Death of Rev. W. D. Fogleman.

Rev. W. D. Fogleman, of the Methodist Protestant Church, died at the home of his daughter Mrs. Henry Nicholson Saturday afternoon November 24th.

He had been in declining health for about one year, having taken sick in November 1912. He had just been assigned the pastorate of the Haw River Circuit, when his health became impaired but after a month, resumed his duties as pastor, finally having to give it up on account of the disease, Diabetes, from which he died.

Rev. Mr. Fogleman was 55 years old, born in Guilford County Jan. 25th, 1858 and started preaching nineteen years ago in 1874. His first charge was Gastonia, N. C., where he served 5 years, for 3 years, then to Mebane for 5 years, Spring Church, Va. 3 years, Liberty, N. C., 1 year, Asheville, N. C., 1 year and lastly the Haw River Circuit.

When he came to Mebane, the Circuit was known as Orange, he built the Mebane church and parsonage and a church at Efland, making the Circuit too large for one minister to handle, so the Orange Circuit was divided into two, known as Orange and Mebane Circuits. His efforts for good were untiring and his wonderful influence and lovable character will ever be remembered by all who knew him.

Dr. W. E. Swain, assisted by Dr. J. S. McCulloch of Greensboro, Editor of the Methodist Protestant Herald. Rev. C. A. Cecil, Pres. M. P. Conference, and Rev. R. C. Stubbins, conducted the funeral services at the Mebane M. P. Church Sunday afternoon. Each of these ministers made beautiful short talks on the life and character of this good man, also Dr. N. D. York and Mr. J. S. Amick, spoke of the influence for good that Rev. Mr. Fogleman had made upon their lives.

The choir sang tenderly and sweetly, "Asleep on Jesus," "Servant of God Well done" and "Lead Kindly Light." The pall bearers were, Messrs. Will Reeves, Tom Crutchfield, Ed. Wilkerson, Ben Warren, A. F. Lambeth and J. L. Amick.

The remains were laid to rest in Hebron M. P. Church cemetery. The deceased leaves, a wife, one daughter, Mrs. Henry Nicholson of Mebane, a mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Fogleman, four brothers, Riley, John, Cicero and David Fogleman, and one sister Mrs. Nora May, all of Guilford County.

Mebane, R. F. D. 5

Well Thanksgiving is passed and Christmas will soon be here, guess everybody is looking for Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shanklin spent Sunday at Mr. J. L. Pool.

There was a very good crowd at Prayer meeting Sunday P. M. if it was bad weather.

Mr. Clarence Miles and sister Miss Lula spent Saturday P. M. in Mebane.

It looked like Roy Snitter had more than his part Sunday P. M. as he had four on his buggy, poor mule, ask Miss Lizzie Perry how she likes to drive his mule.

Papa girl.

With eggs quoted at seventy-five cents a dozen in New York, it is altogether pertinent to inquire what has become of the Canadian hen fruit which we have for years been assured would flood the American market immediately upon the removal or reduction of the tariff duty? Under the Underwood-Simmons measure, which has now been the law of the land for several weeks, eggs are on the free list.

Efland Items

Misses Annie Jordan and Lucy Pittard went up to Greensboro Friday night to visit Rev. Rankins family, they also visited Mrs. F. R. Brittain and attended services at the First Baptist Church Sunday and returned home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Pearl Efland is teaching in her sister Miss Sallies place near Chapel Hill this week. Miss Sallie is at home suffering with her eyes.

Mr. Gattis Horner went down to Hillsboro Saturday afternoon on business.

Early Sunday morning as Master Clyde Sykes was going up the railroad West of the Depot at Efland he found just opposite of Mr. J. L. Eflands residence right beside the track what proved to be a dead colored man by the name of Jack Roberson, nicknamed "Happy Jack," he was one of the Good Roads hands and came here from Norfolk, Va. It is supposed that he tried to catch the 5 o'clock passenger train going East Saturday night and in some way was thrown and killed by the fast moving train. His remains were interred in the grave yard at the County Home Sunday afternoon.

Your Satisfaction Our Profit.

If we do not satisfy you, you would not refer others to us. If others did not come to us, we would not be making good. We would not have been in the business over ten years. When we make a pair glasses we do it so well and so carefully that the service we render is worth more than the price you pay for it. "The little bit more" is what makes you send others to us. DR. N. ROSENSTEIN, the old reliable eye specialist of Durham will be in Mebane Friday the 5th, stopping at the Mecca Drug store, for the purpose of examining eyes and fitting glasses. If your eyes needs glasses, Don't fail to see him.

It cost $125,000 to impeach Salzer, and the pay for the lawyers ought to come from the bunch of fellows who saw to it that he was put out. They certainly did the state no good in ousting the Governor.

Never Believed It Did

(From The Durham Herald.) It may be that a lobby was on hand in Raleigh, yet it does not necessarily follow that it influenced legislation. But there is a strong presumption that it did.

Virginia's Creed.

