AMONG THE SPORTSMEN!

Past Two Weeks Have Furnished Best Hunting of Season.

Excellent Bags of Quail and Splendid Work by Dogs—Wild Turkey Killed at Thagardsville.

The past two weeks have furnished some of the best quail hunting of the present season, and satisfactory bags have been the rule. Excellent work by the dogs has also been an important feature.

Prominent among the sportsmen who are much in the field is Mr. Arthur Stern of New York City, who comes for an extended visit and brings four fine setters with him. Mr. Stern is a good shot and a thorough sportsman, who finds his main pleasure in watching the work of the dogs, not in the actual killing of birds.

F. W. Hammond of Clinton, Mass., is a recent arrival and upon his first trip out secured seven birds.

Joseph S. Williams and Fred Seaver, of Jamaica Plains, Mass., came during the week and tried the hunting with good success Monday.

J. A. Hanway of New York and H. D. Hanway of Baltimore, and S. G. Painter of New York City, have been meeting with good success. On a recent trip 21 birds were secured. Other excellent bags have been made by the Messrs. Hanway; one of nine, another of 13, and a third of 14 birds.

Mr. Painter has also made some good bags; one of nine and another of fourteen birds.

A. P. Wilbur of Canandaigua, N. Y., has gone after a short but successful outing. On a recent trip 16 quail were secured and some remarkable work by Nixie was witnessed. The animal winded a covey 150 yards away and with head erect, gradually worked toward it. When quite near the birds she jumped upon a rail fence and there stiffened for four or five seconds. She then jumped down and went some three yards farther before pointing the covey.

Heber A. Hopkins of Boston, has gone after a short visit, and good sport.

Sportsmen express themselves as well pleased with the country and the shooting, and they prophesy superb sport for the future, confident that stocking along the lines now being carried out, will yield most satisfactory results.

The hunting will now be at its best for a month or six weeks, in fact, may be counted good until the close of the season.

WILD GOBBLER KILLED.

Pinehurst Sportsmen Secure One At Thagardsville Monday.

C. H. Cole, Jr., of Boston, Dr. B. D. Bogart and Arthur C. Ketcham of New York City, hunted in the vicinity of Thagardsville Monday, with good success. The result of the trip was a handsome wild gobbler. With the gobbler was flushed a hen and shots were had at each; the gobbler falling before the guns of both Mr. Cole and Mr. Ketcham, so that its killing is a question of equal credit. The hen was also dropped but managed to get away. In addition several quail and a woodcock were gathered in.

The gobbler was on exhibition at The Carolina Monday night, and much admired.
