Dr. Williams Gives Up Health Work in County

Dr. L. L. Williams, who has been county health officer for Surry a number of years, has given up his work here and will leave in a few days to take up special studies on public health in either Harvard or Johns Hopkins University.

Since the coming of Dr. Williams to this county his work along health lines has attracted the attention of health authorities in both state and nation and the record he has made with them has gained from them much favorable comment. On this account Dr. Williams has been selected by the Rockefeller Foundation to take a special course in health research at one of the above colleges and enter the work under the direction of this organization. The Foundation gives him nine months in college and then sends him to Europe for three months study on the continent.

It might be said here that the Rockefeller Foundation is today one of the greatest agencies operating in the world in lending its vast resources to the subject of preventive medicine and health research work. It has at its command millions to spend and has a total capital stock of 165 million dollars donated to it by John D. Rockefeller for this work, and last year spent over eight million dollars.

Every year the Foundation selects a number of health doctors over the entire world to train for the particular work they are called upon to do. Last year it called for 436 doctors from 29 countries of the world, 188 of them coming from this country. And about the same number have been selected for the coming year. The fact that so few among many thousands are called makes it a signal honor for Dr. Williams to be one of those so selected.

The county board of health has announced that it will meet next first Monday and name a successor to Dr. Williams.

TWO WORLD WAR VETERANS PASS AWAY

Tuberculosis Attacks Gas-Burned Lungs of Overseas Heroes

Two world war veterans who were gassed while overseas passed into the great beyond in the city last week after making a fruitless fight against the tuberculosis germ which made a relentless war on their gas-burned lungs.

Fred Kingsbury died at his home near this city last Wednesday afternoon after being confined to his home only a few weeks. He saw hard service in France, was badly gassed and received a wound in his ankle. Since his return he had been in delicate health but was able to follow his occupation as a carpenter until a few weeks ago when he rapidly grew worse until the end. Soon after returning from overseas he married Miss Agnes Blackburn, a sister of Mrs. D. S. Hodge who with one child survive.

The funeral was conducted at his home Thursday afternoon by Revs. Williams, Harris and Simmons and the remains laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery.

The other veteran, Fred Williams, died Saturday morning at the home of a relative in this city. He had been an invalid for more than a year as a result of being gassed and later attacked by tuberculosis. Interment was at Oakdale cemetery Sunday afternoon. He is survived by a wife and two small children.

Important Trial Again Postponed

The inability to secure a stenographer in the trial of Mrs. Gaudy and Mrs. Thomas in this city Tuesday caused a second continuance of the case. The court set Monday, Sept. 29th, for the postponed hearing. These women stand indicted for the death of the infant of Mrs. Essie Handy, and for which crime Early Ashburn is now serving a sentence. Relatives of Ashburn some weeks ago employed a detective agency to send men to this city and make an effort to secure evidence that would implicate others, as Ashburn all the time has maintained he is not guilty of the charge. As a result of the work of the detectives the two women above named were arrested. Mrs. Thomas is the mother of Mrs. Handy and Mrs. Gaudy is a neighbor.

Both women protest having any part in the crime and deny having any conversation on the subject with the detectives, while it is generally understood that the detectives claim to have secured some kind of confession from them that will prove them to be the guilty parties and which would lead to the liberation of Early Ashburn.

Looking at Pike's Peak, Man Blows Himself Up

Morrison, Col., Aug. 26.—On the peak of Mount Cellon, from which he could obtain a clear and unobstructed view of a peak to the southward, discovered by his forebear his namesake, Zebulon Montgomery Pike, of this place, declared to be a nephew of the discoverer of Pike's peak, last night committed suicide by blowing himself to pieces by exploding a stick of dynamite. His body was discovered early today by a posse of Morrison citizens, who, alarmed at his absence, started out in search of him.

In choosing dynamite as a means of ending his life, he met his death in much the same manner as did his illustrious relative, who was killed in April, 1813, by the explosion of a powder magazine at an army camp where he was stationed following his return eastward after discovering the famous mountain peak of Colorado, which bears his name.

THREE YOUTHS GO TO JAIL

Elect To Serve 30 Days Rather Than Tell Where They Buy Their Liquor

Some would say this is a case of modern martyrdom for the sake of one's honor, others that it is an example of downright meanness. Whichever it is has been discussed in this city many times since it has become the practice of Judge Lewellyn to give road sentences to the habitual drinking people who come before him, and let them off if they tell from whom they purchase their spirits. Anyway Floyd Martin, Sam Center and Arthur Hawks, three youths ranging from 16 to 19 years, professed to fall back on their honor before Judge Lewellyn Monday morning, when they were convicted of being drunk, by refusing to divulge the source of their liquor and are therefore now resting in Dobson jail where they will remain for 30 days according to the sentence of the court.

These boys were arrested at a ball game a few Saturdays ago in an almost helpless drunken condition, and it required the assistance of their parents to get them home. They took their sentence lightly, and went to jail at Dobson with the declared feeling that they were the victims of persecution.

Jack Mahone's mother appeared in court on his behalf and her pleadings and assurance to the Judge saved her boy a jail sentence for his dealings in liquor. Some weeks ago Dick Butcher was before the court for being drunk and he told that Jack had been supplying him. Of course this meant trouble for Jack. The evidence was conclusive against Jack and then it was his mother took charge of the case. She told the court that Jack was not a bad boy and that his father and Dick Butcher had perhaps influenced him in the way in which he had started out in life; that Jack was good to her and cut her wood and did chores around the house for her; that she had talked with Jack, and plead with him, and that he had promised her to never fool with liquor again. She finished her plea with the promise to the court that if her boy was saved a road sentence she would report to the court the first time she should discover her son violating the liquor laws. This appeal touched the court and so Jack is under a bond for his good behavior and his mother under a solemn promise to report any transgression on his part to the officers. The boy told in open court that he had been buying liquor from Daniel Gwyn just across the state line.

Ottis Maden, Will Tucker and Paul Rogers, colored, paid the cost for engaging in a game of cards with money at stake.

Ed Dawson, crippled shoe repairer, plead guilty to driving a car while drunk and paid $50 fine and cost. In addition to this he gave a bond of $250 for his sobriety, and it is to be forfeited if he is found drinking within 12 months.

Dick Butcher must remain sober for 12 months, else he forfeits a $50 bond, besides serving a three months suspended road sentence.

Wm. Eason parked his car on the streets with the back sticking too far out in the street and paid the cost for his carelessness.

The colored people of Sandy Level had Lilly Edmonds also colored before the court charged with being a nuisance in their neighborhood. Lilly promised to move out, and the court fined her $15 and the cost for her offense against them.

J. W. Jones paid the cost for not having state license on a truck he was operating.

Sam Sprinkle was sentenced to 30 days in jail for an outbreak of cursing on his part that was said to have continued for half an hour. He became enraged at instructions given him while loading peaches on some cars at the depot and proceeded to curse everything blue, requiring the calling of the police force to quiet him. The court at first fined him $20, but this was changed to 30 days in jail when the young fellow appeared belligerent and announced his intention to appeal his case to Dobson court.

Albert Ends paid $10 and the cost for speeding and was required to enter into a bond of $100 that he would not violate the speed laws of the state for two years. If he should the bond is to be forfeited and his jitney license revoked.

The wife of Claude Thompson, colored plasterer, swore out a warrant against him some days ago charging an assault on her. Since then she has repented and when the case came up for trial she told the court she was as much to blame as Claude and that he didn't hurt her; that it was just her feelings that got hurt. Claud paid the cost in the action and his wife was cautioned about getting out warrants and then taking cold feet.
