Don't fail to look up the change of ad. for Ellis-Stone and Co., of Durham. They are strictly in it when it comes to giving you the best and most fashionable in ladies dress goods. See them.

Be sure your sins will find you out, is an old saying, and thought by some infallible. It is not all ways true, the pity, but when it does turn on the calcium glare, it makes things look mighty plain.

There are some impertinent colored kids that hang around in front of the colored restaurant that seem to be hankering for the law to teach them some lessons in good manners, and the law should not be slow in accommodating them.

Strictly a ladies store is what Mr. C. H. Dorsett of Greensboro keeps, and he never disappoints them when they are seeking something nice to wear, or something to make home comfortable. It will be to your interest to see him.

While the mass meeting was considering questions necessary to the interest of Mebane Monday night, it seems to us one very important was the sanitary condition of our town. It is one of the questions that should have been seriously looked after.

Doctor J. D. Huffam, an able Baptist divine, and a citizen of Mebane received last week as a present a deed from General Julian Carr of Durham for a nice building lot 109 x 200 feet on Fifth street. It is well located, and adjoins one belonging to Mr. Singleton, a son-in-law of Dr. Huffam. Dr. Huffam is proud of his present.

People who receive bills from the Leader ought to remit, or give some reason why. The debt to an honest man is as just as any other.

Ring out the darkness of the land. —Tennyson.

A MASS MEETING

The Citizens of Mebane Resolves

There was a mass meeting held in the town hall Monday night to consider measures for the betterment of Mebane. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Shaw in a few words, Mr. Louis Puryear was then asked to preside as chairman, Mr. U. S. Ray acting as secretary. Upon Mr. Puryear taking the chair, Rev. Mr. Noblett arose, and made a motion that a committee of five be appointed to draft resolutions for the meeting to act upon. The chairman appointed Dr. W. E. Swain, H. E. Wilkinson, E. Y. Ferrell, A. F. Lamberth and J. L. Amick. They at once retired, to draft resolutions. In their absence Dr. J. D. Huffam was called upon for a talk and responded in his usual felicitous manner. Upon the committees returning, the resolutions, were read as follows:

Whereas numerous evils seem to be creeping into our community, the sacredness of the Sabbath disregarded and whereas it is believed that if these and kindred evils are allowed to continue, unchallenged that the results will be to hurt the best there is in our community, and whereas our town has heretofore borne the reputation of being a good moral place, and we being desirous of perpetuating this good name,

Resolved First that the town authorities be urged to employ every proper means for the rigid enforcement of the law against the illegal, or any other disposition of vinous, or malt liquors, and that the citizens of the town pledge ourselves to support and sustain them in the execution of the law.

Resolved Second that all forms of gambling be condemned, meaning pool rooms, ten pin alleys and all such like gaming devices when any stake is up, or where the looser pays the score.

Resolved Third, that but one drug store be opened on Sunday, and that only between the hours of 8:30 to 10 a. m. and from 4:00 to 5:30 p. m. and then only to fill prescription for medicine needed, and that no cigars, cold drinks, tobacco or ice cream be disposed, and no person be allowed to wait on them selves. That congregating on corners, or elsewhere on the Sabbath be discouraged, and all possible means be employed to get people to attend divine services, and Sunday school.

Resolved Four That, no restaurant cafe or lunch counter be permitted opened on Sunday except during the hours of 6:30 to 8 a. m. from 12:30 to 2 p. m. and from 5:30 to 7:00 p. m. and meals served only to those dependent upon the same.

Resolved Five that gossiping, tattling, back biting, maligning and such like evils be strenuously discouraged, and that all good citizens are hereby requested to frown upon the same.

A number of short talks were made during the progress of the meeting by W. E. White, Ed Ferrell, Dr. Huffam, Dr. W. E. Swain and Rev. F. M. Hawley.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted. The meeting then adjourned.

The Deadly Pistol

Lawrenceburg Union
At last judges and attorneys general in this state are waking up and realizing the enormity of the frequent use of the deadly pistol. Hardly a day passes that some person is sent to a premature grave by a man or woman with a weapon of this kind. If we had a little more law enforcement along this line such a horrible state of affairs would soon come to an end. There has been entirely too much leniency shown towards those who violate the act forbidding the carrying of concealed weapons, and more vigorous prosecution must be conducted if the good name of our state is to be preserved.

Thirty-one employees of the weather bureau were fired or suspended for alleged political activity. —News item. Maybe that accounts for the sudden drop of 31 degrees in the temperature.

Big Failure in Reidsville

In the United States court Monday Judge James E. Boyd signed orders placing Robert Harris and Brother, big tobacco manufacturers, and J. H. Walker and company, engaged in the business of milling flour, sawing lumber and manufacturing boxes, both of Reidsville, in the hands of a temporary receiver. The liabilities of the former company are believed to be over $375,000 while the liabilities of the latter company are believed to be over $150,000 with assets not more than $75,000.

Miss Alma Lloyd is with her sister Miss Estelle who has typhoid fever and is with her brother at Spener, we are pleased to learn that she is still improving.