Virginia cities that have for years reaped a harvest in dealing with North Carolina merchants are opposing the efforts of our state to get a reduction in freight rates. By reason of unjust discrimination these Virginia towns have grown prosperous off of us and now that they see a change for reversing the situation to a small extent they are up in arms. If we had a freight rate on an equality with Virginia towns the cities of North Carolina would prosper to a larger extent and our products would move to the world with more profit to the producer. The Virginia cities are not very generous to North Carolina and should not be encouraged too much by North Carolina buyers.—Sailsbury Post.

Brunswick Stew

On December 6, at half-past four, Piney Mt School will throw open its door for an old time festival—such as ne'er has been before. Come young, come old with faces bold, and do not your money withhold from "The Brunswick Stew."

Bess

Give Woman a fair Show.

Is it right and just, from any standpoint, to protect persons who commit disgraceful acts, and by so doing, condone and defend wrong? Why is it that there are always some who are ready to defend and befriend a man, who is dishonorable and low enough, to grossly insult a defenseless woman. Let them consider that there is a just punishment for such wicked "protection." A man expects and demands protection and justice from the public a woman asks just exactly the same, but does she always get it?

It is not a matter of chivalry, nowadays we haven't time for the superfluous courtesies and attentions of olden times, it is only a matter of justice and common decency. The law offers just this protection to any man, why not a woman?

Is it reasonable and equitable to think that any respectable woman would dare accuse a man of felonious insults, and by so doing, drag her name and person before the gaze and curiosity of the public, unless she was justified in doing so? Then again if she timely refrains from publicity, she puts herself in a position to be offered an other insult by the same man at some future time, then the public would have no mercy on her, it would point an accusing finger at her. She has got to come forward and ask protection, that right, and she should have it.

There are plenty of people who quietly think about the right protection but that is not sufficient, we need your good experience.

In this day of universal Brotherhood and fast approaching Sisterhood, let us not forget in protecting and defending our brothers and sisters to conscientiously stand by the right. If we defend wrong, we encourage it to spread if we protect the right, we not only do our duty but contribute greatly to the world's good advancement.

"A woman."

Must Risk Life to Be In Fashion.

(New York Sun.)

To be truly fashionable this winter you must be prepared to risk both life and limb by exposure. As if the slit skirt were inadequate to reveal sufficiently your nether limbs the slit stockings has been put forward to overcome any such deficiency. Slashed up the side to the height of your knee and airily laced with a silk cord finished with tassels it is dubbed the sailor stocking, possibly because it opens up the way to see.

With blouses mere films of tulle cut low necked almost to the waist-line, petticoats taboo, the velvet wraps cut out also in the neck and sporting colors of fur only along the back of the shoulders lovely woman is sure to have a sweet time in a snow storm. Doctors are all simply enthused over the winter styles and as for the undertakers, well, they fret.

How It's Made.

The L. & M. Semi-Mixed Real Paint is a pure paint. One thousand pounds of pure White Lead, Zinc and Linseed Oil are put together in an immense mixer; then large mills grind it, and machines fill it into cans ready for market. But the user adds three quarts more Linseed Oil to each gallon to make 1 3/4 gallons of Real Pure Paint for $1.40 per gallon. It is the very highest quality paint. Sold by Mebane Supply Co.

A Cemetery Needed.

At a Meeting of the Officers of the Mebane Presbyterian Church on November 23, it was ordered that the Clerk of the Session be instructed to write the other Churches, also the Mayor of the Town, that the present cemetery, the property of the Presbyterian Church which has heretofore been gladly allowed the free use of to the community, and to the other congregations, now has but very little more space left for burial purposes, as every one, knowing the conditions, realizes; further that the time is now at hand, that there is now an opportunity, for the town to procure land for a cemetery; further that the Board of Commissioners be requested to call a Public meeting for the discussion of ways and means of providing for a City cemetery.

J. B. White,

Clerk of The Session,
Mebane Presbyterian Church.

At The Mebane House Wed, Dec. 17th.

Dr. S. Rapport, Specialist in fitting glasses, will be at Mebane at the Mebane House, Wed. Dec. 17th, for one day only. Let him supply you with spectacles or eyeglasses. The proper GLASSES will prevent future trouble and relieve the present strain in your eyes.

The Going of The Smiths.

(Kansas City Star.)

Among the United States senators whose terms expire next year are Smith of South Carolina, Smith of Georgia, Smith of Maryland, and Smith of Arizona. Their departure would knock the rollcall into smithereens.

Chapel Hill News.

The activities of the Community Club of Chapel Hill are branching in sundry directions looking to the civic betterment of the village and its surrounding rural communities. Subscriptions are being raised for the equipping and furnishing of a so called "rest room" for women from the country that come to Chapel Hill for a day's shopping or maybe here for a day's pleasure. The room being furnished is to amply accommodate the daily influx of women shoppers from the rural communities and as implied by its homely name is to be a rest room as well as a community home for the several vicinities of the county. Another venture, of recent date, as advanced by the Community Club, is the concentrating of interest for the organization of a tomato canning club. At the initial meeting of the movement Mrs. McKimmon, of Raleigh, State organizer of canning clubs, presented the claims of this wide-spread idea for the banding together of girls into a tomato canning organization.

