IREDELL BOY IN THE NAVY

H. C. Sherrill on a Ship Taken From the Germans—Something of Life in the Navy

H. C. Sherrill in Statesville Landmark

As I have to write to have my address changed again, I will try to tell a little of naval life. A there are... interesting to some... and navy life are different. In the army it is all military training. In the navy it is both military and vocational. Every man, when he comes in is given training in some special line of duty. The army has a dozen or more schools, besides the thriving camps for seamen. The seaman must know many things besides how to handle a gun. There are over a hundred different trades in the navy and every man must know his trade. A battleship is one great machine and it takes men of experience to man them, which is true of all ships even to the little submarine. You would be surprised at the machinery it takes to run one. When one who is not acquainted with ships reads of one costing $20,000,000, he wonders why it costs so much. If he could take a look at some of the latest battleships he would begin to see. Think of how much a dozen guns would cost—guns 63 feet long and that weigh half a million pounds, fire a shell weighing 1,400 lbs., that takes a charge of 375 lbs. of powder; think of the engines and boilers it takes to drive a 34,000-ton ship at the rate of 40 miles per hour and you will see where your Uncle's money goes. I will try to tell a little of the ship I am on at present. It is one of the German merchant ships the government took over at the beginning of our war with Germany. It is the Vaterland. You have all read or heard of it as being the largest, finest ship afloat. It is 950 feet long, 100 feet wide and has 13 decks, nine above water. The crew's nest, or lookout, is 195 feet from the water and yet it lacks 30 feet of reaching the top of the mast. This ship will carry 3,500 passengers and has every convenience and luxury that can be thought of—winter garden, dancing hall, magnificent dining saloons, restaurant, smoking rooms; a large swimming pool with marble trimmings; fine paintings, electric elevators, fire and police alarms and many other things that go to make a ship complete. The propelling engines are over 60,000 horse power. Including anchor engines, electric motors, etc., the total is over 90,000 horse power. The vessel has four propellers with shafts 18 inches in diameter. It takes 48 boilers to furnish steam and a crew of nearly 1,200 men. There are many more large German liners we have taken over, and if the war does nothing else it will give us a merchant marine, of which we were badly in need. We will also have an army and navy of which we will not be ashamed. We are tied up in Hoboken, N. J., just across the river from New York. I like New York and Brooklyn fine and there is nothing like Coney Island the great amusement place. Hope this will continue to be my home port. Why don't some of the Ireddell boys join the navy? Are they afraid of water? Come on in, boys! I have had eight months of it and like it fine. The "chow," as the food is called, is good and the pay is reasonable. The work is light, yet the life will make a man of you! It is fun to see a "gob" (that is what you are called when you first come in) try to wear a sailor's uniform. It takes a month or two to learn how to wear one. But don't let that bluff any one, for you can learn anything if given time, and Uncle Sam will give you four years.

TURNING FROM LITERARY AND PROFESSIONAL TO BUSINESS COLLEGE EDUCATION.

Discriminating young people will turn this year from the literary and professional courses to the practical, usable business training, and professional courses to the business training, given only in the better class of Business Colleges. Business men are not asking prospective employees if they know Algebra, Latin, Mythology, Botany, Trigonometry, Ancient History and Foot Ball—they want business young people—Bookkeepers, Stenographers, Private Secretaries and Clerks—young people who can do something practical in a business office. To meet the present and coming demand, the wants 1,000 ambitious young men and women to enter that institution September 3rd. With an attendance of 500 students last year, this institution was unable to fill one-half the applications received from business men for Bookkeepers, Stenographers, Secretaries and Clerks. Every graduate and ten times as many under-graduates were placed in positions.

What must be expected the coming year? The Government with its rapidly growing Departments will need thousands of young men and women for office positions. The Railroads have for some time had more freight than they could carry, and it is increasing. Their office forces are decidedly inadequate, and many roads are using women in their shops. Banks, Coal Companies, Corporations and private industries will need more Stenographers, Bookkeepers, Secretaries and Clerks. Business is increasing everywhere. Trained young men and women will be needed in large numbers as conscription progresses. Now is certainly your opportunity.

Fall Session Opens September Third

Indications point to an unusually large enrollment in the better class of Business Colleges. We are expecting a double enrollment this year. Reservations are being made in the National now and to insure accommodation, applications should be sent in immediately.

Tuition payable monthly or liberal discount on term scholarships. No notes to sign—no risks to run.

More Cotton in Freight

Cars in Future.

New York, Sept. 2.—An order prohibiting the shipping of cotton in quantities less than 6 bales a car and requiring as many more to be loaded as the size of the car will permit, has been issued by the railroads' war board, has been issued by the railroads' war board, has been issued by the railroads' war board, here tonight. Notice has been sent to buyers of cotton with a request that they place orders on a basis of not less than 65 bales or multiples thereof. The movement of the cotton crop, which is scheduled to begin this fall at a time when "a combination of government and commercial business will be bringing tremendous pressure to bear upon the railroads," was given as the reason for the order in a statement issued by Fairfax Harrison, chairman of the board.

"In the southwest and Mississippi delta districts, the average car will load 65 bales," the statement said, "consequently buyers are asked to order in multiples of 75 from the southeast districts. "The New England territory will be taxed to the maximum capacity of facilities this fall and the acceptance of freight by the railroads serving the territory north of the Ohio and Potomac river will have to be carefully regulated."

Wilson Takes $10,000 Farm Bonds. Washington, Sept. 2.—President Wilson has invested $10,000 in farm loan bonds. The President recently took $10,000 of the first issue of liberty bonds.

Busy Sinking Merchantmen.

Amsterdam, Sept. 2.—Lieut. Capt. Hans Rose, the submarine commander who, after a 17 day's voyage appeared in German submarine U-53 at Newport in October, 1916, subsequently returned across the Atlantic, is at present busy sinking merchantmen, according to advices from Berlin. The German semi-official news agency appends to this announcement a note saying that the United States naval authorities considered the U-53's double trip so improbable that experts declared in Congress in February, 1917, that the submarine was unmistakably accompanied by a provisioning ship which had remained undiscovered. "This incredulity of the Americans," adds the agency, "is the more comprehensible, seeing that it had to be admitted by the American naval authorities on the same occasion that the best performance of an American submarine at the time covered only 10 days."

WILSON NOTE GREATLY IMPRESSING GERMANS

London, Sept. 3.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says: "According to reliable information, President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict's peace proposal made a profound impression in political circles in Germany. Matthias Erzberger, member of the clerical center of the reichstag, who believes he is backed by a majority of the members of the reichstag, is expected at the next sitting of the main committee of that body to demand legislation for the immediate introduction of a government responsible to the reichstag and the abandonment by the government of its plea of inability to act regarding Absace-Lorraine, to the extent of proposing that the decision regarding the allegiance of these territories shall be left to their inhabitants. It is expected that he will advocate general disarmament after the war. "It is considered possible that the reichstag will be dissolved soon after its reassembles and that general elections will be held. "Of noteworthy interest is the statement of Dr. Eduard Davis, socialist leader of reichstag, in yesterday's Vorwaerts, the German socialist organ. Dr. Davis maintains that the reichstag has constitutional means of enforcing its will, as no government can continue to rule against its veto. He says that new elections, in which the soldiers at the front would participate, would clearly show the ship of state must be steered. He says he confidently expects a crushing defeat of the pan-Germans and annexationists."
