NOVEL ROAD TO MT. MITCHELL

Tourists Allowed to go up in Forenoon and Back in Afternoon—Road is Narrow and This Avoids Wrecks

The following interesting account of the road to Mount Mitchell, in Western North Carolina, is taken from Popular Mechanics:

One-way traffic on an 18-mile stretch of road is the innovation which has apparently solved the safety problem on a much-traveled mountain thoroughfare, near Asheville, N. C. Too narrow for vehicles to pass, and abounding in sharp curves, the road would present many elements of danger if traffic were permitted to move in both directions at the same time.

A solution was found by restricting the travel to ascending traffic during the morning hours and to descending during the afternoon. That this plan was good was clearly demonstrated by the absence of auto accidents on the road during the tourist season of 1922.

The road on which this traffic problem has been so well solved leads to a point near the summit of Mt. Mitchell, one of the highest peaks east of the Rocky Mountains, 6,711 feet above sea level. In its length of 18 miles the road climbs almost 4,400 feet, giving an average grade of 3 1/2 per cent. To build such a highway for tourist and sight-seeing traffic ordinarily would have involved a prohibitive outlay for construction work.

The roadbed, however, was originally made for a steam railroad used in lumber operations. After the railroad had served its purpose, rails and ties were removed and the road bed converted into a cindersurfaced driveway of easy grade, and with stout bridges where needed. It makes a beautiful mountain ride. At four different places the road crosses the Blue Ridge Mountains, the divide for waters flowing to the Atlantic and the Mississippi.

For ascending the road is open during the summer season from 8:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m., while for descending motorists the hours are 3:30 to 5:30 p. m.

The downward journey may not be undertaken until the gate at the summit is thrown open. As a further safeguard against mishap, a traffic officer starts from the lower gate at one o'clock and travels to the top in a car known as "the trailer" to make sure that descending motorists will encounter no cars which may have been crippled during the upward journey.

If "cripples" are found, the crew of the trailer immediately renders first aid by fixing the engine, or if necessary, by towing the car in. When the trailer arrives and reports the way clear, the gate is opened for descending travel, but never before.

Special Court For Shriners

Washington, May 29.—Shriners who run stout of the law in Washington during Shrine week will have the option of trial before a special "court" of Masons, provided they are arrested on charges involving only misdemeanors.

Nineteen "justices" will compose the "court".

There will be 50 "judge advocates," or special prosecutors, and the clerical force will number 25.

The "court" is organized with the approval of the governing authorities of the District of Columbia and the police in making arrests of Shriners on misdemeanor charges will turn their prisoners over to this "court" which will sit in the national guard armory.

At the district attorney's office it was stated today, however, that where serious cases of disorder occurred those accused of participation would be brought to trial in the regular courts.

THAT KNIFE-LIKE PAIN

Is only One of Nature's Warnings of Weak or Disordered Kidneys.

Have you a lame back, aching day and night? Do you feel sharp pains after stooping? Are the kidneys sore? Is their action irregular? Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the medicine recommended by so many Mt. Airy people. Ask your neighbor. Read this case: Mrs. W. M. Marshall, 167 South St., Mt. Airy, says: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine kidney medicine after what they did for me. I had so much misery in my back that at times, I wouldn't get out to do my work. It seemed as though somebody were sticking a big knife into my back. I became nervous and headaches came on me a great lot. My kidneys didn't act right at all. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and it took about one and a half boxes to cure me of all this trouble. I haven't had any return of it."
