ASHBURN TRIAL ALMOST FINISHED

Entire Week of Dobson Court Being Consumed in Hearing Infanticide Case.

Beginning last Friday morning everything was continued on the calendar of the court at Dobson and the case of Early Ashburn and Mrs. Popsy Handy, of this city, was called. These two parties were bound to the Superior court from this city on the charge of murdering the infant of Mrs. Handy. The infant was found concealed in an out house on the premises of Mrs. Handy one day last summer and suspicion soon pointed to her, who, when closely questioned admitted the motherhood of the child but denied any knowledge of its fate. In her statement told before the Recorder she implicated Early Ashburn as being the father of the child and also that he had carried it away from her home at the same time telling her that he would place it in some home for safe keeping.

It required two days of the court's time to select a jury and more than 75 men were examined before both sides were satisfied it was noticeable that many excused themselves from service on the ground that they did not believe in capital punishment.

No evidence was taken in the case before Monday morning, during which time the jury was kept together under the watchcare of deputy sheriff Frank Riggs. All during the week the court room has been crowded to its capacity by people interested in the case, but the lawyers have conducted the examination of witnesses in such a painstaking, deliberate and detailed way that at times the interest of the public lessens.

So far the case for the state against Ashburn is substantially the same as was made out at the preliminary hearing, no new evidence of a startling nature being introduced. The first day of the hearing was consumed mostly by the evidence of Chief Lawrence and Dr. Wolts, which dealt with the discovery of the body and the manner of its death. There was no question raised as to the infant meeting foul play. When found it had a rag crowded into its mouth which extended far down into the throat. Examinations made by Dr. Wolts showed that the child had breathed and was a normal one in every respect. During Monday the state placed the brothers of Mrs. Handy on the stand and they told about carrying many notes to and from Ashburn for their sister. The purpose of this evidence was to corroborate Mrs. Handy in her statement that Ashburn had been guilty of immoral relations with her for some months, and therefore the father of her child.

Monday afternoon when the state had finished examining Dr. Wolts the attorneys for Mrs. Handy offered a plea of guilty of manslaughter on her part which was accepted by the state. Then it was that Mrs. Handy was put on the stand as a state's witness to testify against Ashburn. In her testimony the woman still protested having anything to do with the death of the infant and maintained that she permitted Ashburn to carry it from her home within an hour or go after it was born, telling her that he had found a good home for it. The cross examination of Attorney J. E. Folger counsel for Ashburn, failed to shake her in any appreciable way. Upon the completion of her testimony the state rested.

The attorneys for the defense are relying upon an alibi to clear their client of any participation in the crime of murdering the infant. Walter Welch, who worked at the same store with Ashburn testified that Ashburn carried him home in his car about the time the crime is alleged to have been committed. The defense also shows by other parties that he had been seen going to his home on the night in question. The case is supposed to go to the jury some time Thursday. Folger & Folger, and A. E. Holton, of Winston, are representing Ashburn while Solicitor Graves is conducting the prosecution alone. It is estimated that the pleas of the attorneys and the charge of the judge will consume a day's time.

Ambrose Ayers, of Mount Airy, is resting in jail awaiting sentence. He was sent there by Judge Lane after being convicted of living in adultery. The woman in the case has left the state.

Will Fields and Geo. Swinson, negro construction hands working near Elkin, were sent to the roads for ten months. They had committed many thefts in and around Elkin.

Buck Reeves ran into the car of E. M. Hauser some months ago, after which he was indicted for driving while intoxicated. He was required to pay the damage to Mr. Hauser's car also $50 and the cost.

It cost Simon Ferguson $50 and the cost for carrying a pistol.

A suspended sentence was imposed upon Carl Cook who is to show exceptionally good behavior for two years, all because he took a drink and then proceeded to speed about over the country in his car.

G. W. Hiatt paid $25 and the cost for selling cigarettes to a minor. During this hearing it was pointed out that it is unlawful to send an adult cigarette by a minor as well as to make sales to the children.

Grant Brown charged with seduction was required to pay the party he wronged $450, and sentence against him was suspended.

Tyre Gregory must not drive a car while intoxicated for the next three years. He also paid $50 fine and the cost.
