A Pleasant Evening.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. E. Rogers, the "Pilgrim," and a number of his friends paid a visit to the Berkshire in response to a special invitation from numerous guests at that hostelry. A happy company, to the number of over a hundred, assembled in the large parlor at the Berkshire and enjoyed a very pleasing program which had been provided.

Dr. A. L. Hersey presided and announced, as the first number on the bill, a piano solo by Miss Cummings, which was tastefully rendered, and called forth a generous measure of applause.

The "pilgrim" then contributed to the pleasure of the company by reading the following: "The Parson's Courtship," "Wanted, a Minister," "The June Bug," and "Bill's Tenor and My Bass," which were heartily applauded. Mrs. Maria W. Smith gave a reading from "Dooley," which was well received and Miss Carpenter favored the company with two charming vocal solos. The occasion proved one of the most enjoyable of the many pleasant social affairs held at the Berkshire this season.

If a chicken should look into the nest in which it was hatched and see an orange there what would it say? Orange marmalade.
