Female Purebreds Showing Increase On Many Farms Scrubs Have Practically Disappeared From Flocks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When farmers adopt purebred strains to head their herds and flocks it is not long before the percentage of purebred females increase notably. This encouraging tendency toward more rapid improvement of live stock has been brought about by the United States Department of Agriculture in the "Better Stock—Better Live Stock" campaign.

Scrubs Disappear.
Of a total of more than 200,000 female animals listed by farmers who have agreed to keep nothing but purebred stock, more than 85 per cent are of pure breeding. On these farms scrubs have practically disappeared. For the larger animals the reports show that only 2.4 per cent of the females are scrubs, and, of course, the males are of pure blood, as that is the basis on which the farms are listed.

The poultry flocks owned by these farmers are particularly well bred, only 1.3 per cent of the female birds being listed as scrubs. More than 60 per cent of a total of 610,000 birds are entered on the list as standard bred. Only very few scrub cows—only 1.1 per cent. Nearly two thirds of them are purebred.

The federal-state effort to improve the live stock and poultry of the country has now brought to a membership campaign that represents nearly a million head of animals and poultry. Farmers who have become members have sent in interesting accounts of their experiences in improving their animals and their bank accounts. Other farmers who are taking part in the work are invited by the department to send in their individual experiences as well as those of community organizations engaged in the improvement of live stock. Definite facts and figures should be included whenever possible.

County School News

The County Board of Education in session Monday, August 28th decided to ask the commissioners to withdraw the order for a special tax election in the Beulah-Oak Grove-Dunbar-Cahland consolidated district, the promoters and friends of this project having reached the conclusion that it would be futile to proceed with the election.

The County Board in joint session with County Commissioners elected a new Welfare Officer in the person of Attorney W. R. Badgett, of Pilot Mountain. Mr. Badgett comes highly recommended and will no doubt prove a worthy successor to the retiring officer, Mr. C. G. Robinson, of White Plains.

The County Board also decided to allow any people desiring to send children to Mount Airy City Schools in the elementary department, to do so by paying the per-capita difference between the cost of operating the schools last year and the apportionment made to them by the County Board. This difference has been determined by the auditor and amounts to 96c per month for each child or $5.98 for the six months. This difference will have to be paid in advance to Supt. Hendren when he signs the permit for each child to attend the city schools. The permit need not, however, be signed until near the end of the first three months of school, as Supt. Hurst will admit these children for the first three months upon payment of the monthly tuition.
E. S. Sandren, Superintendent.

Migration of Negro Brings New Problems

A Washington special says: The newly migrated negro from the South soon must face the acid test of efficiency in comparison with the white man.

In the past the North and West have assimilated, more or less benevolently the normal inflow of the black man, but the flood of the last two years has brought new problems and may result in a crisis within the next three months.

Already it is stated at the department of labor that the shortage of common labor in the industrial centers to which the negro has flocked, is not so acute as it was recently. There is a decided labor shortage on the northern farms, but the southern negro is not going to the farm.

Some of the negroes who have left the South as a result of representations made to them by labor agents, may have been deluded into believing that northern industry wanted them because they were negroes; that back of their employment was a wholesome movement for the uplift of the race. This is not true. The negro was wanted because of a shortage of white labor. When and where white labor becomes available, the untrained negro farm hand from the South must step aside unless he can prove his superiority over the white man. There is no great amount of sentiment in organized industry, either North or South.

Great immigrant vessels are hovering off New York today ready to rush in some 11,000 or 15,000 desirable aliens as soon as the August quotas from the various European countries become effective. Each month this inflow of white common labor will continue and in the face of a slackening demand, it is a serious menace to the welfare of the negro in the North.

Incoming negroes have seriously taxed the housing capacity of various cities. Dr. Norman H. Taylor, acting director of the public health department in Philadelphia, recently asked for ten additional housing inspectors and dozens of extra clerks to meet conditions caused by the negro influx. As many as sixteen negroes have been found living in one room.

The negro districts of St. Louis are reported crowded to the limit and health and charity services there are worried over what is to happen when winter shuts in upon the ill prepared immigrants from the black belts of the South.

Detroit already has started to lay off many negro laborers attracted there during the period of maximum output in the automobile factories, and here again a bleak winter faces the wayfarers from warmer climates. Cleveland and Youngtown also report the laying off of some of the imported negro help.

The negro in the North is in for a battle for the survival of the fittest a situation which never confronted him in the South.

PROCLAMATION of MOURNING

The funeral services over the remains of the late beloved President of the United States will be held in the Capitol in Washington during the noon hour on Wednesday, the 8th. On Friday, the 10th, at some hour which has not been definitely fixed at this time the remains of the late President will be interred in the City of Marion in the State of Ohio. This hour will be announced later and will become known to our people. I am sure in this hour of sorrow and sadness, because of the death of our President, we recognize the smallness of political differences between citizens of our great country and that in a fundamental principles of Americanism we are one people and that we have sustained a universal loss.

Believing that the people of Mount Airy desire to show proper tribute to the memory of our beloved and late President, Warren G. Harding, you are hereby called to assemble in the Broadway Theatre on Thursday, the 9th instant, at 8:00 P. M. in a solemn memorial service.

That on Friday, the 10th, at the hour of interment in Marion, Ohio, all church bells be tolled for a few moments, that all business, traffic and work be suspended for 5 minutes and that all our people with bowed heads make due acknowledgement of our dependence upon Almighty God.

A. V. WEST,
Mayor of Mount Airy.

Ended Critical Situation

In front of the only vacant seat on the early morning subway reposed a small handbag and a suitcase, the latter pressing itself against the knees of a male passenger who occupied the seat next. Another man entered the car and sat down, and as the owner of the luggage made no attempt to remove it the newcomer was obliged to sit with it under his knees.

He looked uncomfortable and turned with an inquiring look to the man beside him, who seemed oblivious to the glances directed at him. At last he could stand it no longer and again turned to his neighbor. "Hang it, man!" he exclaimed, "if you must take suitcases into the subway you might at least keep them under your own seat!"

The other was about to reply, when the train drew into the Times Square station. A woman passenger on the left of the uncomfortable one arose and, smiling, stooped down. "Pardon me," she said, "I'm getting off here, and those bags are mine."—New York Sun.

Heating Car Wheel Tires

For heating railroad car wheel tires before mounting them by the shrinking process, an electrical method is in use in France in which the tire forms the secondary of a transformer, being heated by the induced current. The transformer has two laminated horizontal arms, one above the other, connected by a pair of vertical cores. The upper arm is pivoted and counterbalanced so that it can be swung around to permit the introduction of the tire. It is then swung back, putting the transformer into operative position.

Persuasion

Any woman can make any man do anything, if she can only persuade him that he is doing something really dashing and darddevil. But I admit it does take a clever woman to persuade a man that there is something dashing and dare-devilish in attending a village church.

I never had the bump of ambition. As long as a woman loves her husband, and has enough to eat, I can't see that it matters in what order she walks out of a drawing room.—From "The Lower Pool," by Ellen Thorncroft Fowler.

To Make Floor Wax

A good floor wax is made by melting a quart half-pound of beeswax, set in a pan of hot water. Add gradually, stirring well, a quart of turpentine, and when mixed, a half-gallon of ammonia. Cover closely the saucpan containing it and set outer vessel of hot water at the back of the stove to heat it for ten minutes. Apply warm with a piece of flannel and polish with a rough cloth.
