, especially in view of the fact that this was the first time they ever appeared in public. The characters were composed of some of the best young ladies of the town, married and single. They had a fine chorus of good voices. The old time southern melodies largely predominating. The jokes were snappy, and pointed, with a number of appropriate local hits.

They realized more than seventy dollars from the entertainment to be applied on the debt on the graded school piano, proof that the entertainment was well patronized. Some of the ladies who appeared on the stage did exceptionally well, but you would have never thought it to have seen those same sedate maidens on the street.

At The Presbyterian Church Sunday

Rev. F. M. Hawley pastor of the Presbyterian church of Mebane preached a forceable and earnest sermon at the noon hour service Sunday. The text dwelt largely upon mans undoing the purposes of God, making his will void and of no effect. He sought to impress upon his hearers the necessity of unity in action of harmony in purpose. He spoke of the discord in Mebane, of how so many were alienated, and had become negative forces in the field of progressive effort along moral religious and ethical lines. Where the spirit of friendly feeling should dominate and control, there was bitterness and discord. If God would bless this church collectively, or individually then there must be a bending to his will. We must be moved by that spirit of love and good fellowship, that partakes of the deity, who is the incarnation of love. Let us strive to change, strive to meet the conditions of christian fellowship, and live as God would have us live.

Get on The Honor Roll

We should like to place your name among the list of those who have paid what they owe for the Leader. Send your name. Below is a list of those who have paid us in the past few days.

Sam Brooks
G. W. Gill
Carrie Ward
Mrs. J. T. Malone
W. H. Wood
W. T. Dillard
E. L. Daily
Mrs. W. W. Whitefield
J. H. Hodge.
Carrie Gamble.

If your name should appear in this list and does not please advise us at once.

An Other Murderer.

Steve Wood, and Ruffin Durham colored were indulging in a little crap shooting Sunday afternoon at Woods house, when provoked through some misunderstanding Steve pulled out one of those pistols the State makes it possible for him to purchase, and shot Durham dead. The shooting occurred North of Mebane near the Caswell line. After Durham was killed the crowd dispersed to more congenial parts, leaving Durham all alone, where his wife found his remains the next morning stark, and stiff in death. A case for the court, and more money for the tax payers to dispense, and opportunities for lawyers fees.

A GOOD FAMILY HORSE FOR SALE

Sound and gentle. Work well anywhere. Want to replace with a good saddle horse. ERWIN A. HOLT. Burlington, N. C.

A Serious Experience.

Luther S. Straughn had an experience the past week that was not down on the program, and still it was exciting enough to have held front position on the stage.

It seems that Luther had hired a negro by the name of Paylor to chop some wood for him. Paylor had done a portion of the job, but wanted to quit before completing. There arose a dispute as to the quantity, and the negro began cursing Mr. Straughn and with a drawn ax pursued him with an apparant murderous intent. Mr. Straughn sought safety in flight, but he fell over some obstruction and before he could arise the negro was upon him with drawn ax, it was then that Luther began to think and he thought real fast, he wondered what would become of Mrs. Straughn when her honey boy was gone and then he wondered whether her honey boy was as fit to be an angel as he was when a little innocent boy, and realizing the fact that he could not fly white Paylor was after him with the ax whether he could fly any better when Paylor got through with him with the ax, and he was pluming his wings for another country. They were all solemn and singular thoughts, however, at the critical moment a man hove in sight, and Luther heaved a sigh as he saw Paylor lower his ax and leave hurriedly.

Paylor realizing the grevousness of his office has kRpt out of the clutches of the law officers so far.

Wants Light On The Subject.

On Feb. 21 Mr. W. E. White of Mebane addressed to Hon. J. Elmer Long the following letter.

Dear Sir:-

I have just been informed by a reliable party (C. F. Cates) who is in a position to know that the sheriff and deputy sheriff of Alamance County, in addition to his salary, which was fixed by the legislature two years ago, which he has been collecting since December 1st, 1912, is being paid in addition, his usual commissions on taxes collected. In other words, he is getting his usual fees and is being paid the salary extra. I am informed that the bill was drawn fixing the salary of the county officers with the provision that it would not affect his commissions on the taxes during this term.

It was not the intention of the parties who were responsible for this bill to pay any commissions whatever to the county officers except the Clerk of the court after their salaries commenced, and if the bill was so drawn it was done without the knowledge of the parties who were responsible for this bill. I am sure there isn't one of them at this time who knows the sheriff is being paid the usual fees in addition to his salary. I am sure that the law, if it so states, is an error. However, if such is the case the present legislature should certainly correct this error, as it will cost the County at least $2500 or $3000 annually.

I would appreciate it greatly if you would advise me in regard to this. I think as a citizen and tax payer of the County it is my duty to call your attention to the matter, and if there is an error it should be corrected immediately, and I am calling your attention to this because I think it is my duty to do so.

I await your prompt reply.

Yours very truly,
W. E. W.

Regret we have not the space for the correspondence, which would more fully explain it.

Great Day For The State.

