FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1897.

We enter the journalistic field with the intention of publishing a weekly newspaper which shall give to our patrons all the local news and matters of interest in this section of our country. It will be our aim to treat every one with courtesy and respect, welcome any suggestions on the topics of the day with which our readers may favor us, and strive to represent the best public sentiment. We appreciate the fact that where one hundred years ago news and matters of interest were communicated verbally among the people, today it is done through the public prints and thus throws a responsibility on those connected with the public press which should be honestly and fearlessly assumed.

While we shall be independent in party politics we shall ever be ready to advocate all measures looking to the best interests of our people, regardless of the party proposing them.

In religion we believe with the founders of our government as expressed in the National Constitution, that every man has the right to worship his Creator according to the dictates of his own conscience, provided he interferes with no one else in exercising the same privilege.

Whether THE OUTLOOK will fill a "long felt want" or not we shall strive to so conduct it that like new wine it will improve with age, and failure to receive the regular weekly copy will leave a want that will be distinctly felt.

If the County Commissioners would cause some improvements to be made in the public road leading from Pinehurst to Carthage the social and business connections between the two places would no doubt largely increase. At the present time a stranger would need a guide or take chances of being led astray on the old tramways which now intersect the main road in many places.

We note that the Carthage Blade has recently been sold to the Blade Publishing Co., with Mr. John Campbell as manager. We believe Mr. Campbell has the push to make the Blade a success in the thriving city of Carthage, and he has our best wishes. May he make dollars grow on the newspaper tree.

Our homeland in the sand and long-leaf pine region of North Carolina has the best climate, and the people live longer and suffer less from disease than any other region on earth.

The undeveloped natural resources of North Carolina are greater than those of any other state in the Union.

The Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

The people of the sand belt and long leaf pine region of North Carolina, including the towns of Pinehurst, Aberdeen, Southern Pines and Pinebluff, in Moore county, should especially appreciate the efforts of the Seaboard Air Line to show to the outside world that this section of the state is blessed with about all the conditions necessary to make man's existence a comfort and a pleasure on the earth.

For nearly three years the Seaboard Air Line has issued a monthly journal for gratuitous distribution, known as the Salmagundi. Through the columns of the paper as well as in other ways a constant effort has been made to promote the development of the South, and especially the country in our vicinity, by arousing a spirit of inquiry among residents of the northern states and inducing them to consider the advantages the South has to offer in the way of climate, soil and natural resources, not only to the man with capital, but to any industrious immigrant who desires to better his condition. The success of the S. A. L. Magundi in accomplishing the object for which it is published can be seen all about us.

Of course the Seaboard Air Line is not entirely unselfish in the efforts it is putting forth, but all the same the people are reaping good results from those same efforts. Increased business for the railroad goes hand in hand with the influx of northern people and capital, large tracts of wild land are being opened up for its first cultivation, manufacturing enterprises established and towns springing into existence where but a few years ago nothing could be seen but forests of the long leaf pine in the sandy soil which gives to us the most salubrious climate in all the world and is a perfect preventative against pulmonary and inflammatory troubles.

Again, I say, let us appreciate the efforts of the Seaboard Air Line, do all in our power to second them, and boom our region of pine clad sand hills which we know to be the best in all the sunny south.

Fun from Our Exchanges.

Nell: "Why do you call your dog Claude?" Bell: "Because he bears the print of the claws of every cat in the neighborhood."

Charlie lives in Providence, R. I. He was four years old this month. Looking up from his melon the other morning, he said very earnestly: "Poppie, this melon is dreadful cold. I believe it must have growed in the winter."

An exchange reports that a teacher in a New York town received the following indignant note from the father of one of her pupils: "My boy tells me that when I drink beer, der overcoat vrom my stummack gets too thick. Please be so kind, and don't interfere in my family affairs."

The following incident actually took place in a public school in Chester County, Pennsylvania, and indicates a natural aptness for English composition. Teacher: "I want each of you to make a sentence, using the word 'delight' in it." Small boy (colored): "De wind come in de winder, an' blowed out de light."
