Miss Ada Snow, of Winston-Salem, is spending a few weeks at the home of her nephew, Captain Geo. K. Miss Katherine Merritt of this city recently painted a portrait of the late Robert Critz of Winston-Salem. Mr. Critz was one of the distinguished citizens of that city and members of his family have endowed a chair at the Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, in his memory. The family wants his picture to hang in the room of the college and Miss Merritt was employed to paint it. The picture was recently delivered and greatly pleased the family of Mr. Critz. Prof. Williams is delighted with the future prospects of his school and sees a great work here for an institution of that kind. A sight on the streets of this city Monday was that of sixteen new Studebaker cars in line on their way to Winston-Salem from Galax. Each driver of a car had one of the same kind in tow. The cars had been shipped by rail to Galax and then were being carried through the country, we suppose, as a matter of saving freight. The eight men driving the cars had been carried to Galax by bus. Rev. A. C. Gibbs, and Rev. H. M. Wellman, of this city, attended the district conference of the Winston-Salem district at Advance, last Tuesday. One of the nicest drives out from this city, they tell us, is now by way of Fancy Gap and then east and down the Mountain to Stuart and thence to this city. Those who have recently made this drive say that the view in the mountains between Hillsville and Stuart simply cannot be surpassed. Contractor D. H. Cook and his wife, Mrs. Cook and the Editor of this family journal and his wife, spent last Sunday afternoon driving through the country from this city to Danbury, thence to Winston-Salem and back home before night. Winston looked lonesome, so deserted were the streets of the week-day throng, but the number of cars one met on the road home made the impression that half the big city had left for an outing and made the wise choice of coming this way to get it. The road for miles was so lined with cars returning to Winston-Salem that one could easily be made to wonder where all the folks had been.

An important meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association will be held in the auditorium of the Rockford Street building next Tuesday evening at 7:30. The main feature of the occasion will be the election of officers for the coming year which is of no little importance, since the selection of officers who will take interest in all school work will determine in a very large way the general interest that will develop in the association. A musical program will be in charge of Miss Dent, Miss Dobson and Mrs. Will Hollingsworth. This feature alone should assure a large attendance.

Hutchens Laundry Banquet Employees
The Hutchens Laundry of this city celebrated its fourth anniversary last Saturday evening by giving a banquet to its 30 employees in the dining room of the Blue Ridge Hotel. The dining room was tastefully decorated and arranged to fit the occasion and the managing superintendent J. E. Simpson and employees had arranged an interesting program following the menu, consisting of a male quartette, recitations and a book agent's dialogue. One of the features of the program was a play "Our Neighbors Winning a New Customer," depicting the many ways the laundry can be of service to the public and means of winning customers. The program was followed by a few remarks by Mr. Hutchens, the proprietor of the laundry, who stressed the importance of every employee being thorough and accurate in their work. Mr. Hutchens has spared no expense in securing the best equipment possible and he now has one of the most up-to-date laundries to be found in any small city. He has recently remodeled the interior of the building, installed two exhaust fans for the comfort of the employees and made other improvements that add to the comfort of the workers. The laundry is now furnishing employment for about 30 people, and Mr. Hutchens says that his is the only one of its size in that state that employs white help throughout.

Mrs. Mitchell Entertains
Mrs. Roland Mitchell delightfully entertained with 3 tables of rook in the Woodruff apartment on Church Street Friday evening honoring Miss Lucille Albertson and Mrs. W. H. Mrs. Hough received high score a deck of rook cards, while low score, a dainty handkerchief fell to Mrs. Walter Poore. Mrs. W. H. Albertson was presented with a lovely painted vase and Miss Lucille Albertson was given a box of bath salts. After the playing the hostess served frozen fruit salad and angel food cake followed by salted almonds.

These modern times call forth the master craftsman to excel his best to please the modern woman's ideas and changing styles. The well dressed woman goes forth "ensemble"—harmony in every detail, and her rings—so important, are superbly made, styled and modeled by Traub. The Traub goldsmith, master artisan that he is, has combined in these modern creations a skill and brilliance to make the diamond the gift supreme for "Her". Has she one?
