Kittrell Kills Christmas Kests

When the Kelly Sales System puts on a sale Mount Airy has learned to sit up and take notice. This was again emphasized in a striking way Wednesday morning of the present week when G. A. and M. J. Kittrell had 150 people clamoring on the sidewalk in front of their store, begging to be admitted. So great was the crush that the doors had to be kept locked until 10:30, the management permitting only so many to enter from time to time as could be waited on. E. A. Maxox, the "Bargain Wizard," had scored another phenomenal success. Each of these joyful mentions of the many striking things that are being done in Mount Airy will be found elsewhere in this paper.

Notice is hereby given that an attorney for Colen Easter, I will apply to his Excellency, the Governor of North Carolina, on the 18th day of December next, for pardon of Colen Easter convicted of murder in the second degree at October term 1921 of the Superior Court of Surry County, and sentenced to a term of seven year in the state prison. Any person desiring to oppose the granting of said pardon should file a written objection with the Governor on or before December 18th, 1923.

This November 27th, 1923. J. H. Folger.

Local Poultrymen Grab Prizes At Greensboro

Cleve Belton came back from the Greensboro Poultry Show wreathed in smiles and hitting on all six. His Golden Wyandottes had just simply swept the boards. Cleve had a fist full of ribbons as big as a bale of straw. His chickens had taken prizes as follows: First cock; first and second hen; first and second cockerel and first and second pullet. Then to cap the climax he was awarded the prize for having the best pen of Golden Wyandottes.

J. B. Minkiff made but one entry and that in the Leghorn class. His pullet took third prize.