Few better things have ever happened to North Carolina than the prospect that freight-rate readjustment will soon be made. It will be made by amicable arrangement with the railroad managements, which is great additional cause for gratification. As Corporation Commission Clerk Maxwell comments, the railroad proposal to withdraw from business between Western Markets and Virginia cities "will merely have the effect of removing from the public view a concrete illustration of the rate differences obtaining to North Carolina cities in contrast with the Virginia cities." We might add, however, that abandonment of these extreme low rates in proportion to service will doubtless benefit the railroads as properties and benefit all nongrafting shippers thereby; North Carolina will no longer stand under the expense of business done with Virginia practically regardless of cost.—Charlotte Observer.

For Benefit of New Presbyterian Church.

Mesdames W. O. Warren and J. S. Cheek will supply the demand of the public at the end of each week, with cakes.

Big cake - 75c.
Half cake - 50c.
Quarter cake - 25c.

In phoning orders, please state the kind of cake wanted, and send in orders not later than Friday A. M.

Phone, No's. 41 and 32.

A Body That Does Things

Where would Washington be without the chamber of commerce? One shudders at such a supposition, and the suggestion makes one wonder how the city ever got along at all without it. We are in such splendid social and economic condition today largely by reason of the unified efforts of this body. Doubtless its most enthusiastic members sometimes have moments of discouragement, when they contemplate all they would like the chamber to do, but individual's or organizations that are not continually striving after a little more than they can accomplish are in great danger of falling far short of their actual possibilities.—Washington, N. C. Daily News.

Thomas F. Ryan, the noted financier has sent to the master in equity of Sparranburg County bonds of the Glenn Springs Railway to the amount of $8,000 for approval as a claim against the railway, which will be sold at public auction on a salesday in April by the receiver, H. S. Simpson. Mr. Ryan and the late Samuel S. Thomas were at one time the owners of the Charleston and Western Carolinas Railway, and it was through this fact that they became interested in the Glenn Springs road.

As if the search and seizure bill were not fierce enough, Senator Woodley would have added to it a provision to make public advertisement of all liquors received by express offices and to whom consigned. Of course this amendment was not considered, but it shows to what an extent some people would go. The search and seizure bill could have been made to serve its purpose equally as well without having been shaped up so much in the nature of a trouble-breeder.—Charlotte Observer.

Bigger Crops All Around

(From The Sampson Democrat)

Some time since we spoke of the greatly increased acreage that will be given to the cultivation of tobacco the coming year, and it would seem that the same is true of almost all of the crops. The splendid price of cotton the last season will result in more cotton being planted than last year. The demand that has already been made on the cotton manufacturers is an indication that a good many acres will be given over this year to the cultivation of truck. There may be less early corn raised, but the truckers are planting potatoes, pepper, cantalopes etc., in large quantities.

What Thaw's Money Has Done.

Of what Lawyer Anhut may testify in the Thaw scandal inquiry some indication is given in the statement of his counsel. By this story, Thaw employed Anhut as his counsel, for a sum not stated, at the suggestion of Dr. Russell. In many conferences between Anhut and Dr. Russell it was planned to have Thaw examined by "a corps of great experts." Always the same story; trashing the old straw; repeating the endless examinations and re-examinations of a man adjudged a dangerous person and lawfully immured for the safety of the public! A magazine writer, it has been testified, brought doctors to examine Thaw, on the strength of a letter of introduction from Gov. Sulzer.

Mr. Anhut "never discussed money with Dr. Russell." Yet Thaw's money is the hero of a long, sordid story, the one reason why an idle, demented murderer has been able to keep the legal machinery of the State in a turmoil for almost seven years and has now involved the executive department in a tangle which must be unravelled.

Thaw killed Stanford White June 25, 1906. His trial for murder began Jan. 23, 1907, lasted three months and left a cloud upon the reputation of American criminal procedure in the eyes of the world. The jury disagreed. His retrial began Jan. 4, 1908, and on Feb. 1 he was acquitted as insane and sent to Matteawan. Promptly Thaw's money began fretting the courts with those tactics for release which in five years have never ceased. Pending such proceeding, Thaw was removed to the Dutchess County jail. In the summer of 1909 Justice Mills dismissed his plea and ordered him back to Matteawan.

At once Thaw's money recommenced the process of pleas and motions and appeals, and on June 17, 1912, he was taken before Justice Keogh, who dismissed the case, as Justice Mills had done. Efforts at release did not halt even then; and if they have not confined themselves to legitimate motions before established courts it is not astonishing. Thaw has been, as one witness cynically terms it, "a meal-ticket" for lawyers, private detectives and go-betweens.

So far as the State of New York is concerned, the net results of these years of turmoil might be Thaw's money is the key of the Asylum for the Criminal Insane. It has cost the State heavily to keep Thaw in custody, but it has kept him; neither barratry nor bribery has set him free. Nor is his release likely to be brought about by such practices as are coming to light, now that they are in the light.—New York World.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR MEBANE

A Franchise For Lighting The Town is Reasonable Assured.

