GOVERNMENT OF PINEHURST.

The Method of Administrating the Affairs of Our Village.

The administration of Pinehurst affairs is unique, individual and indicative of the master mind conceiving and putting into existence this model village. Situated as Pinehurst is, five miles from the nearest neighboring town and in the very centre of a 6,000-acre tract of land, it is sufficiently removed from surrounding influences to give it a distinct individuality which is recognized by the visitor at once. Each department of the work is under the immediate charge of a foreman or manager, who has his quota of men necessary for carrying on his part of the work.

For instance, there is the electrical department, the nursery and vegetable garden, the dairy and farm, the livery stable, the trolley road, the house furnishing, the surveying and grading, the department of streets, walks and town planting, the plumbing, and the forestry force; each has work in its own particular line, as indicated by the name of the department, and each is supervised by a foreman especially adapted to the work laid out. Each of these departments reports weekly at the general office to the town superintendent, who is Mr. Tufts' personal representative upon the grounds.

Then there is the Holly Inn, the principal hotel of Pinehurst, managed by Atwood & Sise, the Casino managed by Mrs. Upham, the Magnolia house, the Pine Grove house, the Cedars, the Oaks, and so on through the list of hotels and boarding houses—each run separately and distinct, yet conducted in harmony and with a view to the general interest of the village. By this method each department is responsible for certain work, which it strives to perform equally satisfactory, if not in a better manner than other departments; yet by concerted action the cost of work accomplished, and friction between the various forces, is reduced to a minimum.

The duties in one division varying totally from those of another, causes only friendly rivalry in working out a general end. The town affairs admitting of no politics, bickerings and delays are entirely foreign. If it is advisable to accomplish a certain purpose, instructions are given to the heads of the several departments involved in that especial class of work; all start together, and in an incredibly short time the object is accomplished as a whole.

The hotels and cottages are supplied with fresh wholesome milk from the dairy, located at the southeastern extremity of the farm. The livery stable supplies teams necessary for pleasure of the guests and work on the estate. The market garden supplies vegetables through the store and delivered directly to the consumer. The dairy and livery supply the market garden and nursery with fertilizer necessary to raise such articles as are in demand. The electrical department supplies lights to all parts of the town, and the power which draws the trolley cars from Pinehurst to Southern Pines and return, and pumps water from the purest of springs and driven wells into the village mains and reservoir. The forestry forces supply the fuel used in the open fireplaces and stoves of the villagers, and to the power plant for generating steam used by its engines. The department of streets, walks and town planting, keeps the village walks clean, the streets in repair, the lawns neat, the planting spaces filled with native and foreign shrubbery well cultivated, and the door yards cleared of rubbish, permitting the village to furnish a pleasing contrast to the towns one is accustomed to see in passing through many sections of the country.

In hurriedly jotting down these impressions of Pinehurst the writer has no doubt omitted many points of interest to the visitor, but has endeavored to cursorily touch upon the reasons which underlie facts patent to all. C.

SOUTHERN PINES.

H. S. Davis leaves for Louisville, Va., today.

Park Sullenger leaves for his home in New York City today.

Miss Helen L. Barnard of West Brattleboro, Vt., arrived here Saturday evening.

C. D. Tarbell is putting up a building near the store of O. P. Johnson, to be occupied by Chatfield & Messer.

Messrs. Gray, Park Sullenger, and Everett and Bert Couch gathered material and decorated the Kings Daughters hall for the fair. The decorations were very pretty.

Bert Couch, fifteen years old, exhibited at the Kings Daughters fair a jointed double-seated swing of his own make—a piece of workmanship that would be a credit to a more experienced artisan.

The Kings Daughters held a fair and festival Wednesday afternoon and evening in their hall. The members collected a large variety of useful and ornamental articles, and provided nice refreshments for the occasion. The hall was prettily decorated with holly and long-leaved pine, and the walls were tastily hung with beautiful pictures. In the evening there was a silent drill by a bevy of young ladies. The slice of scripture cake (the recipe of which we hope to print next week) sent to THE OUTLOOK waits on a more vigorous digestion than the editor can now boast of.

Five Serial Stories.

Five strong serial stories are announced for publication in The Youth's Companion during 1898. They are: "The Freshman," a romance of college life, by Jesse L. Williams; "The Gold Fields of the Yukon," a story of placer-mining in Alaska, by Irving Andrews; "Frieda Fairfax, Writer," the story of a girl who wanted to do newspaper work, by Marguerite Tracy; "The Story of a Bee Farm," by Edith A. Fairfield; and "The Making of Zimri Bunker," a rousing tale of heroic deeds in Nantucket during the War of 1812, by William J. Long. These stories make up only a small part of the good things that will be spread before readers of The Companion during 1898. Present readers of The Companion who renew their subscriptions, and new subscribers will receive free a beautiful calendar printed in twelve colors and embossed in gold. The paper will be sent free to new subscribers every week from the time the subscription is received to January, 1898; then a full year to January, 1899. An illustrated prospectus will be sent free to any one addressing The Youth's Companion, Boston, Mass.
