ment, and yet even this delay has probably itself worked to the advantage of growers in the long run. Director J. A. Brown and others in addressing audiences of South Carolina rowers have put the issue squarely

30,000,000 pounds of tobacco on the market before it wanted it, the effect would have been not only to lower prices on the 30,000,000 pounds but to keep prices lower on every pound of our 1923 crop. On the other hand by our 1928 crop. On the other hand by waiting to sell part of the 1922 crop we have maintained prices and you are getting more money for 1923 to bacco here in South Carolina than you got a year ago. Did the association do right in delaying a third payment in order to keep prices good or should we have dumped all our crop, regardless of price or the effect on new grop prices ?" crop prices ?"

In practically every case growers have endorsed the associations' dumping" gradual selling policy which has kept tobacco prices good. More-ever, this redried tobacco is now in demand by buyers at just prices, for t will be some time before much redried product can be had from the ew crop. Cooperative marketing has helped keep up prices on the 1923 crop and farmers see it and the co-operative marketing essociation is growing in favor daily.

Moreover, a large majority of growers seem to be enthusiastically backing the provision that each landlord be required to deliver to the co-oper ative association all the tobacco grown by his tenants, or else pay a penalty of 5 cents a pound on such tobacc not delivered. "You as a landlord an't put your own tobacco on the co-operative warehouse to help co-operatice marketing and then put your tenent's tobacco on the auction warehouse to kill co-operative marketing," as one leader puts it, or as Vive-Presdent Joseph M. Hurt, of Virginia, says, "It would have been foolish for me to send two sons to fight for the allies and at the same time send two sons to fight for Germany."

Unquestionably the plan is going to work a hardship in some cases, but who gets the 5 cents penalty? The growers themselves. Every time a signer has to pay 5 cents a pound he wil get part of it back himself as wel as part of the penalties every other signer pays.

And what is much more important. the more tenant-grown tobacco the asthe more tenant-grown tobacco the association gets, the more powerful it will become and the better prices it can get for every landlord-member's own tobacco.-Progressive Farmer.

Washington Feels The Severe Shock

Washington, Sept. 2 .- Severe earth tremors, which began at 10:04 o'clock last night and continued for more than two hours, were recorded on the Georgetown university seismograph. The disturbance ended at 12:30 a. m. the intensity reaching a maximum at 10:42 p. m.

Father Tondorf, director of the ob-servatory, estimated the center of disturbance at 3,600 miles from Washington. The tremors, he said, indicated it had been a "balanced quake."

Father Tondoff tonight announced that another disturbance, apparently in the same area, had been re on the seismograph between 5:48 p. m. and 6:50.

The second convulsion he said, was very much" less violent than the one observed last night.

Both shocks, Father Tondoff declared, probably occurred in the bed of the Pacific ocean, and were in the nature of an adjustment in the earth's crust after the Japanese earthquake.

Greensboro Man Pays Nine Million For One Dog

A "nine million" dog!

The most expensive canine that ever strolled about the streets of Greens boro, that is the German police dog that is owned by William Gant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Gant, who re-turned to the city Tuesday after spending several weeks in Europe.

young Mr. Gant purchased his dog, a very handsome one, in Berlin. The dog has a German name and undernein German. Master and canine are nein German. Master and canine are good friends, however, and manage to get along together splendidly.

The young Greensboro man paid just 9,000,000 marks for his dog.

That is something less than $9 in United States money, according to the present rate of exchange. But Mr. Gant wouldn't take several times $9 for the dog that is not remately removed from a real wolf.—Greensboro Record.
