THE CAROLINA HOTEL.

A MODEL OF ELEGANCE AND AN IDEAL
WINTER RESORT.

Largest and Best Hotel in the State Will Open January 1, 1901.

The demand for luxurious hotel accommodations has made it necessary to provide a larger hotel, finished and furnished elegantly and provided with every modern convenience.

The Carolina is an imposing structure designed by Kendall, Taylor & Stevens of Boston, and is located on the highest ground in Pinehurst on the west side of the town, and is about three minutes' walk from the centre of the village. A special car on the electric railroad runs between the Hotel and Club House on the Golf Links.

The Carolina faces southeast and is surrounded by spacious grounds attractively laid out.

The front commands a beautiful view, across gently sloping lawns, dotted with ornamental shrubbery, to the village, while the view on the back and sides embraces the pine woods stretching away for miles.

The main building is four stories high and built in the form of a T. By this arrangement every room in the house receives an abundance of pure air and sunlight. At the rear is a one-story brick kitchen, and back of that a three-story building for the employees. At the eastern end of the main building is a fine large music pavilion, which will seat four hundred people. Broad, covered piazzas run on three sides of the main building, and connected with these are four cozy, steam heated sun rooms.

The house, including the music pavilion and piazzas, has a frontage of 359 feet, while the distance from front to rear is a little over 253 feet, and to walk around the building, following the ground plan, a person would be obliged to travel more than half a mile.

The approach to the principal entrance is through a porte cochere and across the piazza to the great doors which open into the lobby. There are also four other portals on the front and sides.

The interior is a model of elegance, with appointments calculated to gratify the most luxurious tastes. There are 250 richly furnished rooms, including forty-nine suites with baths. The whole of the first floor is finished in oak, and the ceilings are handsomely decorated.

The lobby is a very attractive feature of the hotel. It is a light and airy apartment, 60 x 70 feet, and is located in the centre of the building. On entering this room the office is seen directly opposite on the right, and the main stairway on entering the corridor the coat room is on the left, and directly opposite is the writing and smoking room. Just beyond the writing room short passageways are seen on either hand. That on the right runs between a small reception room and a ladies' writing room to the parlor, an attractive apartment 35x45 feet, tastefully furnished and pleasingly decorated. There are open fireplaces on two sides of this room, and on the front is one of the entrances to the building.

On the left of the main corridor, next the short passageway, is a stairway. Passing down the left hand passageway the first door to the right opens into the Dutch room. This is a unique apartment that is sure to prove attractive to the guests. Beyond this room in the barber shop, and on the opposite side of kitchen. This has every modern appliance, including cold storage, and is in charge of competent chefs. At the rear of the kitchen is the three-story building occupied by employees.

The music pavilion is a one-story building of attractive design, containing an auditorium 82x42 feet, with fine large stage and dressing rooms. This will be used for concerts and other entertainments given at the hotel. It has an excellent floor for dancing.

The second, third and fourth floors of the main building contain large, well lighted and finely furnished suites and single rooms. The elevator, four stairways and numerous iron fire escapes afford ample means of exit in case of fire.

The Carolina contains every modern comfort and convenience. There are electric lights, steam heat and open fire places, telephone in each room, bath rooms and electric elevator. All the beds have the best hair mattresses, and all the rooms have Wilton or Brussels carpet. The water is piped direct from the celebrated Pinehurst Springs, and the plumbing is all the most exacting could desire. The steam heating apparatus is unique. The Webster Vacuum System is used and the heat is supplied by low pressure steam conducted through an underground pipe from the power house, about 1,700 feet distant from the hotel.

The orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Trev Sharp, for the past four years leader of the orchestra at Hotel Coronado, Coronado Beach, Cal., which is assurance that the music will be of exceptionally high order.

The hotel is under the management of Mr. H. W. Priest, who during the past six years has made an enviable reputation as manager of the Highland Park Hotel at Aiken, S. C.; the Magnolia at Magnolia, Mass.; the Pine Forest Inn at Somerville, S. C.; and Hotel Preston, Beach Bluff, Mass. Until December 1st plans of the hotel may be obtained and engagement of rooms may be effected by addressing Mr. H. W. Priest, whose representative will be found at No. 147 Summer St., Boston. After December 1st, Mr. Priest will be at Pinehurst.

the left, with the entrance to the dining room between. Corridors lead from the centre of the room on either side. To the left of the main stairway is the electric elevator, with a baggage room in the rear; and next beyond, opening from the corridor, is the ladies' lavatory. Beyond this is another stairway, and the balance of the first floor at this end of the building is occupied by suites of rooms.

To the right of the office, in the corner of the lobby, is located the telegraph office and news stand, and on both sides of the main entrance are ingle nooks.

The corridor at the right of the office leads through to the music pavilion. On the passage is a gentlemen's lavatory. Next beyond is the billiard room, 27x45 feet, light and airy, and containing several first-class tables for billiards and pool.

The dining room, which is located just back of the lobby, is one of the most attractive dining halls in the country. It is in the form of a T, and will accommodate 500 people. The main part of the room is 140x40 feet and has large windows on all four sides. The annex dining room is 60x40 feet.

At the rear of the dining room are the dining rooms for the staff and maids, and the serving room. Back of these, separate from the main building, is the
