Bandits Free Two Captives, One American

Shanghai, China, June 1.—Major Robert A. Allen, of the United States army, and W. Smith of Manchester, England, who were captured by bandits May 6, have been released, according to advices received here. A brief message from Taso Chwang telling of the release of Major Allen and Mr. Smith added that "negotiations are going on favorably."

Major Allen, who is attached to the United States army medical corps at Manila, was on a vacation leave in China with his wife and young son, Robert, Jr., when all were kidnapped in the raid on the Shanghai-Peking Express near Suchow May 6.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Pinger, wife of Major Rowland W. Pinger, of the army ordnance corps, Manila, were released later by the bandits and some days afterward their sons, Robert Allen, Jr., and Rowland Pinger, Jr., also were freed.

W. Smith, the Englishman, who is reported as having regained his liberty is a man well over sixty. He was touring the Far East for his health when he was kidnapped. At first Smith was reported to be taking his experiences in the outlaw stronghold as an entertaining adventure, but later his companions saw signs of failing health and a few days ago the brigands promised that he would be freed.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas intelligence of the death of the sister of our good friend and brother, Rev. Eugene Olive, has come to us and we have been deeply affected by this sorrow which has come into the life of our fellow townsman, We, the Assembly of men gathered in religious exercises at the City Hall, in Mount Airy, N. C., on this Sabbath afternoon, May 20th., extend to Bro. Olive our deep sympathy in this, his sore bereavement.

We would, if we can, help him in bearing this grief, and share with him his sorrow.

May the tenderness, Brother Olive, of the Saviour's love, whose you are and whom you serve, bear you up and be strength to you and your bereaved family.

We direct that a copy of this assurance of sympathy be transmitted to Brother Olive and that a copy be furnished the Mount Airy News for publication, believing that all who read will join us in offering prayer that God may be very near in comforting our brother and his loved ones who mourn with him in this affliction.

By the action of the Congregation in the City Hall assembled.

CHAUTAQUA LECTURER, HARDING AND BEN GREY

Charles R. Taggart relates an interesting reminiscence of his meeting, years ago, with an actor-manager and a certain editor. It was in the "pre-circuit Chautauqua" era when there frequently occurred gaps of two or three days between engagements. During one of these gaps Mr. Taggart found himself in a mid-west town, where an independent Chautauqua was in progress. Together with the actor-manager of the play which was appearing on the Chautauqua, and the editor of the local paper, Mr. Taggart was a dinner guest at the home of a local physician. It proved to be a memorable dinner. The actor-manager told interesting tales of his theatrical tours in England, among them an account of his appearance at the home of John Ruskin. The editor recalled fascinating incidents of a recent visit to Scotland. It was an evening that Mr. Taggart now places among his most treasured reminiscences, because the town was Marion, Ohio; the actor-manager Ben Grey, and the editor Warren G. Harding.

The "Old Country Fiddler," Mr. Taggart, is a favorite with the American public. Mr. Taggart is a real Yankee and his dialect is not assumed. He just does his famous felt hat and spectacles, takes his fiddle and chats confidentially about his various adventures in city and country, keeping everybody in a roar of laughter, playing now and then an old-time horripole or jig that sets the nerves a-tingling. Mr. Taggart's "Old Country Fiddler" has reached the ears of the public through the medium of the Victor Talking Machine records, and you will want to hear his stories and tunes from the man himself at Chautauqua.

Save Your Garden

By Using PYROX

"The One Best Spray for Fruits and Vegetables"

KILLS INSECTS

Pyrox controls insects that chew, such as the potato bug and the flea beetle. Pyrox blight, rot, and rust and fungus diseases which usually cause more damage on fruits leaves, so that stunted vines and decreased yields result, even though the insects are killed. Pyrox will not burn if applied at proper strength, but actually invigorates the foliage.

PREVENTS DISEASE

Blight, rot and rust and fungus diseases which usually cause more damage on fruits and vegetables than insects. They disfigure the fruit, spot the leaves and often kill the plant itself. Late blight of potatoes often develops into dry rot of the tubers. Pyrox controls blight.

INVIGORATES FOLIAGE

The copper in Pyrox has a distinct stimulating effect on foliage, causing plants to grow and produce over a longer period. It pays to spray with Pyrox for this reason alone, even where no bugs or blights have appeared.

WHAT IT DOES

It saves labor, because with one operation you can apply both a fungicide and an insecticide. It is easy to use, simply mix with cold water and spray. It goes farther than the ordinary spray; it is so smooth that it passes through the finest nozzle without clogging and covers more surface. It gives thorough protection, because the fine mist-like spray covers every part. It gives lasting protection because it sticks like paint and stays on for weeks.
