We are glad to note that the Post Master General has wisely decided to make no material changes in the mail carrier system of the country.

The Southern Railway Company had decided to take off a number of their passenger trains including one on the line between Greensboro and Goldsboro, and an number of others. The railway commission will likely insist on a continuance of these trains with perhaps a small exception.

The case of Judge Carter investigated by Solicitor Abernethy will have its round in Raleigh this week. Above and around this mess of malice you will hear the flapping of buzzard wings, see the slimy trail of the human jachal, who blackens with in-unendo, scurrility and schandal, who hints at harm and defames with loud mouthed malice.

The peace question seems to have at last gotten into the dense craniums of some of the German chancelors. A German socialist raised cane in the German reichtag a few days past by denouncing German's system of militarism. It is evident that the few that are not fools in Germany are beginning to see the necessity of some positive action as to how to stop the present war.

A number of people of this country including statesmen, and profound thinkers, and a large class of newspapers are kicking like bay steers about the embargo, the allies have put upon neutral shipping into German ports. They take it that even though Germany is waging the most cruel and brutal war the world has ever known, and many instances upon innocent and indefensible people that the allies would not be warranted in doing what they could to choke off these maneating tigers. A few wealthy importers and rich manufacturers are to be of more consideration to the United States than her millions of helpless and poverty stricken subjects. All of these supplies and munitions of war that the United States sends to Germany only helps to prolong the opportunity for a number of voracious money mad manufacturers to reap millions while intensifying the suffering of a larger and more deperdent class.

The Supreme courts ruling in the Judge Peebles case suits us all right, and it is what we have maintained for years. When a judge is off the bench, and he is not holding court his personal rights, his powers in the premises are the same as other peoples. It has been an old gag that to mention a superior court judges name in a critical or offensive manner was to incur the chance of being held for contempt of the court, we did not believe it. A Judges person is no more sacred than is that of any other person. No Editor will criticize a judge unless there is a reason for it, unless in some respect he has failed to maintain that respect for himself that he should. And some of these old judicial gags have been going around the state acting with a perfect contempt for the ordinary decencies of life, and yet because it was them you must keep hands off, or else be severely persecuted.

We guess Judge Peebles would admit he was drunk some, but not much, what other tribunal is to say how much? There are some judges in North Carolina who seem to not have decency enough to get off the bench, that should be forced off by an indignant public sentiment. We have a contempt for them,

Business is more or less quiet in every line of human endeavor and it but behooves every thinking and loyal citizen to stand closer to his neighbors. In other words we should all stand together. This is no time to send to distance cities to buy what you can buy at home. If it is one dollar or ten dollars that you send off it goes far beyond your reach, and you will never see it again, and the possibilities are that for which you sent it will in no sense prove satisfactory, and much below your expectation indulged in in regard to it, led by the flaring advertisement received. This reference is more especially directed to the mail order houses of Chicago, New York and Baltimore whose dealings are invariable disappointing. Stick to home people so-to-speak. If you can not find what you want in your home town get it as near home as you can. The people who sell to you will be interested in you, and will be amenable for any errors that possible might occur.

The Norfolk Pilot contains on its Editorial page in Saturdays last issue a picture of the cave dwellers in the early ages. It shows a number of men skinned with unkempt hair, and whiskers with each a club. One holds in his hand a rude staff from the top of which is appended some animal skin upon which is printed the letters "all is fair in love and war." The question is asked at the top of this picture. Is civilization reverting to the code of the cave man?

While more intelligence is manifested in the mad methods of human destruction, of wanton waste, no more feeling, or sympathy is manifested than when a man in the early years of the world hammered his brothers brains out with a wooden club. It was then a survival of the fittest in brute force. Germany is operating her part of the present war on the same principal.

The maimed hands and arms of helpless children and women of Belgium speak silently but eloquently of the cruelties, and brutalities of German soldiers, as does the slacked ashes of their burned homes, not alone in Belgium but in Poland, where it is said the Germans have burned a thousand villages in a spirit of wanton brutality. It is to be hoped that if a certain contingent of the American people do push this country into war with England, that the crowd responsible may be forced to the front, may have to go out with the first battleship, Hurst of the New York Journal, and the World Editor, and the Editor of the Washington Post should be at the front.

Some paper has remarked that a tramp printer from Mebane Leader had stopped in Hillsboro a few days past and borrowed two dollars and skipped away with the money. Under the present management of the Leader it has never had a tramp printer in its services, both of the printers it is working have money in the bank, several hundred dollars. Good security might secure the loan of it, but that is the only kind.

She Wanted a Picture

"I want a picture," the shy little girl informed the clerk. "What sort of a picture?" "I don't know," coloring and hesitating, "but it's to go on a letter." "Oh, a postage stamp," the clerk smiled, supplying her need. "That's what I said; a picture to go on a letter," she smiled back. -Chicago Herald.

To the Housewife.

Madam, if your husband is like most men he expects you to look after the health of yourself and children. Coughs and colds are the most common of the minor ailments and are most likely to lead to serious diseases. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when it has a cold. If you will inquire into the merits of the various remedies that are recommended for coughs and colds, you will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands high in the estimate of people who use it. It is prompt and effectual, pleasant and safe to take, which are qualities especially to be desired when a medicine is intended for children. For sale by Mebane Drug Company.

Awful Thought. Frances has been taught to use only the choicest English colloquialisms and all other departures from the linguistic straight and narrow way meeting with serious disapproval. One day Frances gestured to play near some workmen, but was refused permission on the ground that they sometimes used bad language. "What do you suppose they say, mamma?" inquired the diminutive daughter of Eve, all eager interest. "Oh, I couldn't tell you," was the mother's natural rejoinder. "Just bad words." "Mother," whispered Frances after a period of self-communing, "do you suppose they say 'ain't'?"
