

The Pinehurst Outlook

VOL. VI., NO. 8.

PINEHURST, NORTH CAROLINA, JAN. 16, 1903.

PRICE THREE CENTS

PINEHURST DIRECTORY!

List of Those who are Already Here for Winter Season.

They Come from Many Portions of Chilly North and all are Pinehurst Lovers.

Visitors have been thronging to Pinehurst in large numbers for two weeks past and the opening of The Magnificent Carolina, the largest hotel in the Pinehurst System and the State, and one of the best appointed in the South, marks the commencement of the "season," and formally announces that Pinehurst is a well-populated Village. With this population comes an additional need—A Pinehurst Directory—which THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK proposes to supply, by printing a full list of those who are here for extended visits. This list will appear frequently and the editor will always be glad to make any necessary corrections or additions. Co-operation is asked in order that the list may be made accurate and complete.

The first canvass of the Directory agents finds the following visitors quartered in the hotels and cottages of the Village:

The Carolina.

Dr. Montgomery A. Crockett, the resident house physician, Mrs. Crockett and Masters Albert and Gilman Crockett, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. E. A. Freeman Montclair, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Newton, Holyoke, Mass.; Mrs. Chas. F. Fairbanks, Master Fairbanks, and companion, Boston; Mrs. J. H. Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Charles H. Godfrey and maids, New York City; Mr. E. C. Waller, Mr. E. C. Waller, Jr., Mr. W. P. Slocovich, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Strong, Sandusky, O.

The Holly Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Atkinson, New-buryport, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Briggs, Passaic, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Bailey, Chicago; Mr. H. Eldridge, New York City; Mr. H. H. Thompson, Miss Jessie Thompson, Great Barrington, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gildersleeve, Warren, Penna.; Mrs. S. S. Tribou, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. A. J. Post, Miss E. B. Post, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beinhelm, New York City; Mr. Walter Berg, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hopkins, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. H. Nelson Burroughs, Philadelphia; Mr. A. B. Emmes, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr, Winthrop, Mass.; Mr. James Emlen, Philadelphia; Mr. L. G. Hall, Miss Stackpole, Ridgeway, Pa.; Mr. A. S. Malcolm, New Haven, Ct.

Morris, N. Y.; Mr. D. N. Clark, Westville, Conn.; Mr. Benj. Shaw, Mr. E. C. Woodside, Portland, Me.

The Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sanborn, Strafford, Vt.; Mrs. W. H. Sanborn, Greenfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Byron A. Stone, Miss Marjorie D. Stone, Miss Bertha D. Stone, Mohawk, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Murdock, Cold Spring, N. Y.

The Cedars.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Roe, Miss Roe, Elmira, N. Y.; Mrs. George P. Martin, Plattsburg, N. Y.; Mrs. Sarah C. Plummer, Peabody, Mass.; Mrs. J. C. Connor, Bristol, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas.

JACK FROST'S ABODE!

His Only Foothold in Pinehurst is at Ice-Making Plant.

How Artificial Ice is Made and Why it is Superior to Real Article—Description of Process.

"Cutting ice" at summer resorts, is a pastime the wisdom of which is still under discussion; but the artificial manufacture of ice at winter resorts, is a department which has been fully demonstrated to be thoroughly practical and one might almost add, necessary. Naturally, Pinehurst is fully equipped in this particular.

The Pinehurst ice-making plant, located in the basement under the rear of the Department Store, is an interesting place to visit and the process of ice-making is so simple that even the most un-mechanical and un-scientific may easily comprehend it. In brief, liquid ammonia expanded through pipes, reduces the temperature of the air or water through which it passes, to freezing.

Ice-Making.

In ice-making the ammonia is forced from the condenser in liquid form, through expanding pipes which pass through brine, from which they absorb the heat, thus lowering the temperature to about eight above zero. The brine "holds" the cold but does not freeze. In this brine are immersed zinc cans filled with water, which freezes solid in the course of about eight hours. The ice cakes are then emptied out and the process repeated.

For Cold Storage Purposes.

For cold storage purposes the ammonia is expanded through pipes in cold storage rooms where it produces precisely the same effect upon the atmosphere as upon the brine, absorbing every particle of

THE MAGNIFICENT CAROLINA.

The Largest and Best Hotel in the Pinehurst System and the State.

The Berkshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Ketcham and the Masters Ketcham, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Robinson, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. V. W. Eaton, Miss Charlotte Eaton, Mrs. E. R. Ruggles, Boston, Mass.; Mr. Edward S. Drown, Miss Amy A. Drown, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. A. G. Warren, Dr. B. D. Bogart, Miss Annie Hughes, Mr. Wm. F. Kropff, Mr. Charles S. Buchanan, New York City; Mr. H. M. Pratt, Yonkers, N. Y.; Dr. A. R. Scheffer, Chicago; Miss A. Greenwood, Marboro, Mass.; Mr. B. R. Seymour, the Misses Hutchinson, Burlington, Vt.; Miss E. S. Cooke, Westchester, Pa.; Miss G. H. Coy, Mt.

Webb, Summitt, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitcomb, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Underhill, Portsmouth, N. H.; Mrs. Robert B. Dashiell, Miss Eleanor Dashiell, Miss Nancy Dashiell, Robert Dashiell Washington, D. C.; Miss Florence Randall, Bath, Me.

The Lenox and Concord.

Miss Edith B. Bates, Miss L. Gertrude Bates, South Weymouth, Mass.; Mrs. H. G. Eldridge, Milford, Mass.; Mrs. Lucy E. Josselyn and the Misses Josselyn, Lawrence, Mass.; Mrs. J. R. Whittier, Miss Cornelia B. Long, Miss Long, New York City; Miss Lida J.

(Continued to second page)

(Continued to second page)