AT THE MARKET GARDEN.

Under Scientific Management Satisfactory Results Achieved.

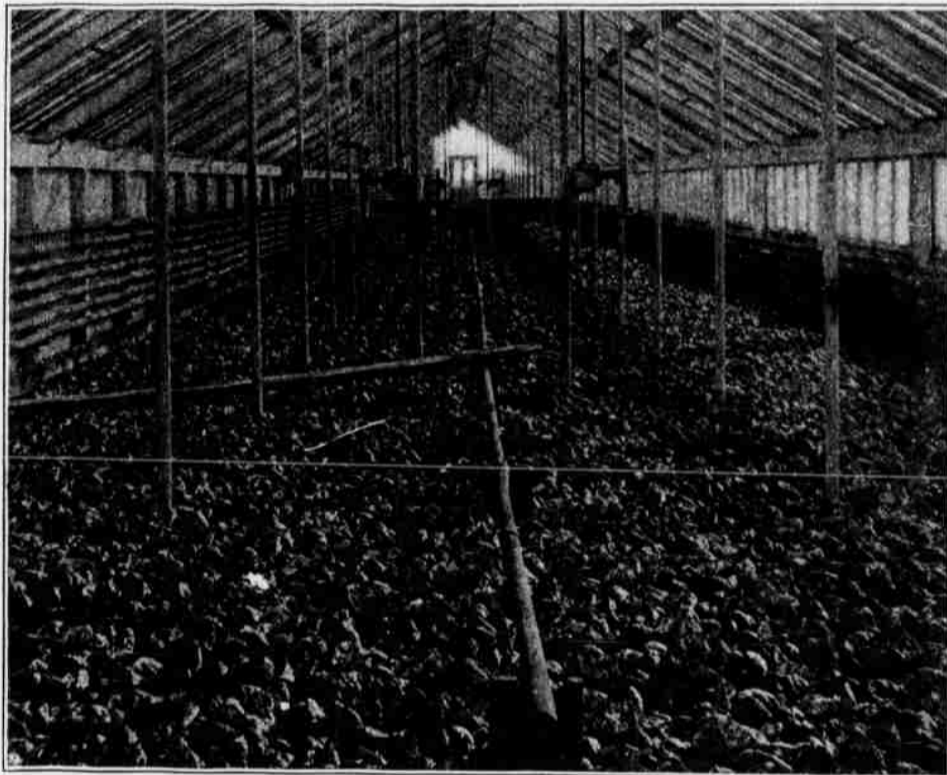

With Increased Equipment Contributions to the Seasons Food Supply Will Be Large.

Under scientific management the results achieved at the Pinehurst Market Garden are most satisfactory, and the increased equipment installed during the summer will make it possible for this department to furnish important contributions to the food supply of the Village. The delicious "white spine" cucumbers, crisp lettuce, appetizing radishes and other vegetable delicacies served in such abundance last year, will be pleasantly remembered by all visitors, and not only these, but other food products, will be and are protected from the ravages of the elements.

Great care is necessary for the hot house vegetable is more delicate than its out-door brother, and especial attention must be given to keeping the greenhouse at the right temperature, giving proper ventilation and watering at the right time and in the right quantity. When the weather is cloudy for an extended time, dampness must be guarded against and when the sun's rays are too hot the glass must be whitewashed or covered with cloth, to break the force of the rays; but all this knowledge is a part of the training of the up-to-date market gardener and becomes second nature to him; as easily performed as are the duties of an experienced trained nurse.

The present equipment of the Market Garden consists of two greenhouses, 160x20 feet, and numerous outdoor hotbeds, but plans for an enlargement which will almost double the capacity of the plant are making, and with this change will come a branching out, and tomatoes, strawberries, mushrooms and many other things, which are particu-grown in much greater quantities this season.

The summer has been a busy one for this department and many vegetables such as beets, carrots, parsnips, onions, turnips, potatoes, cabbages and the like, have been grown and stored for future use.

A visit to the Market Garden is a novel experience, mainly because it disposes of the ancient proverb "you can't improve on nature." It is a strange sight to see cucumbers hanging on trellices like grapes, and big beds of headed lettuce thriving under glass, both growing better than they could grow out of doors under the most favorable conditions. Winter is literally turned into summer, and not only this, but ideal conditions are produced and as a result vegetables grow quicker, better, and crisper in every way, all because they are continually in the proper temperature, have the right amount of water, the best of soil, and are delicious in winter time, are probabilities of the near future.