A number of citizens met with the board of Alderman and the Mayor in the Masonic Hall of Mebane last Wednesday night Feb. 26 to hear a proposition from Mr. E. S. Parker representing the Piedmont Electric Company of Burlington for lighting the town of Mebane including streets and private residences. The Board of Alderman after hearing the proposition thought quite favorable of it but in the mean while the Mayor wished to know the opinion of citizens present as to what they thought of it, and asked those favoring it to rise, we think all rose except one man, and this was as far as the matter went.

It was not in the power of any one to grant a franchise, the Board of Alderman and Mayor assenting could not do it except at a regular meeting, and this could not be held until March the 6th Thursday.

It however seems to be the general impression that a franchise will be granted, and that Mebane may after an indefinite period of Egyptian darkness emerge into the marvelous light of modern progress. She has suffered at the hands of some one long enough, and if Ed Parkers magic tongue can give to her this long needed improvement then we shall say all honor to Ed Parker.

The proposition he has made has the appearance of being exceedingly fair. We would undertake to describe it, but you would not understand it if we did. It will mean at least 20 or 24 very bright lights of high electric tension for the town, and will put Mebane in a position where she will not suffer the adverse criticism which she has suffered for the past few years, when she was entitled to lights.

Give Them a Chance.

Union Times.

The compulsory education bill, it seems, will be passed. The only comment we have is that it should have been passed 20 years ago. If the children of today are to be the citizens of tomorrow, they should at least be given a chance to be intelligent citizens.

Lawyers With More Noise Than Common Courtesy.

Many who read this have attended court and witnessed the scene of some lawyer bullying witnesses.

Happily this type of the two-by-four is passing to an extent and the majority of lawyers are disposed to treat witnesses courteously, but occasionally we find a fellow following out his impertinent questions—quizzing in a manner that he would not dare do outside of the court room.

You have seen the girl put on the stand for the first time and subjected to questions which no lawyer had the right to ask. You have noticed her embarrassment as she faced the court room, and you have observed the subtle plot of the lawyer to so nonplus her with questions as to cause her to contradict herself. And then you have seen him, seizing upon this unintentional contradiction, attempting to make her appear as a wilful falsifier.

There should be no place in the court room for the lawyer with more noise than common courtesy. This system of permitting witnesses to be treated roughly by bullying little lawyers, who try to bluff rather than argue, should not be tolerated.—Charlotte News.

Mebane M. E. Church South.

J. L. Amick, Supt. of Sunday School.

The public cordially invited to all these services. Bring a friend with you.

In Memory of Mrs. Rice.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. L. L. Rice February the 22 1913 at half past one o'clock in the evening, and took from it the wife and dear mother, Mrs. A. L. Rice. She was sick only a week, and all was done for her that loving hands could do, but they could not stay the hand of death, for the blessed Saviour bid her come and she quietly and peaceably passed from this world of sorrow and trouble to her blessed home above.

She was a member of the Cross Roads Presbyterian church, and a true follower of her blessed Saviour. The funeral services was conducted by her pastor Rev. W. O. Sample, at her late home and her remains was laid to rest in the family burying ground near her home. She leaves a husband and two daughters Mrs. T. A. Church of North Wilkesboro, N. C., and Lizzie Rice her daughter that was with her. She leaves one sister Mrs. Joseph Thomas of Haw River and a host of relatives and friends.

A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is stilled
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
By her loving daughter
Lizzie Rice.

Reorganized.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Mebane Real Estate and Trust Co. The company has been reorganized with W. S. Crawford, President, W. W. Brown of Burlington, Vice President and U. S. Ray Secretary and Treasurer. They have recently invested about $20,000.00 in farm land around Mebane. They propose to do a Real Estate, Fire, Life and Live Stock Insurance business. Remember, also, that they do a loan and trust business, paying you 6 per cent on your money guaranteed by a first mortgage or real estate. Why should you send your money away to Greensboro, Charlotte and Durham when you can get just as good paper here and you may then have the satisfaction of knowing that your money is staying at home helping to build up and develop your neighbors property and indirectly your own. Think about this fact and look over some of their land.

Educational Test For Immigrants.

Though the refusal of the house of representatives to pass the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill over the veto of President Taft blocked its adoption as the law of the land, it is worth while to see what would have been the direct effect of such a law, which was intended to bar aliens over sixteen years of age who could not read the English or some other language.

The latest figures available on immigration are those for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911. Of the 878,587 immigrant aliens who landed at Ellis Island during the year referred to there were 182,273 of fourteen years or over who could not read or write.

As the proposed law fixed the exclusion limit two years higher, the number of illiterates to be excluded would have been somewhat less than the figures given for the lower limit.

Taking the figures of the year referred to, the great bulk of those who could not read came from Italy—nearly 100,000. Hebrews came next, 16,757, with Russians third, with nearly 15,000 illiterates. Mexicans and Lithuanians each sent about 8,000 who could not read. Among the races which sent as many as 10,000 immigrants, Scandinavians sent the smallest number of illiterates—84, out of a total of nearly 46,000. Scotland sent 109, England 353, and Ireland 434. It will thus be seen the new exclusion law would have hit the Italians especially, and that the remainder of those excluded—considerably less than half, judging by the year referred to—would be scattered among a number of other nationalities.—Nashville Tennessean.
