EARLY SEASON NUMBER, 1903.

GREETING: THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK with this issue, enters upon its seventh year of usefulness, gratified with the success of the past and confident of further achievement in the future. The scope of the paper will this year, be broader and more comprehensive, and with enlargement and new features, it will fill even more fully than in the past, a place in the esteem of its readers.

THE PAST SUMMER has been a notable one in Pinehurst's history owing to the advancement which has been made towards the completion of the well-defined plan which aims to make the Village absolutely complete in equipment. Marked progress has been made along all lines and satisfactory results achieved. Pinehurst is now without question, the best equipped Winter Resort in the world.

THE NUMBER of early arrivals is a sure indication that the beauties of the early season months here are becoming better understood each year. Northerners who have never enjoyed them cannot realize what a delight it is to leave the North at this time and come to Pinehurst. Nature is at her best and early fall just beginning. One steps in a day back into September or October; actually gains two months on life!

NO DEPARTMENT in the equipment of the Village, illustrates more fully its quiet dignity and character than the Preparatory and Private schools maintained here. Pinehurst is not alone a "resort," but a Village of homes as well. In truth, it has as Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale expresses it:

A good many of the requisites of a decent, simple Christian life, as they cannot be found elsewhere.

THE HARVARD.

Manager Abbott's Ingenuity Taxed to Provide Accommodations.

The Harvard has been open for a month past and crowded to its capacity for two weeks past, so much so that annex rooms in adjoining cottages have been brought into play. The prospects for the most successful season in the history of this hotel are bright.

Mrs. L. C. Fletcher and Miss Bradley of Atlanta, Ga., are here for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Sword of New York, are spending several weeks, finding enjoyment in shooting and riding.

Mr. Edwin A. Putnam of Worcester, Mass., is making his first visit and delighted with Pinehurst. He came for a week, has remained three, and reluctantly returns home to meet business engagements; planning to come again in March.

Mr. H. H. Brown and Mr. A. M. Williams of Boston, are enjoying the shooting with satisfactory results. On a days trip last week, a bag of twenty quail was secured.

Mrs. B. E. Edwards and Miss H. L. Edwards of LaCrosse, Wisc., come for an extended stay.

Mrs. Edward J. Fox, Sr., Miss Emma F. Randolph of Easton, Pa., and Miss C. Josephine Durkee of Philadelphia, come for an indefinite sojourn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Albee, of Allegheny, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Fry of Lancaster, Pa., are here for several weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. Emery Marvel of Atlantic City and Miss N. M. White of Brooklyn, N. Y., registered Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Smith of Norfolk, Va., left during the week after a short but pleasant visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cloud of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Fredk. O. Pinkerton of Philadelphia, Prof. Charles W. Burkett of Raleigh, and Mr. F. Gilbert Pearson of Greensboro, were recent visitors.

HOTEL CHAMBERLIN.

Social Life is Gay at Historic Fortress Monroe.

Army and Navy Officers Join With Civilians—The Recently Established Shooting Preserves--
Other Notes.

THE CHAMBERLIN, Fortress Monroe, Va.—The leaves are falling and the foliage is taking on varied tints, and, although Old Point Comfort has passed from summer to autumn, clear, pleasant days prevail, making the weather ideal in every sense. The social calendar has been well-filled with dinners and dances as the important features, well attended by army and navy officers. Many entertainments have been given on the vessels of the Training Squadron, assembled in Hampton Roads preparatory to the Winter cruise.

Among the most charming of recent social events were dinners given by Mrs. George F. Adams to Mrs. Wise, the wife of the Admiral, and Colonel Story, the Commandant of the Post. Mrs. Adams also gave a fairwell dinner to Major and Mrs. Johnson; Major Johnson has been transferred to take charge of the Army Medical Exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition.

Mr. George W. Swett, the manager of Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, gave a dinner in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Wise and Admiral Sigsbee; Mrs. Grady, the wife of Senator Grady, of Pennsylvania, Captain Reader, U. S. N., Captain Ross, U. S. N., Captain Marix, U. S. N. Among the guests were the Misses Grady, Langsdorf and Stetson.

The first Cotillion of the winters series of the Norfolk German Club, held in the ballroom of The Chamberlin last week, was a delightful affair and a pleasant prophesy for the season.

Admiral Wise, commanding the Training Squadron, is here with his flagship, the Minneapolis. His family is at The Chamberlin. Admiral Sigsbee, the hero of the Maine, who has been here for some time, has been shown many courtesies, both official and social.

Late arrivals and recent guests include: Admiral and Mrs. Wise and Miss Wise, Admiral Sigsbee, Mrs. John C. Grady, Mrs. George W. Swett, Miss Grady, Miss F. Stetson, Mr. George T. Southgate, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Williams, Philadelphia; Colonel and Mrs. Frank S. Streeter, Concord, N. H.; Mr. S. H. Woodbury, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Presbrey, New York; Mrs. David Dunlop, Petersburg; Mr. Frank W. Case, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fischer, Brooklyn; Major and Mrs. D. M. Scott, Major Rafferty and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wagner, Baltimore; and Lieut. Houston Elderidge, U. S. N.

The recently established shooting preserves embrace 10,000 acres situated in James City County, about one hour's ride from Old Point Comfort, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. They are sufficiently easy of access to enable one to leave the hotel after breakfast, hunt all day, and return in time for the evening meal. If one prefers to remain over night, a lodge is provided for that purpose.

The management has provided a launch with good galley and sleeping accommodations, so that sportsmen who desire may leave the hotel by water, enjoying duck hunting en route to the preserves. Arrangements may be made to live on the launch several days and participate in both land and water shooting.

The preserve is unique owing to the fact that the season is unusually long. There is good shooting from September to May. Aside from squirrel, possum, rabbit and coon, in their season, there is an abundance of quail, duck, brant, wild turkey and woodcock during all the late fall and winter; in the spring, snipe; while in the autumn millions of sora afford great sport along the shores and marshes.

By natural and artificial means the preserve has been made as near perfect as possible. The character of the country combines open fields with stretches of pines, free from a great amount of briar and underbrush, make quail hunting an ideal sport. There is probably no section in the east country in which the wild turkey is so numerous. Of ducks in the river and marshes, there are black head, mallard, red-head and occasionally canvas-backs.

PINEHURST DOES NOT TAKE CONSUMPTIVES; WE DO.

We have the largest and most thoroughly equipped institution in Eastern North Carolina, for the treatment of all diseases of the throat and lungs.

Write for our illustrated booklet showing testimonials from Governor Charles B. Aycock, U. S. Senator F. M. Simmons, U. S. Senator Lee S. Overman, and others.
