Hear Dr. Rondthaler Friday Night

Dr. Howard Rondthaler, of Winston-Salem, will deliver his famous lecture, "Knowing North Carolina," in the Central Methodist church, this city, Friday night of this week. Those who have heard Dr. Rondthaler deliver this lecture praise it highly. He is a pleasing speaker, and his address, although dealing with statistics connected with the growth of our state, yet is filled with spice and vim and outbreaks of humor which holds the undivided attention of his audience.

Within the last few months this lecture has been delivered to 77 different audiences in this state by Dr. Rondthaler and everywhere he is being called upon to continue this work of educating the people of the state what a great commonwealth we live in. And his lecture reveals facts and conditions existing in our state that very few had ever thought of.

The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias of this city, which organization was instrumental in bringing Dr. Rondthaler to our city for this occasion.

Men's Bible Class Entertains Women's Bible Class

Ever since the ladies of the Women's Bible Class of the First Baptist Church so royally entertained the Men's Bible Class last fall out at W. D. Haynes' the men have been wanting to reciprocate in kind and they did it brown in the form of a turkey dinner Tuesday night of this week. Ninety people were invited and sixty responded with their presence at the feast which was served by the T. E. L. Class in the First Baptist Sunday School Annex. The festivities were presided over by Mr. A. V. West as toast-master, who carried out the following program:

Address of Welcome, Mr. J. M. Hill. Response, Mrs. E. H. Wrenn. Dinner served with informal conversation.

Address on My Class; Men's Bible Class, Mr. John A. Martin, Mr. E. S. Hendren; Women's Bible Class, Mrs. Cora Ward Martin, Mrs. E. S. Hendren.

Address: Our Opportunities and Responsibilities, Rev. E. G. Davis.

These address were interspersed with humor which seemed well taken by the audience and if laughing is good for digestion there will be no bad effects from the rather unusual fare. It was inspiring to see so many middle aged and even old people having a good time together which they evidently did for when the time for parting came many expressed themselves as having had a good time.

Mrs. J. R. Paddison has returned from a visit to her son Howard Paddison and family in Norfolk, Va., stopping on the way home for two weeks with her son Dr. John Paddison and wife in Kernersville.

A Beautiful Home Wedding

The home of Mr. Jesse Franklin Allred on Cherry street was the scene of an unusually pretty home wedding at 7:30 A. M. Wednesday when his daughter Miss Lillie Eunice Allred, became the bride of Mr. Charles Blane Sicks, the Rev. E. G. Davis, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiating.

The ceremony which was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends took place in the parlor before a candle lit alcove lined with cedar, with a bell of white chrysanthemums hung from the cedar canopy, above, while pedestals on either side held graceful ferns and groups of candles. Silver baskets filled with white chrysanthemums and lighted candles in silver candelsticks completed the decorations.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Elizabeth Long accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. C. Hill sang "I Love You Truly," as the strains of the wedding march sounded the minister descended the stairs followed by little Miss Elizabeth Allred, niece of the bride daintily attired in airy rose organdie, carrying the ring in the heart of a huge white chrysanthemum; the bride and groom came together and as they faced the minister to pledge their truth in the beautiful ring ceremony, the pianist played softly "To a Wild Rose" drifting into the happy strains of the wedding recessional as the prayer was closed.

The bride wore a traveling suit of dark blue with accessories in grey and wore a lovely corsage of brides roses and valley lillies with ostrich. Immediately after the ceremony they took the train for a trip to Washington, Baltimore and points north. On their return they will be at home at the residence of the bride's father on Cherry street.

Compare These Silk Hose With Those Sold By House-To-House Canvassers

IF YOU had a pair of Humming Bird Silk Hose to compare with the stockings shown you by the house-to-house agent, you'd never open the door to him again.

Humming Bird Hose are not sold by any trick "tests," but we can make these tests for you with Humming Birds, if you like.

A nail file can be drawn safely along Humming Bird Hose or any silk stocking, if the file is held a certain way, and will break the thread of the strongest silk, if it isn't. Humming Birds can be pulled lengthwise with all your might and they won't tear.

When agents tell you that their silk stock ings are better because they're shipped fresh from the mills, look out. Stockings made of pure silk, like Humming Birds, and pure-dyed, like Humming Birds, would not deteriorate if you kept them three years without wearing them. And you wouldn't want any other kind.

The real test of silk hose is the test of wear. We absolutely guarantee every pair of Humming Bird Hose and we stay right in one place to back up that guaranty.

Humming Birds are smart-fitting hose, closely knit, of pure, lustrous silk, reinforced at all points of wear. Made in three styles to fit all figures.