Mrs. D. F. Crawford has a rocker which was made many days ago. This chair was made by a Mr. McDaniel, the great, great grandfather of the present owners. This chair was made before the Revolution, as this old chair maker laid down his life as a sacrifice for our freedom in that great struggle with the mother country. This chair, which has descended through five generations, with some repair may be used five generations hence by some one, and then it will be getting just a little "out of date."

The busiest time of the year with the farmer is now here and he is now in a strut.

Germany is waiting to see the new tariff law before deciding on participation in the Panama exposition. Really, don't cherknow, the people of this country are vastly more interested in the reduction of the cost of living than in what nations take part in an exposition on the Pacific coast.

Poor Idial.

Emily Wilding Davison, the first martyr to the militant efforts of women to obtain the suffrage, died Sunday at the Epon hospital at London as the result of a fracture of the skull sustained in an attempt to stop the king's horse Anmer, during the running of the derby on Wednesday last. Only the matron of the hospital and two nurses were present at the death. Miss Davison's relatives having left the building, when told that there was no hope of her consciousness. A few moments before her death two comrades draped the screen surrounding the cot with the fateful colors of the Women's Social and Political union which she wore when she made her sensational attempt to interfere with the great classic of the British turf.

Miss Davison had evidently expected to get in the track at Sattenham corner in time to intercept and shatter the field, but was detained a moment by a spectator, who tried to restrain her. She reached the track in time to be struck by the king's horse which was running in the rack.

Home Wreckers.

That person who first discovered the beauty, simplicity, and happiness of perfect home life must have been inspired from on high, must have had a vision of heaven, and catching its first gleam and glory, sought to establish perfect happiness here. God only knows the full import in perfect bliss for here and hereafter of real and true home life to all who participate in its pleasures. A man with a true, loving, loyal wife, with affectionate obedient children, feels the thrill of heaven permeating his soul, whether he ever reaches the great beyond, that supernatural home of God, or not, he has had a taste of heaven here.

But oh mercy, when man has lived a while in this elysian garden, this earthly paradise, and then discovers the trail of the serpent of lust across his heart stone, finds it has injected its poison into the heart of his wife, and that home once so happy to him is seen crumbling in to wreck, and ruin, loves light gone out, distrust, and blight waving their blue torches from the infernal region in every crevice and cranny of that once happy spot. Is there any language in any tongue ever created that can correctly picture, and depict the horrible torture that tugs at his heart strings, that chokes with grief the pure air he strives to breathe? Pity, yes pity the poor wretch, but what is your pity worth to a heart when loves light has been stifled out when the tenderest impulses that ever stirred mortal mind has been torn and broken thread by thread, and life is left one dark bleak and blasted sahara.

What of him who has wrought this ruin, pardon us, the language we would use to express our loathing, and disgust for such a character perhaps had better not go in print, and then there are another set of wretches for whom we feel a contempt, it is the crowd of human cultures that not only fail in sympathy for these innocent sufferers but the dirty mouthed things go around with a filthy lie in their mouths to hurt the unfortunates, to create prejudice, and try to disparage and wrong, such persons in public esteem, Let them be children, or old men. The character who would do this are vile vicious human vipers.

Consult duty, not events.—Anneley.

Loan your $1,000 at 10 per cent; and in 1,000 years you will have a sum of money which, if paid in silver, would equal to the total mass of the earth and the moon combined. It is just as fair for one as for another.

Mebane Wants You

Mebane wants you, it wants you because it believes it can serve you well, and it believes you can be of service to Mebane. Mebane has entered an era of prosperity, and is rapidly growing. Mebane is a town situated on the Southern Railway nearly midway between Durham and Greensboro, in the extreme eastern edge of Alamance County, near the border line of Orange. Mebanes legitimate field of commercial enterprise extends forty miles north to the first railroad, it extends an equal distance South, before it reach railroad communication. Mebane is peculiarly situated to attract the leaf tobacco trade from that vast section embracing Northern Alamance, Caswell, Orange, and Person Counties, in which has grown some of the best leaf tobacco in the state. North and South lies a vast fertile section awaiting thorough development.

Tobacco, wheat, corn, oats, and the grasses grow prolific to the south corn cotton, wheat, Rye and all kinds of vegetables are cultivated with great profit. The soil is a rich clay loam.

Mebane has two large leaf tobacco warehouses, and has been doubling her sales each year since their establishment four years ago. In the past four years Mebane has nearly doubled her population. In that time she has built more than seven miles of asphalt side walk paving, built ten brick stores, over 100 residences, two large tobacco warehouses, and has contract for a street and resident electric light plant to be installed by August 1st. Mebane has a large brick graded school building. The greatest portion of this has been done in the past four years. What will four more years bring in the thrift and progress of this town. Prophesying the future by the past, and an investment here would equal gold digging in the Klondike. Not for effect, but for a fact, Mebane is extremely healthy. When the survey was being made for the old North Carolina railroad between Goldsboro and Greensboro it was learned that Mebane was the highest point between these two places on the line. In the hottest days of summer the nights are always cool for sleep. The drinking water here is obtained from wells dug through strata of hard red clay, and rock from fifty to sixty feet deep, the purest it is possible to obtain. Those giving reasonable consideration to the laws of health here, have seldom cause for a physician. Mebane has a great future, nothing but the unwise use of her opportunities could thwart it. Wont you come and enjoy the unfolding of her destiny. Mebane wants you it is calling for you.