R. T. Wyche, president of the Story Tellers' League of America, an alumnus of the University, has within the past few weeks delivered a series of lectures in North Carolina, including Chapel Hill in his itinerary. Folk lore in the South as depicted by Joel Chandler Harris was the theme from which he entertained the University boys. The career of this prince of story tellers is an interesting one to follow from the time that he abandoned the profession of teaching for the love of telling stories, leading to his rapid rise to the presidency of the national story tellers' league.

Dr. C. H. Herty and Prof. Collier Cobb, members of the University faculty, were delegates from North Carolina to the recent session of the national conservation congress, convening in Washington City. The University professors pronounce the meetings as decidedly successful and that telling blows were recorded for the doctrine of the conservation of the country's natural resources.

Excitement prevailed in certain portions of the village some days ago when reports, well verified, came to the ears of the students that a bear had been a visitor to one of the boarding houses. Some of the students accounted for the bear's visit to so highly a civilized community as a mission in search of Thanksgiving turkey.

The glee club of the University is mapping out a five-day trip preceding the Christmas holidays. Raleigh, Goldsboro and Wilson are three of the chief towns that will be visited by the University's musical organization.

With the passing of the 1913 football season, the athletic interests of the University now directs its attention to basketball—a game that is of the pink tea-ish order in contrast to football.

You cannot climb the ladder of success any faster by stepping on the fingers of those you are passing—Anonymous.

There is no policy like politeness, and a good manner is the best thing in the world, either to get one a good name or to supply the want of it.—Bulwer-Lytton.

The West Virginia men who has been sentenced to a year in jail for stealing two eggs hardly need expect that henfruit will be served to him for breakfast more than twice a week during the period of his incarceration.

John Brown

Tennessee and American.

Many times it has been said that "John Brown's body lies moultering in the ground, while his soul goes marching on." Who was the said "John?" If the truth was told, he was a robber and murderer, in Kansas, before going to Virginia to stir up the negroes against the whites. As you will remember, John Brown was captured at Harper's ferry, by Robert E. Lee and J. E. B. Stuart. The one a captain and the other a lieutenant in the United States army. Being turned over to the state authorities. Brown was regularly tried and justly hanged. Henry A. Wise, who was at the time governor of Virginia, received thousands of threatening letters, a number of which he published. Replying to all such letters, he said that he would hang John Brown if it required the life of every man, woman and child in the state to accomplish it.

Brown, under the impression that the negroes would not know how to use guns, shipped into the state carloads of shapointed spikes to be handled by the slaves. These deadly weapons were never used, as intended, because of the fact that the Virginia negroes had been so well trained that they would not associate with "poor white trash," in any enterprise.

Brown was a greatly disappointed man, having hoped for a general uprising of the negroes, but receiving not a single recruit. The negroes who were true to their homes then emphasized their faithfulness during our four-year war. It is well to keep on remembering that the women and children of the south were carefully watched over, while their natural protection were with Lee and Jackson, Stuart and Forrest.

After the hanging of John Brown, four others who accompanied him were hanged, two whites and two negroes. Cook and Coppick were the whites, and Green and Copeland, the negroes. Cook, on the gallows, was frightened, but Coppick acted with much bravery. Coppick encouraged his partner by saying that it would soon be over, and that they would be landed where there was no more trouble Cook was a brother-in-law of the then governor of Indiana, and he was defended on his trial by Dan Voorhees, a famous orator. The wonderful speech of Voorhees made such an impression on Virginians that he was more than once called to defend men accused of great crimes.

Encounters Tough Hill.

After Franklin Studebaker Riley had finished a trip in his Studebaker car from South Bend to Boston and return, he reported that he had met with but one instance of trouble, being compelled to shift gears on one unusually steep hill. This would not have been the case, he said, but for the fact that there was a railroad crossing part way up, which prevented his acquiring the usual momentum.

The State of the Patient.

Dermatologist Clark, diagnostician of legislative leprosy has, been ominously silent for several days as to the state of the patient. The public is left to conjecture as to the reason for this. Has the case gone so far that the patient is beyond the reach even of so eminent a specialist? Or, on the other hand, has the absent treatment proved so efficacious that the afflicted has been discharged from further observation?

Of course, there is still another possible explanation of the silence of the physician of the body politic, but that contingency is so remote as to be practically negligible. We do not believe—we cannot bring ourselves to believe—that, having made such an emphatic pronouncement, the practitioner has decided that, after all, he was mistaken in his diagnosis.—Greensboro News.

Federal prisoners are forced to strip before being shot "so the clothes may not be perforated by bullets." This disposes of the charge that Latin-Americans and thirlfills.

Colored Farmer's Success

(Philadelphia Record.)

One colored farmer in South Carolina started work with a $40 horse. It took him four years to buy a mule for $69 and seven acres of land. He now owns a $40,000 plantation, employs 189 hands, has saved on an average $3,000 a year for twenty-two years, and enjoys such good credit that he has borrowed and paid back as much as $23,000 in one year from his local bank.
