A Kentucky Comedy of Errors.

There is a story of a young lady who was much admired and courted by a young man, who one day kissed her against her will. It made her furious, and she indignantly exclaimed: "If you dare kiss me again, I'll tell my father!"

She meant it, but he took it for the usual feminine bluff to such occasions and repeated the dose on the spot. She ran out of the room to the back porch, where her father had just finished oiling his gun.

But by the time she arrived there she found out she wasn't as mad as she thought she was, and hatching up an excuse for her sudden appearance, said: "Papa, go in and show Mr. Bland your gun. He is a great authority on birds and guns!" "I will," said the father, who is an enthusiastic sportsman, and he made for the parlor, gun in hand.

When her father entered the parlor that young man didn't even wait to say good-by: nor was he particular about his manner or place of exit. He broke through the window and struck a speed he thought would distance the gun as well as the old man.

It was with difficulty the father cornered him a few days later, and explained: then it was a month later before the girl could persuade him she had not intended a practical joke. But he is mollified now, and goes to see her, and maybe, repeats the microbe doses, but she don't "tell papa" any more.—Exchange.

The Pride of Manhood.

The happiest time in a boy's life is the day that he dons his first short trousers. Mrs. Poyser's bantam cock, which imagined that the sun rose every morning to hear him crow, could not strut with more conscious pride than did this little fellow, and he felt the importance incident to his first pair.

Finally, he stopped in front of his little sister and delivered himself of these indisputable facts:

"Sister, you can't never wear pants! Sister you can't never have a mustache!" and finally, as a complete clincher: "Sister, you can't never be a man, nohow!"

Overcome with the gloom of her future, "sister" burst into an uncontrollable flood of tears.

Pinehurst Spring Water.

The following is the result of the analysis of the Pinehurst Spring Water: RALEIGH, N. C., April 5, 1897.

Analysis No. 10,111.

DEAR SIR:—The sample of health water sent to the station for analysis in a demijohn, marked "From tube well system, Pinehurst, N. C.," contains:

Total solid matter in solution
Grains per U. S. Gallon,	0.92
Hardness,	1.00 degree of Clark's scale
Carbonate of lime,	0.00 grains per U. S. gallon
Chlorine,	0.08 grains per U. S. gallon
Ammonia, Free,	.082 parts per million.
Ammonia, Albuminoid,	.050 " " "

Analysis of the water from Pinehurst, shows it to be a drinking water of exceptional quality. The total solid matter and chlorine is very small; and the ammonia, both free and albuminoid, is quite considerably less than is usually found in drinking waters. These facts show it to be a very valuable source for a water supply; in fact, so far as the chemical examination is concerned, we seldom find such purity.

Learn Spanish.

This language has a musical sound, is almost perfectly phonetic, and is being acquired to great extent in recent years. The greater part of our twin continent is inhabited by Spanish speaking people. Our newly acquired possessions in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico should give an added interest to the study of Spanish. Pinehurst guests will have an opportunity to become familiar with this language this winter, as instruction will be given by the undersigned at fifty cents a lesson.