North Carolina Woman Awarded $100 Prize

Mrs. Metta Folger Townsend of Greensboro has been awarded a prize of $100 by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage for her essay submitted in a competitive contest.

Mrs. Townsend wrote, "I believe that the best element of our home keepers and mothers would be slower to use the ballot than would the riffraff of society. I fear especially the vote of 'red-light district.'"

"It is next to impossible to retrace steps of such importance and we ought to watch keenly this tendency to extend the suffrage.

"There is no indication that woman suffrage is successful. New Zealand, where the women vote, has defeated prohibition by 50,000. Norway's divorce rate has quintupled in a few years. Colorado, with her years of woman suffrage, defeats prohibition, while West Virginia without it, carries it by an enormous majority.

"I oppose a movement which weakens the modesty of women. I protest against the spectacular methods by which the suffragette calls attention to herself and I assert that she fails lamentably in patriotism when she arrays sex against sex."

Gets in the Post Office at Kernersville.

A number of yegman were working with their tools and explosive on the safe in the United States postoffice at Kernersville, a small place 18 miles northwest of Greensboro on the Winston-Salem branch of the Southern railway Sunday morning.

The burglars upon blowing open the safe secured $1,263 in stamps and $50 in cash. The stamps ranged in denomination from the 1's to the 25's, the latter of which is the highest of the parcel post denomination. The theft was discovered Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock when the postmaster went to the post-office.

JACK JOHNSON GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE; FINED

Negro Pugilist Must go to Penitentiary for Year and a Day and Pay a Fine of $1,000.

Jack Johnson, negro heavyweight champion, has been sentenced to one year and one day in the state penitentiary at Joliet and fined $1,000 for violation of the Mann "white slave" act.

Sentence was pronounced on Johnson after Federal Judge Carpenter had denied a motion for a new trial. Johnson obtained two weeks' time in which to prepare a writ of error and the bond of $30,000 on which he has been at liberty since his conviction was allowed to stand.

Half a dozen deputy United States marshals, who had grouped themselves about Johnson in anticipation of resistance when the prison sentence was given, left the room when Judge Carpenter announced that the fighter would continue temporarily at liberty.

The sentence to the state penitentiary is owing to the crowded condition of the federal prison at Leavenworth. Johnson left the courtroom declaring he would not give up his fight at liberty.

Where is The Farmers' Lobbyist.

In reading the accounts of the passing of the new tariff bill by Congress, which is now going on, we see mention of a great number of lobbyist from the different manufacturing industries of the country, but no where have we seen where there is any one representing the interest of the farmers before Congress.—Blackstone Courier.

The Courier is right in conjecturing that the great body of the agriculturists of the country are at home attending to their spring plowing and seeding, instead of thronging the legislative corridors at Washington and besieging the lawmakers to so adjust taxation as to discriminate in their favor. Their confidence that they will be fairly looked after is, perhaps, well founded, as it rests on the fact that they compose a controlling majority of the constituencies on whose good will the seats of a majority of the Congressmen depend. Besides this, the eyes of the masses of farmers have at last been opened to the truth that duties nominally protective on those natural products of which this country exports large quantities and imports little or none, have really no effect whatever on prices, for these are fixed by the condition of the world's supply in the ultimate markets abroad. Except in cases of domestic corners, or interruptions of commercial intercourse caused by war, the prices of wheat and cotton in this country are fixed in Liverpool and are regulated by the general relation of demand to the aggregate crop of all exporting countries.—Columbia State.

A Mountain Hail Storm

Last Thursday particles of ice as large as a hen egg fell for several minutes stripping trees of their foliage and completely ruining vegetation. Three Mile Creek, near Altamont, was the center of the storm. At this point hail drifted into the roads from off the mountain to a depth of four feet or more, making it impassable, teamsters having to cut across fields to get around. For two hours the rain fell in torrents turning the roads and ravines into raging floods 10 to 20 feet deep. After the waters had receded over 200 rainbow trout, from 6 to 22 inches long, that were carried far from the banks of the creek by the flood—Avery Vim.

The Dukes and Trinity.

Again the sons of Washington Duke have sustained the father's traditional loyalty to the cause of education in North Carolina. They have come to the rescue of Trinity and made possible the $1,000,000 endowment by which that institution's field of usefulness is greatly extended. The Dukes have made Trinity the most richly endowed college in the South. The late Washington Duke started this work many years ago and strangely enough had to fight his way to each successive gift of money. Opposition to the Duke money however, has ceased to be a disturbing element and the gifts are being received in the light of reason and in the spirit of the original Duke intention. Up to this week, the gifts of the Duke family to the promotion of the usefulness of Trinity had been more than $2,000,000. The public has been a long time in coming to a just appreciation of the value of the Duke friendship. They are captains of education whose work will for all time reflect honor and glory on the State.—Charlotte Observer.
